The Story of a Reunion

Outside the wind blew shrilly, sending the flakes of yesterday's snow with biting fierceness. Inside the cold winter air was not felt by the crowd of girls behind the counters of the large shops. Rather, the atmosphere of the place was warm and comfortable. The girls, in scattered groups, were making the best of an opportunity for a shopping spree. The street door was being open to admit a gentleman who at once attracted their attention.

penalty," he added, smiling. The girl gave a responsive smile wondering who the lucky girl was. The gloves were wrapped up and handed to him. He could decently remain no longer. What could he do? When calmly entering the shop a short time ago he little thought to find himself in such a state of unrest. "Thank you," he murmured absently, and buttoning up the great coat and replacing his hat he reluctantly left. At the door a daring thought struck him. "I beg your pardon, sir," he said to the shop waiter. "I should like to know the young lady at the glove counter where I just made a purchase."

to the North. In Margaret Russell only a few dear friends recognized and sought the Margaret Young of earlier days. "I knew Philip had grown to wealth and position in his own town, but did not expect to meet him in our humble sphere. I knew too, that he never married. What do you say, darling. Should we be ashamed of our humble home, a simple flat, with a room which serves as a dining-room, sitting-room and drawing-room?" she concluded, glancing about her and contentedly smiling. Margaret was silent. She had been so much to her mother and she to her, and if he came—only too well Margaret foresaw the inevitable. She recalled the emotion of the man, and now saw a new light in her mother's soft brown eyes. "Could she be so selfish as to say one word to prevent the meeting? And if well—her dear mother would be relieved of all further cares and trials and be restored to her former position. It was characteristic of her sweet, unselfish little heart that she saw no future benefit just then for herself. "Let him come, mamma, dear. I am sure it will be best," she said, trying to keep down a sigh that would come. Little supper was eaten that night, and the talk was all of Mr. Hunter.

Objects to Advance Interview
 "Young Albertan" Takes Exception to Remarks Made by a Fisherton Resident.
 Nantun, Alta., May 25, 1908.
 Editor Standard—
 (Sir—We noticed in a recent issue of the Fisherton Advance an account of an interview, which the editor of that paper claims he has had with a certain Mr. Rutledge, a young man who calls from that locality, but is at present a resident of Alberta. As we happen to be a resident of this goodly province of Alberta, and have the great good fortune of being acquainted with the said Monsieur De La Rutledge, would be much pleased to reply to some of his statements to the editor of the Fisherton Advance, as it appears to me that the parently agrees with the trashy worthy manager, and is pleased to throw cold water on Alberta and its products, no doubt. Monsieur De La Rutledge says among other nonsense that there have been no crops in Alberta to speak of for three years. Just think of it! Why did the people of the East hear of it before this brilliant young operator travelled thousands miles to tell them? The fact is no province in the Dominion has made a better showing than our young "Stunny Alberta" if one cares to read or look at the reports during the past five years. The editor here remarks that secrets like these do not leak out very often. That is so. Few men could be found who would report or publish such rot as is contained in that remarkable interview. Western people boom their country from Cape Nome to Frisco and round by Suez Canal, he goes on, but say nothing of failures. What a lot of greenhorns these American capitalists must be, who are investing their hundreds of thousands in Western lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta! I am sure, although they are not looking for sympathy by any means, and are looking quite comfortable over the matter. The Dominion Government bets the homesteader 160 acres of land against fourteen dollars that he will starve to death in five years on it. Great Scott! What a risk our Mr. Rutledge ran! The fee is $10, but our good friend says his cost him $150, as the agent was busy and forgot to give him his change, besides what did he care for a little bit of silver anyhow, especially if the agent needed it more than himself, and they told him it was the right paper, sprinkled with water, then in color, too. Most unfortunate of mortals that he was he did not prepare a single bushel of grain offing for the table plunge the celery into cold water and let stand for a year, the neighbors' state that the principal reason being that he forgot to sow any, but somehow or other he expected a bountiful harvest. More farmers of his stamp is no doubt what Alberta most needs, eh? Gentle reader, have you any more, send them along, I'll send them along, please telegraph us when he leaves for the West again. Thanking you kindly, Mr. Editor, for the privilege of contributing a few lines in your newsy paper, I remain yours truly,
 Young Albertan.

