GREATEST IN THE WORLD Farming Employs More Men and

Produces Most Wealth.

The best thing about farming is that no man living knows all there is to learn regarding it and scarcely any man is so ignorant but he knows something about it. Someone has said that the man who turns the sod may be a Pitt, a Gladstone or a Laurier, or he may be a brother to the clod he turns. How very true this is. An agriculturist may be anything from a fool to a philosopher; he may have the manners and tastes of a brute, or he may be the highest product of Christian civilization. The man is everything; and everything depends upon the man. The most brainless creature that walks on two legs can usually manage to make a living out of rich soil, while the best equipped and most thoroughly equipped intellectual giant finds ample scope on the farm for all his powers. Truly farming is a God-given industry, a divine calling No other industry or calling in the whole world ap-o peals to the affections of man so strongly or stirs up their hatred so successfully. Some people conwhile other people praise the larm and rejoice in being farmers. Are both classes right? Many farms are not farmed, or cultivated or managed with the slightest regard for their requirements, while countless farmers are merely "soil robeither he is going ahead or he is week from visiting friends in going backwards until some day city they awaken to find their soil impoverished or their fields full of weeds, their-buildings decayed or their stock lacking in health, thrift or selling quality. How very often the plow goes lorward in the path | the different Divisions of progress. The path is plainly blazed and he who runs may read. It was not so in the days of our forefathers; they did not enjoy the privileges of the valuable research that has, been and is being carried on by private individuals and gone before, but they have left hand, and he who does them conprofession until it can no longer be gainsayed or denied that farming is the greatest calling in the world. -Ottawa Citizen.

IEW WORK FOR THE AUTO. the Washing and Churning and Runs the Chopper.

Walkerton Times;-Every Monav was blue Monday around the lartley House until Mr. Korman conceived the idea of using his utomobile to do the family washing and now like Sunny Jim the management is working up a smile that wont come off. The idea was smooth one and had its origin under the hat of Mr. John Korman. Brief mention was made of the arrangement last week, but it as then in its experimental stages, with a big family washing staring it in the face. Doubts were expressed as to whether it would be equal to the occasion, and Monday was awaited with an expectation that only an inventor can appreciate or understand. The fateful day arrived and the management held their breath while 60 shirts were shoved into the machine. In less than seven minutes they came out as clear as the driven snow or as white as the soul of a saint. Forty sheets were then shoved in with the same succdss, and in about an hour the whole household washing that formerly occupied a day, was demn the farm and the farming, thrown to the breeze in the rear of the hotel. The machine that does the washing is manufactured in Toronto and is of a similar style to that used in the steam laundry here. After making a number o revolutions one way, it rotates in the opposite direction and so of through space until the washing is done. The gearing that runs the machine is the novel part of the outfit and that as we before said hall its origin in Mr. Korman. Putting helts on the back tires of his auto, which he has propped aip no ice, and all the propelling power of a 6 h.p. stationary engine is sansage, head-cheese and bologna.
