PLUCKING LIVE GEESSE

An Operation Necessary to Procure Good Feathers.

LOCKING THE BIRDS' WINGS.

This Trick Performed and Their Legs Bandaged Together, the Helpless Geese Are Ready, if Not Willing, Victims For the Expert Pluckers.

"Yes," said a manufacturer and dealer in bed furnishings, "it is necessary that goose feathers should be taken from the live goose if we are to study the health and comfort of people who think they must have feather beds and pillows."

"They say it doesn't hurt a goose to pluck it, but it seems to me that one might as well say that it wouldn't hurt a man to have his whiskers yanked out by the handful."

"The Pennsylvania Dutch farmers pluck geese today just the same as their forebears did time out of mind."

"There is a man or a boy in every neighborhood where geese are plucked who is an expert in getting the geese ready for the process."

"The pluckers, who are almost always women, go among the geese with their hands and faces entirely covered with hoods fastened around the neck with a shirr strap."

"But there isn't as much call for the geese to undergo this rapping of their feathers as there used to be."

As Mrs. May of Birchdale Corners was leaving the exhibition hall of the county fair, a man stepped out of a booth and accosted her.

"Won't you enter," said he, "and see the startlingly spontaneous scintillations of radium?"

Mrs. May shook her head with a smile, however, for she is courteous if not scientific.

"I'm obliged to you," she said, "but my bag is chock full of samples now."

Tommy-Pop, which is correct, "I shall" or "I will" Tommy's Pop—it depends on the sex, my son. A man says "I shall" and a woman says "I will."—Philadelphia Record.
