

DO YOU EVER FIGURE THE COST of a single day's baking—the material, fuel, time and labor—and consider that it is all wasted if the baking is a failure?

Is it economy, then, to use a flour of uncertain quality when a few cents more will buy

Royal Household Flour

—a flour that you can depend upon to produce light, crisp and wholesome bread or pastry?

It is made from selected hard wheat, milled by a most modern process which guarantees absolute purity.

Royal Household Flour does not vary in quality—does not disappoint.

PARISIAN SAGE, Puts Hair on Your Head and Keeps it There.

What's the use of being bald? What sense is there in deliberately allowing your hair to turn gray? Do you want to look old before your time? Give up the thought; old age will come all too soon. Look after your hair. Parisian Sage will kill the dandruff germs, and is the only preparation, so far as we know, that is guaranteed to do so. Man or woman, no matter how old you are, Parisian Sage will make you look younger. Why not go to W. Turner & Co.'s and get a large bottle to-day, it only costs 50 cents, and your money back if it does not cure dandruff, stop falling hair, or itching of the scalp. It will make your hair luxuriant, bright and beautiful, and it is the most refreshing, pleasant and invigorating hair dressing made.

Twenty-Nine Years Old.

The Standard enters this week upon its 30th year of publication. Advancement has been its aim from the beginning, and while it may have appeared slow, yet every year has experienced a gain over that of its predecessor. This itself is ample proof that the purpose to furnish a good service has met with the practical appreciation of the community. All these years a prompt and obliging service has been rendered to the public and all customers alike, and in order to do this to our own satisfaction no reasonable expense has been spared in adding from time to time up-to-date machinery, together with modern methods, so that to-day it has few equals as a country printing plant. A circulation of two thousand bona fide subscribers is a rare thing in a place the size of Markdale, and yet this is the lowest point touched within two years, while present indications point to a material advance even on this splendid showing. In order to retain such a list it is necessary to toil incessantly from week to week in the line of news gathering and in this we sincerely appreciate the splendid service rendered by our excellent staff of correspondents. We hope to enjoy their continued co-operation, as also that of citizens generally, together with a still growing business patronage.

The News Reporters.

The two reporters of the Toronto News who are visiting various Local Option towns in the Province of Ontario ostensibly for the purpose of gathering information for and against Local Option, are still merrily pursuing their journeys. They have already visited a large number of places and published a number of letters with the result that what might have been a useful and creditable piece of journalistic enterprise has become a laughing stock to the reading public.

The various letters of the two correspondents obviously show that the writers are trammelled by their instructions, that, indeed, the letters are written according to the instructions received by the writer, rather than by his own personal observations. This is not true journalism, neither is it honest. The News would have the public believe that these men are out investigating the actual results of Local Option, whereas it is clear that one is out for the purpose of writing something favorable to Local Option, and the other something against. In saying this, we are not reflecting upon the reporters. They are doing well, very well, but it is not fair to them, or fair to the public that the farce should be prolonged. The gentleman whose task it is to write things unfavorable to Local Option deserves sincerest sympathy. He is evidently having a pretty hard time of it, yet, in spite of many difficulties, is laboring strenuously to make good his assignment. Few who read his articles will imagine for a moment that what he says is his own real unbiased opinion regarding the law, but what he is compelled to write in order to keep within his instructions.

When this so-called investigation began, people were at first inclined to think it a good idea. It has become a joke.—Pioneer.

The Late William Clark.

On Monday, Sept. 6th, 1909, another of the old residents of Euphrasia was called to join the Great Majority, in the person of William Clark, of Wodehouse, at the advanced age of 77 years. While never of a robust constitution, Mr. Clark was always anxious to do what he could of the ordinary duties of the farm; but has been a sufferer from asthma for more than forty years. On Thursday preceding his death he was working in the garden and was in the act of pulling a large weed when a rupture of the bowels took place. He was able to be about a little until Monday, when severe sickness took hold of him, and about 7.30 o'clock that evening he passed away. Mr. Clark was an Englishman by birth, being born in Lincolnshire in 1832. When a lad of fifteen he came to Canada and for seventeen years farmed near Toronto. Forty-five years ago he moved to the farm in Euphrasia on which he died, lot 13, con. 6. He was married in 1864 to Miss Caroline Burrell, who survives him, also eleven children, five daughters and six sons, as follows: Mrs. E. R. Salisbury, Brampton; Mrs. Richard Genoe, Vandeleur; Mrs. John R. Dillon, Markdale; Mrs. V. Swanson, Buffalo; Mrs. Harry Trotter, Vancouver; Wm. G. in Ladner, B.C.; Jas. A., in Dawson City; and John, Howard, Richard and Robert, at home.

Mr. Clark was a Methodist in religion and a Reformer in politics, and always proved a good neighbor and a kind and sympathetic husband and father. The funeral last Wednesday to Markdale public cemetery was largely attended, service being conducted at the house and grave by Rev. J. R. Wilkinson. The pallbearers were Messrs. George Hicks, Robert Johnston, Robert Wiley, James Teinpest, Bert Thompson and John McArthur. Beautiful floral offerings covered the casket. Thus another of Euphrasia's pioneers—one of the earliest settlers—has gone to his reward.

EUGENIA

The summer visitors have all gone. A large number from here took in the Toronto Exhibition. Fall Fairs will now be on the go, then after they are over comes winter. Mrs. Jake Williams, of "Fairview Villa," is suffering from a severe cold. Mrs. Johnston lost a barn and contents, no insurance; Adam Smith a pile of lumber, no insurance. Mrs. Johnston has returned from Lindsay, where she has been visiting. She is the guest of Mrs. Jake Williams.

