A British Critic on Our Navy. Every American naval officer could, if he would, bear out my statement when I say that nearly every battleship and cruiser in the American navy is undermanned by recruits; that nearly every ship is simply nothing more than a training ship; that many of the second class vessels have nothing more than skeleton crews aboard; that to put a new first class battleship in commission means stripping at least two second class ships of all their best men. They could also admit that American men-of-war's men to a great extent come from inland states and after serving their commissions go back inland again and seldom if ever join for a second term. Personally I have met with the naval men of nearly every country under the sun, and I must honestly confess that to my mind American men-of-war's men—as far as a seamanlike appearance goes—cannot compare with those of any other nationality. They are what they seem—"landmen dressed up in sailors' clothes."—British Marine Officer in Atlantic.

Canadian Sod Houses. If you read that a family lives in a sod house you may conclude that poverty compels it. But this is not true on the Canadian prairies, where sod houses are the advance agents of prosperity. The homesteader who obtains a slice of that rich wheat land doesn't wait to build a regular house before starting to grab riches from the soil. Even if he were minded to build he would have difficulty in doing it, for there is no lumber handy. So it is better to wait until the locomotive catches up. If you start out from any of the towns which are springing up almost overnight in the fertile stretches of Saskatchewan or Alberta you will strike first well ordered farms and substantial houses, but if you get away ten miles or more the sod houses will begin to appear. It is not unusual to see signs of luxury about these sod houses. They are comfortable abiding places, cool in summer and warm in winter.—New York Sun.

An Approach to Perpetual Motion. A clock is to be seen at Brussels which comes about as near being a perpetual motion machine as can be invented, for the sun does the winding. The following is the method by which it works: A shaft exposed to the solar rays causes an up draft of air which sets the fan in motion. The fan actuates mechanism which raises the weight of the clock until it reaches the top and then puts a break on the fan till the weight has gone down a little, when the fan is again liberated and proceeds to act as before. As long as the sun shines frequently enough and the machinery does not wear out the clock will keep in motion.—Pearson's Weekly.

No Rebate. When Adelina Patti visited Madrid one time in company with her husband, Signor Nicolini, who thought himself a tenor singer, there was an effort to engage the noted artist for an especial occasion. The opera director asked Patti: "How much will you charge us if you and your honored husband appear on this occasion for one night?" "Ten thousand francs, sir." "And how much if you come without the signor, mudame?" "Ten thousand francs."

A Use For the Hyphen. A teacher had just given a lesson on the hyphen, and, thinking that his class understood it now, he wrote the words "birds-nest" on the blackboard. "Now, boys, why do we have a hyphen between the birds and nest?" Several hands went up and the teacher pointed to a small boy who seemed very anxious to answer. "For the birds to roost on," was the reply.—Tit-Bits.
