Canada's Next Census of Population.

The next census of Canada will be taken under date of June 1st, 1911, and will embrace the subjects of population, mortality, agriculture, manufactures, minerals, fisheries and dairy products.

Population will be recorded under the heads of residence and personal description; citizenship, nationality and religion; profession, occupation and trade or means of living; wage-earnings and insurance; education and language spoken, and infirmities.

Every person living on 1st June will be entered on the schedule of population by name, as member of a family, institution or household, together with place of habitation, sex, relationship to head of the family or household, and whether single, married, widowed, divorced or legally separated.

Entries will be made for each person to show the country or place of birth, year of immigration to Canada if born elsewhere, year of naturalization if formerly an alien, and also racial or tribal origin, nationality and religion. Every person of Alien birth who has become a naturalized citizen is a Canadian, by nationality, and every British subject with residence in Canada, as well as every native of Canada who has acquired citizenship by birth or naturalization, is also a Canadian by nationality.

Every person having an occupation or trade will be entered for it, but if employed in the census year at some other occupation for part or whole time he will be so recorded also. If the person is working on own account, the entry will be so made. An entry is also required to be made showing where the person is employed, as on farm, in woollen mill, at foundry shop, in drug store, etc.

Wage-earners are entered to show the number of weeks employed in 1910 at chief occupation or trade, at other than chief occupation if any; the hours of working time per week at chief occupation, or at other occupation if any; the total earnings in 1910 at chief occupation; the total earnings at other than chief occupation; and the rate per hour when employed by the hour.

Entries are required to be made for each person showing the amount of insurance held at date of the census upon life, as well as against accident or sickness, together with the cost of such insurance in the census year.

Under the heading of education and language records will be taken for every person of five years of age and over showing the number of months at school in 1910, and if the person can read and write, and the language commonly spoken by each person. The cost of education in 1910 for persons over 16 years of age at College, Convent or University is also called for.

The last question on the schedule of Population relates to infirmities. It calls for a record of each person having an infirmity. If blind, deaf and dumb, crazy or lunatic, idiotic or silly, a record thereof will be made in the proper column, and the age at which the infirmity appeared is required to be specified.

Editorial Notes.

The price of platinum is now $36 an ounce, having jumped $2.50 in the last few days. It is fortunate that most people have not yet been educated to living on a platinum basis, but can continue to use such lowly metals as silver and gold.

A schoolmaster at Munster gives the following inventory of the contents of one of his pupil's pockets: A hammer, two pencils, a brick, five yards of string, two ice-cream plates, three spoons, marbles, a whistle, a large key, a slate, a pocket mirror, buttons, postage stamps, a violin string, a mask, two story books and a horse shoe.

A plea is made for "the wider opening of the schoolhouse door," and it is well made. Indeed, it may profitably be considered whether the schoolhouse door should not be not only wide open but also always open, instead of a few hours a day five days a week for forty weeks, at all reasonable hours every day for fifty-two weeks in the year. Some useful activities could surely be devised for every hour.

"The present high prices of food," said an elderly man, "remind me of the agitation over the introduction of harvesting machinery. People thought it would throw a great many farm laborers out of work and ruin the industry generally. So bitter was the feeling that several factories for the making of these implements were burned down by incendiaries. Now machinery is employed on the farm to an extent never dreamed of then, yet agricultural labour is scarce, even at high wages, and the products bring better prices than ever before."

The great fires in the Rainy River territory, among other things, burned into invisibility and a memory the geography between Canada and the States, and all the race, religious, political and social lines in the two communities. Winnipeg and Kenora sent in foods and tents and the Americans were the beneficiaries equally with the Canadians. No one had to present a ticket to get a tent or a cup of tea. Everything was as free as the air to everybody. If the fire was war, in the Sherman sense, it licked up and levelled all the international barriers and aroused a glow of reciprocating gratitude in the light of which the millions of material loss may yet show to have been but an insignificant outlay.

Whatever hardships Ireland suffered in old times from English hands, says the Montreal Witness, everyone knows that they have been amply atoned for by British statesmen of recent generations. "Thirty years ago," said Mr. O'Connor the other day, "Ireland was a land of paupers and slaves, while now it has become a land of prosperous and free men." This has come about through the land acts, which are the most wonderful in the world. Through loans of British money, numberless Irish tenants have become possessors of the land they had held on the sufferance of landlords. To name only one other blessing that has recently come to Ireland, thousands of poor Irish men and women, who through one reason or another, had been unable to provide a competence for their old age, have been saved from the poorhouse or from dependence on charity by the receipt of a government pension—and this also has been done by Saxon gold.
