HIS BREAD RETURNED

He had kept the country store [illegible] years. The sign read, [illegible] Johns, but he was "Uncle [illegible]" to everybody. It was [illegible] only store at the village cross- [illegible] and he prospered in a mod- [illegible] way. After he had accounts [illegible] collected his profits were [illegible] he was able to support [illegible] family comfortably. They had [illegible] pretty little cottage with some [illegible] trees in the lot, kept some [illegible] cow, and horse and [illegible]. They had enough, and [illegible] contented with that and their [illegible] name.

[illegible] the old man took his nephew [illegible] partner. They built an addit- [illegible] to the store and bought a big [illegible] of new goods. It put them in [illegible] quite heavily, but their trade [illegible] and the end of three [illegible] when the farmers had [illegible] ought in their wheat, they had [illegible] to pay all their debts and [illegible] thousand dollars over.

The nephew took the money, [illegible] thousand dollars in all, and [illegible] to St. Louis to pay off the [illegible] and buy new goods for the [illegible] and winter trade.

The goods came promptly but [illegible] nephew did not return. He [illegible] called South, he wrote. One [illegible] days later, the [illegible] received a letter from the [illegible] beside hopeless, expressing sur- [illegible] that he had not remitted for [illegible] last due account and stating, [illegible] unless sufficient remittance was re- [illegible] by the 15th inst. they would [illegible] law on him for the full amount.

[illegible] new bill included.

The supper bell rang three times [illegible] for the old man stirred. As he [illegible] down the walk the wife saw [illegible] was something the matter [illegible] met him in the yard.

"We are ruined," he said, in a [illegible] tone, handing her the letter, [illegible] he did not read it. "You can [illegible] it, can't you?" he said hope- [illegible]

"No," he replied listlessly. [illegible] Surely there will be some way [illegible]," she urged.

"There is no way out," he said, [illegible] as he sank into a rock- [illegible] chair. He looked very old and [illegible] his gentle face was blank weari- [illegible].

"No, there is no way out," he [illegible] said, in a monotonous tone. [illegible] that money we could raise; [illegible] was everything I have made in [illegible] years.

"But surely your neighbors will [illegible] raise it [illegible] have always been good to [illegible] encouraged [illegible] wife, trying [illegible] over her own [illegible]

"No," said the man, bitter- [illegible] people never [illegible] money [illegible] because you [illegible] them."

The next day [illegible] made the only [illegible] that seemed to offer any [illegible] Mr. Adams, the [illegible] lender [illegible] community, [illegible] offered to [illegible] gage every- [illegible] said [illegible] "Your stuff [illegible] worth it [illegible] in my line, [illegible] Get [illegible] good men who [illegible] on [illegible] and I can [illegible] have [illegible] need."

[illegible] man [illegible] home, a for- [illegible] more hopeless, [illegible] down wait dully the [illegible]

[illegible] sat in the shade in front of [illegible] blacksmith's shop. It was an in- [illegible] gathering of farmers, who, [illegible] hearing the news, had ridden in [illegible] learn the particulars.

"Too bad for Uncle Charley!" [illegible] a farmer, digging at the grass [illegible] with his pocket knife.

"Too bad!" and they all shook their heads.

"He's been a great help to this community," said another.

"There never lived a more accommodatin' man," added a third.

And then they talked of how they had always distrusted the nephew, and how soon the old man would be closed out, and wondered what he would then do for a living.

There was one, the poorest and most shiftless man in the neighborhood, who had not spoken.

"Something ought to be done, men." He could hardly control his voice. "It'll be a low down shame to let Uncle Charley be sold out."

"What can we do?" asked Jones, rather idly.

"I don't know exactly what we can do," continued Todd, "but let me tell you what he's done for me. When I came here I didn't have a red cent, and he trusted me for a whole year's living, and never asked me for it once. I couldn't pay him, but I got ashamed and would not buy any more. Well, the next fall when I took down with the fever there wasn't a thing in the house, to go on. I tell you, we were in a mighty bad shape, and didn't know what in the world would become of us, until one evening Mr. Johns came over and brought the doctor. Says he, 'Doc and I just thought we'd drop in'. And while the doctor was fixing me up some medicine, he called my wife to one side and says, 'Mrs. Todd, you send one of the boys down to the store and get what you need, and Jim can pay for it when he gets well.'

