Chicago, Ill., April 25—Guests and employees of a downtown hotel Saturday night were interested in a white hen that has a clearly defined nose and lips in place of the beak or a chicken, and feet like knobs instead of claws. 'The chicken is nine months old,' said Michael Singer, one of the hotel proprietors, who owns the fowl, 'and has to eat from the hand, being unable to pick food, like other chickens. It cannot scratch, and does not cackle—nor make other noises like a chicken. It has laid two eggs, both of which were flat on one side and of extraordinary size.'

Here is a Strange Hen.

HOLMES IS CAUGHT

Edward burg Murderer Peaceably Captured Near Home

SAYS DEVIL PROMPTED HIM

Slayer of Nathan Bolton Ascribes His Crime to a Mad Impulse Which Overcame Him — Preliminary Hearing Is Proceeded With at Brockville—Holmes Is a Mental and Physical Wreck.

Brockville, April 25.—Contrary to general expectation, Albert Holmes, the slayer of Nathan Bolton, the Edwardburg farmer, was taken alive on Saturday near the scene of the crime. His arrest was effected by G.T.R. section men who found the accused towards evening sitting on a pile of ties beside the track. Shortly before, the man came out of his hiding place, apparently relieved at being discovered and quietly submitted to arrest. He was delivered over to the authorities at Cardinal and arrangements promptly made for a preliminary trial.

The evidence adduced was along the line of that given at the inquest on Friday, the leading witness being Ethel Holmes, daughter of the prisoner, who first discovered the crime and gave the alarm. She was sitting alone in the kitchen adjoining the shed where Holmes and Bolton were cutting up a pig. There was no altercation as far as she could hear, but groans attracted her attention, and on opening the door looking into the shed she made the gruesome discovery of Bolton in the throes of death lying on the floor with his skull crushed in by two blows from an axe, his hair covered with blood. Her father was not to be seen, having passed out into the yard en route to the woods.

Magistrate Clark made out the committal for a charge of murder, and a constable brought Holmes to the Brockville County jail to await his trial. Holmes is a mental and physical wreck. In fact he is so weak that he has been unable to leave his bed since coming to the jail and is under the care of a physician with a constant guard to avoid any attempt at suicide. Though very reticent he states that after entering the swamp, on the edge of which he conversed with a boy named Peter, he never came into the open again until Saturday. Constables and neighbors passed close to him on several occasions, but he had no difficulty hiding in the thick brush. His clothing was torn and water-soaked, and altogether the murderer presented a completely changed appearance from what had characterized his make-up a few days before.

Holmes attributes his act to the promptings of Satan, the evil one telling him to raise the axe and slay Bolton, which he did, on the impulse of the moment. He realizes the enormity of the crime, which is preying on his mind to the extent of insane frenzy. He is in a very despondent mood, unable to sleep, and stubbornly refuses to eat even the most tempting dishes. He gives vent to his mental anguish by loud outcries and moaning, but apparently cannot weep. The prisoner passes on no conversation with his guard. He is a tall strapping man in the circumstances of his age 33.

The funeral of the murdered man was held yesterday afternoon. It was one of the largest seen in the Township of Edwardburg in many years.