 The prize list of the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, Ont., Aug. 29 to Sept. 14, has come to hand. It has been thoroughly revised from beginning to end and in some respects presents a neater and more convenient appearance than formerly. Several important additions have been made, including an offer of $1,000.00, divided into six prizes, for the best floral design to cover not more than 500 square feet of floor space. This Dominion Short-horn Association give $2,000.00 and the Clydesdale Association $500 to the premiums offered for Short-horns and Clydesdales. Several classes for horses and outfits used in business have been incorporated. Upwards of $7,000.00 has been added to the amount given in prizes in the agricultural section. Altogether including medals and cups, the amount given in premiums reaches upwards of $50,000.00, by far the greater portion of which is devoted to live stock and agricultural products. A more than usual extensive art loan collection is promised by old-world masters; by special permission of H. M. the King the Band of the Royal Artillery, Woolwich, Eng., will play and take a leading part in a grand international military tattoo and spectacle representing "The Siege of Sebastopol." Each day will close with a display of fireworks on a scale hitherto unattempted. The usual cheap rates and excursions have been arranged for by all lines of travel. On application of J. O. Orr, Exhibition offices, City Hall, Toronto, prize lists, entry blanks, and any information desired, will be forwarded on the instant.

He took a card from his pocket and handed it to the man. "This, sir, is my name," he said. "I think the young lady's mother was a dear friend of mine. There is a striking resemblance. Will you kindly hand her the card and tell her that if his voice trembled slightly—if her mother is living, I should like to meet her again. Ask her to take the card home and explain the incident. I shall come in to-morrow, and with a bow he departed. Mr. Jones, the floor-walker, gazed upon the piece of cardboard and read engraved thereon: "Mr. Philip J. Hunter. The address was one of which he had frequently heard in connection with philanthropic deeds and much that was good, so, to the vast amusement and universal interest of all the girls near by, he fulfilled the odd request.

It was a pleasant little dining-room, bright and cozy, with a small table laid with a pretty white cloth and places for two. By a little side table, on which was a small lamp, sat a woman, no longer young, but still pleasing to look upon, save that her cheeks were a trifle hollow and the work pale. She was busily at work upon some fine embroidery. Other finished pieces lying about spoke of the work she did to assist the income brought in by her child. A step sounded outside the door, and a moment later the young girl of the glove counter episode entered. The woman looked up with a sweet smile and rose, laying aside the work and greeting the child with a caress. When her hat and coat had been removed, Margaret, with a mischievous look on her face, drew the card from her purse, and stopping her mother as she placed the teapot upon the table, held it before her eyes. "Did you know this person, mamma? Have you ever seen that name before?" she asked her half playfully, half seriously. "Philip!" the mother exclaimed, with a catch in her breath almost painful. "Why—why, Margaret, child, where did you get that card?" and, nervously putting out her hand for it, the mother suddenly sat down.

CATARRH NOW CURABLE.
 But Never by Medicine Swallowed, Snuffs, Sprays or Douches.
 Catarrh is not a blood disease and that is why it cannot be cured by any medicine taken into the stomach. Catarrh is a germ trouble contracted from the germ-laden air you breathe inward. These germs fasten themselves in the tissue and air cells of the breathing organs, multiply by millions, cause sneezing, coughing, hoarseness, dryness and stoppage of the nose, difficulty in breathing, hoarseness, dryness and stoppage of the nose, tickling in the throat and other symptoms that can only be reached by the dry air medicated by the Hyomei. It indicates the air you breathe with the curative properties of the Australian Eucalyptus Forests where catarrh is unknown. The reason you get relief in a minute or two from Hyomei is because it destroys every catarrhal germ in the air you breathe, and its dry penetrating aroma reaches the innermost recesses of the air passages, killing millions of germs a minute. Their destruction means freedom for oppressed respiratory organs. W. Turner & Co. sell Hyomei under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. Price $1.00.