"No one spoke for some time. 'Now, see here,' continued Todd, 'I'm a mighty poor man, but Bill says he will give me a hundred dollars for my bay mare, and I'm going to sell her and give the money to Uncle Charley to help pay off that debt.' Several others volunteered to help.

"'I don't think,' said Mingus, 'that it would be best to give him the money. He wouldn't feel right about it you know. It ain't so much the loss of the money; he can make that back in three or four years, but it's just taken all stiffening out of the old man, and he's lost all heart. If we could fix it some way so he could go on with the store and see some way to pay out, it would be just the boost he needs.'

"'Say, don't you suppose Adams would loan him money,' asked one.

"'Oh, Adams would loan it to him quick enough, if he can get security; but how is he going to get it,' said Willis.

"'Well, I never went on a note in my life,' said Haney, 'but I'll be one to go on old man John's note for three thousand.'

And so said every man there.

A note was made out and put in the hands of Haney. The word was quickly passed around, and for two or three days men kept coming in at all hours to sign that note.

"He lent me fifty dollars when I was hard up," said one.

"He helped Tom get through school when I was too poor to help him myself," said a father who was now well off.

"After working all day many's the time he came over to my house and sat up with me when I was down with the slow fever," said a neighbor.

"Fifteen years ago," remarked a prosperous young man, as he sat down to sign the paper, "I was to worthless to kill. But Uncle Charley called me into the store one day and persuaded me to go to school, got me some books and sold me clothes on credit. Nobody thought he would ever get a cent for it.

"I want to put my name on that note," said a poor widow. "I know it's not worth anything, but I want it there. No-body knows, Mr Haney, how kind Uncle Charley has been to us. The winter after Jim died Lizzie went up to the store one day almost barefooted. He pretended to have her help him to count some eggs, and then he gave her a pair of shoes. He's done lots of things like that."

"He is always so jolly and whole-souled you can't help but feel that he is interested in you and wants you to be happy," was another's tribute.

There were but four more days of grace. The old man sat crouching in his chair as if shrinking from the coming blow. The whimsical humor, the independence, the courage were all gone. He was a poor, hopeless old man, down never to rise again.

Two or three farmers came in and sat on the edge of the porch. He tried to be sociable, but made a failure of it. Others came in, and then more, until there were two or three dozen seated on the porch. The old man knew that they had come to sympathize with him, but he could not bring up the subject of his loss.

There was an awkward half hour in which nobody talked of the important matter. At last Haney nudged Todd, and urged him to speak. Todd shifted his position once or twice, got up awkardly, and stood before Johns, trying to speak, but the words stuck in his throat. Then he fumbled in his pocket, drew out a paper, held it out to the old man and managed to say:

"Maybe it'll help you."

The old man looked at the paper. It was a note for three thousand dollars, due in three years, all ready for his signature. Below was the name of almost every man in the community as security.

The old man tried to speak but could only call:

"Mary!"

His wife came quickly and looked at the paper.

"Thank 'em, ma; I can't," said the old man with a sob in his voice. The tears were running down her face as she turned toward the men. They were all looking away.

"I can't either," she said, as she slipped down beside her husband, with her arm around his neck, "but they know."

"Looks sorter like rain over in the southwest," said Todd. "Guess we'd better be going boys."

THE C. P. R. WON.

Mr. Justice MacMahon has handed out judgment dismissing the action of Nathaniel Johnston, of the township of Mulmur, against the C. P. R. for $5,000 damages for injuries alleged to have been received in the Caledon wreck on September 3rd last. His Lordship says that he is convicted that the neurasthenia from which the plaintiff is suffering is not the result of the accident.

WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO.

What Booth's Kidney Pills Are Doing for Markdale People.

All the blood in the body passes through the Kidneys every three minutes.

The kidneys filter the blood.

They work night and day to daily remove about 500 grains of impure matter. If they fail some part of this impure matter is left in the blood, bringing on pain in the back, headache, dizziness, irregular heart, hot, dry skin rheumatism, gravel, dropsy, deposits in the urine. Booth's Kidney Pills make the filtering right and overcome Kidney trouble. Hundreds of Grey County residents have found this out.

John Stedwill, of Markdale, Ont., says "My back has been greatly strengthened by the use of Booth's Kidney Pills, and the dull, heavy pain that had settled across the region of the kidneys has disappeared. This tenderness had caused me much inconvenience for a long time and had weakened me generally. I would take cold across my kidneys very easily and my back would become very tender and painful. The urine would show a high color and contain a quantity of brick dust sediment. I had tried numerous remedies but found little relief until through an advertisement I procured Booth's Kidney Pills at Turner's Pharmacy and commenced treatment. I soon had found relief and I have been generally benefitted by Booths Kidney Pills and will gladly recommend them."

