This Explains It.

I asked a physician if there really was any structural difference between the tongue of a woman and has for many years been a faithful annan. "Certainly," he replied, and valued member of the choir, "the organ is attached to the floor with this watch, and assure you of the mouth at one extremity, individually and collectively, of our and it is a fact that in the females the controlling muscles are much more pliable than in males. ### Sheep Go Mad

An interesting case is reported from Amabel, where sheep worried by dogs have developed symptoms of rabies. Three of the sheep after the escapade with the dogs, carried on very peculiarly, tearing the wool from each other and otherwise displaying evidences of madness. Later one of them died. The sheep belonged to Mr. Johnston Currie. Dr. McEwan, of this town, was notified of the occurrence, and requested that the head of the dead animal be forwarded to him, that he might send it to the authorities at Ottawa for examination.-Wiarton Canadian.
