I wonder how many cooks know that when boiling meat—corned beef, chicken, in fact meat of any kind—a tablespoonful of vinegar to a large piece, a smaller teaspoonful to a smaller piece, placed in the water when first put over the fire will make it deliciously tender. There will be positively no flavor of the vinegar in the meat when cooked.—Harper's Bazar.

Some weeks ago a representative of the Ottawa Government visited Arthur and took evidence of the capture of Moir. Several parties claimed the reward, among them Robb brothers, of Nichol township, for whom Moir worked, who claimed they gave the necessary information. Their claim, however, did not meet with favor and they were promptly turned down. After a careful scrutiny of the evidence it was decided that P. J. Farrell, Arthur's chief constable, and Mr. Draper were entitled to the reward. On Tuesday week policeman Farrell received the Government cheque for $500, which was well merited, and divided equally between himself and Mr. Draper.

HINTS FOR HOME-MAKERS.

Old white wash skirts can be made into pretty baby coats. Fresh haddock should be cooked from eight to fifteen minutes. Blocks of pumice-stone serve admirably piled over the burners in a gas-fire. Have a small pair of saw horses made on which to set trunks while packing. To cure hives, wet the affected part with salt and water, then apply dry sulphur. Give children a spoonful of sweet cream immediately after a dose of bitter medicine. To keep wooden bread boards in good condition scrub them with sand or salt instead of soap. For starching muslins, gingham and calicoes, dissolve one teaspoon of alum to one quart of water. Before broiling always throw a little salt on the coals to prevent a blaze from the dripping fat. Cold sliced potatoes, fry and taste better if a teaspoonful of flour is sprinkled over them while frying. Wash lettuce carefully; drain in colander and place on ice. This will make it crisp when ready to serve. To keep yeils in good condition, get a small rolling pin and wind them round this as smoothly as possible. Never throw away your potato peelings, but always burn them and you will seldom have to clean your stove. Hot alum water is the best insect destroyer known. Put the alum into hot water and let bail until dissolved. Pickles should never be kept in glazed ware, as the vinegar forms a poisonous compound with the glazing. Stained lily tiles should have a little spirit of salt put on with clean rag, then be well washed with clean cold water.

That a counterfeiting plant, which has lately been doing a land-office business, is being operated in Ontario, and not far inland, is the belief of the local and government authorities, says a dispatch on Saturday from Buffalo, which adds: For the last few weeks this city and vicinity has been flooded with counterfeit pieces. Much of it consists of counterfeit Canadian quarters and because of this the government will seek the co-operation in its energies to run down the pushers of the queer.