Sold by dealers, price 50 cents. The R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont., Sole Canadian Agents.

Didn't Agree with Me

Mr. Arthur Tennison, 88 London Street, Toronto, writes enthusiastically of the merits of Psychine for all troubles. "For seven years I have had indigestion and dyspepsia. I tried scores of remedies. My room resembled a drug store with nostrums which I had bought. At last I used Psychine, and every bottle brought permanent relief." Psychine cures all throat, lung and stomach troubles. It is the great specialist. At all druggists, 50c and $1.00, or Dr. T. Arnoldi & Co., Limited, Toronto.

W.C.T.U. COLUMN

PRINCIPLE NOT PARTY.

June 8th is the date set for the Provincial elections. This fact has brought forth a pronouncement from the Dominion Alliance of which Joseph Gibson is president and B. E. Spence, Secretary. The manifesto emphasizes the fact that the temperance question is now the great issue before the electors. It calls for legislation that will abolish the barroom with its inevitable treating system. It charges the party in power with robbing the people of their long-enjoyed and never-abused right of abolishing the barroom locally by a majority vote of the electors. It recognizes that the laws in regard to liquor selling have been better enforced than formerly, but this is overshadowed by the rank injustice of giving the liquor traffic a voting strength practically 50 per cent. greater than the temperance forces. It points out that the desired results can only be obtained by the election of such candidates as can be depended upon to do all in their power to secure the enactment of effective legislation against the barroom evil, and who will hold themselves absolutely free from party dictation in relation to such legislation.

Hard luck and hard work seldom travel together.

CAUSE FOR ALARM.

Epidemic, Influenza, Grippe, Catarrhal Troubles, Pneumonia Increasing.

A marked increase in troubles of the breathing organs is noted in many localities. If you will only have Hyomei at hand to use with the first attack of cold in the head, Pneumonia, Colds, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Croup, in fact any respitory affection the trouble will be quickly overcome.

If the attack is neglected and becomes severe, speedy relief will come in most cases and a persistent use of Hyomei will cure.

The directions for using it vary, but the principal is always the same, that of destroying all the germs in the air you breathe and having it reach the air passages with dry medication from the Piae and Eucalyptus forests.

Remember that liquids or moisture is barred from the bronchial Tubes and Lungs. It's the dry air of Hyomei that reaches the spot. W. Turner & Co. guarantees it. Complete outfit $1.

POMONA.

(Came late for last week.)

All are through seeding now and the crops are looking well.

The event of the season is the picnic, which will take place on Wednesday, June 3. It will be held in Mr. A. McMillen's grove, and is under the auspices of the football team.

Mr. John A. McMillen, who has been indisposed for the past few weeks, is improving in health.

Miss Florence McRae returned home on Saturday.

Mrs. McPherson, one of the oldest residents of the locality, passed peacefully away at the home of her son-in-law, Mr. D. McMillen, on May 12th.

We are all glad to welcome Miss Leo O'Neil back to our midst once more, after her lengthy sojourn in Owen Sound.

If one feels dull and spiritless in the spring or early summer, they call it "Spring Fever." But there is no fever—usually. It is the after effects of our winter habits. The nerves are mostly at fault. Tired worn-out nerves leave us languid, lifeless, and without spirit or ambition. A few doses of Dr. Shoops Restorative will absolutely and quickly change all of these depressing symptoms. The Restorative of course won't bring you back to full health in a day or two, but it will do enough in 48 hours to satisfy you that the remedy is reaching that "tired spot." Druggists everywhere are advising its use as a splendid and prompt general tonic. It gives more vim and more spirit to the spoonful than any other known nerve or constitutional tonic. It sharpens a failing appetite, aids digestion, frees sluggish kidneys and livers, and brings new life, strength and ambition. Test it a few days and be convinced. Sold by W. Turner & Co., Markdale.

BOLD THEFT AT ORANGEVILLE.

Wine Merchant Loses $100 From His Store.

James Booth, wine merchant, Orangeville, was on Wednesday last robbed of $100 and a number of valuable notes. The pocketbook in which the money was taken from was in his coat, which he had laid on some boxes in his store while loading some cases in a dray at the rear of the building. Suspicion is cast on a young man in the store at the time, who is said to have left on the next train.
