

PANDORA RANGE

Train up a girl in the way she should bake, and when she is married she will not depart from it.

"My mother taught me how to bake, and told me why she always used a McClary Range.

"Now I have a 'Pandora', and, as with mother, my troubles are few. After fire is started, I simply bring thermometer to desired heat and leave the oven in charge of the baking. It's built for faithful service.

"While housewives with other ranges are poking fire and changing dampers, I sit and read the 'Joy of Living'.

"Peerless Peninsulars"

Are Cast-Iron Ranges Built Like Steel Ranges

"Peerless Peninsular" Ranges have the Drop Oven and Low Closet which have heretofore been exclusive features of the most expensive steel ranges.

They are also the only ranges made with Fire-Box on right or left side, as may better fit the kitchen in which the range is to be placed.

"Peerless Peninsular" Ranges are splendid cookers, are very economical in regard to fuel, are strongly built, and will give a lifetime of service. Let us show you their many features of superiority.

AFTER THE GRIPPE

Vinol Restored This Man's Strength.

"Several years ago I was attacked by severe case of la grippe, which left me with a hacking cough, soreness in my chest and bronchitis. I took nearly every kind of cough syrup sold on the market, besides medicine given me by physicians. I received no permanent relief until my druggist asked me to try Vinol, and after taking three bottles I was entirely cured.

I believe Vinol to be the greatest blessing ever offered to the public, as it does what is claimed for it."

R.E.R. Hicks, Maplesville, Ala.

The reason Vinol cures chronic coughs, colds and pulmonary troubles is because it contains tonic iron and all the healing and body building elements of cod liver oil, but no oil.

Vinol is also unexcelled as a strength builder for old people, delicate children, weak and run-down persons, and after sickness. Vinol is sold in Markdale by W. Turner & Co., druggists.

The light bread or the leaden loaf is a matter of choice—not luck. Choice of method—choice of yeast—but, above all, the choice of the flour.

Royal Household Flour is made from the finest, selected Manitoba wheat, which contains more gluten (that quality which makes bread light) than any other wheat.

It is milled under the most sanitary conditions, there is no other flour in Canada upon which so much is spent to insure its perfect quality.

Interesting History of Grey County

The following interesting chapter of the early history of the County of Grey has been kindly written for the Collingwood Bulletin by Mr. John A. McDonald, of Priceville, who has been a resident of the township of Glenelg for nearly 60 years, coming with his father and family when, as he says, there were only woods, wolves, bears, etc., to contend with. The information he gives will be of undoubted interest to many who now reside in the prosperous County of Grey.

Priceville P.O. was in old times called Artemesia P.O., the postmaster being the late William Ferguson, Superintendent of Schools in the South Riding of Grey in his time. The postmaster now is Neil McKinnon.

In the early history of the place over 50 years ago the people of the place had to go to Durham for their mail, then called Bentinek P.O., or Hunter's Corners, as the late Archibald Hunter was the first settler there.

Being a resident of Glenelg, I will give you the names of all the post offices as I know them thoroughly, being assessor for a number of years of the township.

Bunessan P.O., five miles from Durham and five from Priceville. The name originated from a place in the Highlands of Scotland, as there are a number who hailed from that part of the old land.

Residents. The post office was opened over 30 years ago. The Durham Mills, some 15 or 20 miles distant. The first wagon between Dugald McInnes, an old school teacher, who came from the Old from the township of Vaughan in Country from the place the office is named after. The present post master is Mr. Thomas Gray, a teacher, who took him six days to come from good old Irishman, but still the post office remains the old Scotch name.

Pomona, another post office in Glenelg, kept by J. S. Black, the popular clerk of the township. Mr. Black has been postmaster for over 30 years and clerk of Glenelg for 30 years also.

Irish Lake, another post office in Glenelg, so named on account of so many of the Irish descent in the locality, also a lake consisting of about 10 acres.

Waudby, another post office in Glenelg, named after the maiden name of the wife of the first postmaster. The postmistress is a Mrs. S. Smith.

Glascoft, another post office, kept by Mr. Robert English.

Traverseton, another old post office, named after John Travis, one of the pioneers of Glenelg, and the place is known as Travis' Mill. The postmaster is Mr. Hall. The post office is moved about a mile from the original place.