Eugenia was visited the past week with a big fire, when Mr. Willis Deagel lost almost all his season's cut of lumber and lath. A small insurance was on the lumber, but Mr. Deagel's loss is heavy. All are sorry for him, as he gave work this past year to a number of men and was a very good man to work for. No one can solve the mystery of the fire, as he had no enemies.

A number of our young people went on a picnic on Saturday to Webster's Lake. They report having had a good time. The ladies of the party went well provided with good things to eat. Some of the young bachelors of the party say since that they are suffering from some sort of affection of the heart. Their cases are certainly serious. Let the ladies prescribe a cure, they understand their cases the best.

DECLINES TO SHAKE HANDS

With Whole Congregation—Rev. Dr. Crothers, of St. Kitts, Regrets Lack of Cordiality Among His Congregation.

St. Catharines, Sept. 13.—At St. Paul Street Methodist church Sunday, Rev. W. J. Crothers, D.D., pastor, had a word to say about the lack of cordiality among the people of his flock. "There are some people who think that the pastor of this church should come down to the door after the people and shake hands with them as they go by. I refuse to do such a thing. I refuse to pump handle of my arm for anybody. I am not here for that purpose. That is up to the members of the congregation themselves. They don't see fit to shake hands with each other that is their not mine. I am here to preach the gospel."

Dr. Crothers also intimated that there were other churches in the city for those who were not satisfied with St. Paul's.

"Fools Rush In,"

Any man with plenty of money and plenty of money can't get a newspaper, and there is no or more effective way to get both. It makes the experienced journalist smile grimly when he hears the unthinking blabbering of a newspaper editor upon the melancholy wreck of the heart-breaking disappointment in the history of Canadian paperdom.—Brockville Times.

Few people realize the extent to which advertising has been carried in America. For instance, the eleven largest stores in New York City showing a total of $1,000,000 in sales last year, each store spent in advertising a single month: The Siegel, Cooper Co., $3,750; John Wanamaker, $3,750; Simpson-Crawford Co., $2,400; 14th Street Store, $2,400; R. H. Macy & Co., $2,400; Bloomingdale Bros., $2,400; The Adams-O'Neil Co., $2,400; Ehrlich Bros., $2,400; Rothenberg & Co., $1,800.

DEATH OF E. H. HARRIMAN

Greatest Railroad Organizer Ever Known Succumbs to Intestinal Trouble.

Edward H. Harriman, the great railroad organizer and financier, died last Thursday at his palatial summer home at Arden, N.Y., at a time believed to have been the height of the afternoon, but which was not announced until two hours or more afterwards, when the Stock Exchange had closed for the day. No great disturbance resulted from the announcement of the death of Mr. Harriman, for the state of the market for weeks past has indicated a preparedness for such an event.

A RAILROAD EMPIRE

Born February 23, 1848, Harriman had control of railroads with a capitalization of two and a half billion dollars, and a trackage of 40,000 miles, a railroad empire, the acquiring of which outdistances any performance any of the great figures that went before or are his contemporaries, either in business or finance.

WHEN A MAN TAKES HOLD

What Man May Look Forward to in Time to Come.

Dear Mary—Well, I suppose you are working away in your study building every day and are very busy when you get home at night with your little hubby to bring you a kiss and high heeled slippers. It is very nice down here by the sea, but I wish my large, brave wife could be here to enjoy it with me. I do hope that you stay at home night and you know there are plenty of stories always being told about the goings on of wives in that wicked way with the frisky chorus men and gals. I wish you were here to see the less men stenographers when the husbands are away in the summer, of course. I have no doubts about your dear. You need have no fear of being indiscreet at this time, for there are hardly enough grass weeds hanging around to give a man even a palpitant attack of hay fever. I rather wonder how the boys are getting on. I rather think you are a little better in politics and that the "Businessmen's Union" is talking of running you for a city mayor next time. Doubtless you think we poor men are not well posted about the things, but I wish for my sake we would not get active in municipal affairs, because the newspapers print such rude articles about candidates who are running for office and I shouldn't care to see my strong arm slandered.

Don't you think you might get time to run down here for a week or so during August and spend it with me, forgetting all about those awful business affairs which bore my poor little brain so? I don't like to appear complaining, and I try to be as sunny as I can all the time. Couldn't you make my weekly check a little larger? I cannot see why it costs you so much to live in the city when I am away. I am tired now, and I must press my duck trousers for the same reason. Good night, good night, dearie. Your loving hubby. JOHN.

P. S.—I send you a sample, which you will please match for me. I hope you won't be testy and say mean things to me, but I was warning the other night with that damned Mrs. Heavyweight, who is now gone with her family, and she stepped on my toe and the crease in my best blue trousers and simply ruined them. I must have a new pair. Don't forget to water the plants and feed the birds. Yours, John.

Seeing the Clock. A wealthy society woman in Washington had one of those delicate "heavens" which end in her cooking help abruptly. Guests were expected, no one to cook the dinner, so she resorted to telephoning, so she called forth in quest of emergency help. Meeting a very neat looking colored woman, she stopped her and explained her dilemma, offering large money inducement. The woman listened in silence and then said: "Where does you live, ma'am?" "Seeing a ray of hope, joyfully the lady gave her address, to be met with this reply: "Well, yo' jess go home and look in yo' glass an' yo'll see yo' cook!"—New York Times.

Ready to Start. An eccentric country squire agreed to employ an equally eccentric rustic to rid his mansion of its plague of flies, the terms being board, lodging and beer for three days. At the end of this period there were more flies than ever, and the squire interrogated his new employee thus: "Why ever haven't you made a start?" You contracted to kill all the flies." "I'm waiting for your pay now," retorted the wily rustic. "You've got to catch 'em first. I only promised to kill 'em."—London Daily News.