Rocky Saugger, another post office on Garafraza Road, kept by N. G. Dunsmuir. The post office is named on account of so many rocks in the vicinity of the river where located, etc.

Edge Hill, another post office, named after Mr. James Edge, one of the pioneers of the township. This place was first known as Griffins Corners. The present postmaster is a Mr. Hunt. The first postmaster was Bartholomew Griffin. Nearly sixty years ago Mr. Griffin kept a store and it was said the way he kept his books was by putting a black mark down for every dollar's worth sold, and other marks for less, as he had no education.

Markdale is another post office which originally belonged to Glenelg, and was called East Glenelg, which was changed to Cornabuss after the then postmaster, the late Donald McDuff, being the name of his home in Scotland. The name was again changed in 1873 to Markdale in honor of the late Mark Armstrong, who was about the first settler in the place.

Top Cliff P.O. is near the residence of the writer. The postmaster is Mr. Archibald McCuaig, who is one of the most prosperous farmers of Glenelg. The post office is only in operation a little over three years, and is so called on account of being situated on an elevated place, etc.

In the early history of this part of the country, some 40 or 50 years ago, the farmers had to team their grain to Collingwood or Guelph, but from this vicinity they preferred going to Collingwood, the writer being among the number who often thronged the roads of a cold, frosty winter's day. It took generally three days to give a team justice. The loads would be from 60 to 70 bushels of wheat. Oats were not taken into account in those days for wheat was generally a good crop.

The early settlers in this part had quite a time in getting the necessities required to get along in a new country. The general equipment were a yoke of oxen, a jumper, an axe and a couple of home made hoes, as there was no such a vehicle as a wagon and those who had some knowledge often patented a cart made from a huge elm log as large as could be found. Sometimes they would be four feet in diameter and some less. Sometimes the roaring of the axles could be heard for miles for want of axle grease, and often it would be mistaken for the howling of wolves.

Horses were few and far between. To see a span of horses and a wagon would be almost as good to the little boy to look at as to see an engine to-day with 20 or 30 empty carts attached to it. We remember an old "darky" who lived not far from Priceville having for a team an ox and a horse.

The post office was cow hitched together going to open over 30 years ago. The Durham Mills, some 15 or 20 miles distant. The first wagon between Dugald McInnes, an old school teacher, who came from the Old from the township of Vaughan in Country from the place the office is named after. The present post master is Mr. Thomas Gray, a teacher, who took him six days to come from good old Irishman, but still the post office remains the old Scotch name.

In the early history of this place the brave settler thought nothing of carrying 100 lbs. flour, a pound of tea, an axe and a pound of tobacco on his back from Kelly's Mills, Durham, a distance of ten miles. A bag of flour and a pound of tea would generally last one man a couple of weeks, for there was no meat, butter, sugar or anything else taken along with it.

The late Frederick Armstrong carried the mail from the Toronto line to Durham on his back for years in the early 50's a distance of some 20 miles from his starting point.

The immediate vicinity of Priceville East in early days was composed mostly of colored people for miles and to-day there is hardly one of them residents.

The township of Glenelg has a goodly share of descendants of the Highlands of Scotland as its residents and in the early history of the place public meetings were sometimes conducted in Gaelic and it would be almost safe to ask every person one would meet how he was, to say in Gaelic, "Ciamar thar thu ag duig?" and the answer would be, "Tha tu math gu deamair tha chean sa clann," or, how is the wife and family, but the tide has turned the other way now and the poor old Gaelic is looked upon by some as a disgrace to talk it, although their fathers and mothers could not ask the time of day in English.

In the year 1860 the grave roads were built in the County of Grey.

TO LIVE IN AUSTRALIA.

A story comes from Australia that Tommy Burns, the heavyweight boxer, will in the future make his home in that country. The story may be a fake or it may not, and no one cares. Burns was originally a Canadian, and he gave up that country to become an American citizen, says the British Enquirer. It would not be hard for him to again turn and acknowledge Edward Burnside as his sovereign. Burns is said to like the kangaroo, and things too mighty easy for the ex-hockey player, who once, and only a boy, played in a ball game.
