I'm the Cream of the West Miller, and I'll tell you what I'll do—I'll guarantee your next batch of bread

I WILL guarantee it to rise away up out of the pans, and make as delicious bread as you ever tasted. The loaves will be the biggest and most wholesome you ever baked with the same amount of flour. I'll guarantee it or you get back the money you paid for the flour! Now see:

Just go to your grocer and buy a bag of Cream of the West Flour. Take it home and bake it up.

Give it a trial.

Give it a couple of trials. Your oven or yeast might not be just right the first time.

Now when you give it a fair trial, if you honestly feel that you have not had splendid satisfaction with Cream of the West Flour, return the unused portion of the bag and get your money back.

Just tell the store man your bread didn't come out right and you want your money back as guaranteed.

It's not the grocery man who loses. It doesn't come out of his pocket. It is the Campbell Milling Company, Limited, of Toronto, who pay, and they are satisfied to pay if you'll be satisfied to try Cream of the West Flour.

Ask your store-keeper about this guarantee. He knows. He will tell you. Try a bag next baking day.

Cream of the West Flour

The hard wheat flour that is guaranteed for bread

Guarantee

WE hereby affirm and declare that Cream of the West Flour is a superior bread flour, and as such is subject to our absolute guarantee of money back if not satisfactory after a fair trial. Any dealer is hereby authorized to return price paid by customer on return of unused portion of bag if the flour is not as represented.

Public Guarantee.

That most beautiful picture entitled "Home Again," has brought such an enormous amount of new subscriptions to the Family Herald and Weekly Star, that the publishers are finding it impossible to keep up with the filling of orders, but in the columns of that paper this week we notice a positive guarantee from the Publishers that every subscriber to that great weekly for 1912 will receive a copy of the picture, "Home Again." Their guarantee is sufficient, and subscribers need not feel anxious although the picture may be delayed for a few weeks. Those who have not yet subscribed to The Family Herald and Weekly Star should do so at once and make sure of having a copy of the picture "Home Again." We learn that the Publishers are contemplating something for next season that will make this picture even more valuable than at present. One dollar pays for a full year's subscription to the paper, and the picture.

Best Cure For Skin Sores

IS ZAM-BUK.

An illustration of the way in which Zam-Buk cures even the most serious and chronic cases of ulcers, eruptions and sores is provided by Mr. R. H. Barker, of Glencairn, Ont. He says:

"I would not have believed that any remedy could cure so quickly and at the same time so effectively, as Zam-Buk cured me.

"My face became covered with a kind of rash, which itched and irritated. This rash then turned to sores, which discharged freely and began to spread. I first tried one thing and then another, but nothing seemed to do me any good, and the eruption got worse and worse, until my face was just covered with running sores.

"Apart from the pain (which was very bad), my face was such a terrible sight that I was not fit to go out. This was my state when some one advised me to try Zam-Buk. I got a supply, and, marvellous as it may sound, within little under a month every sore on my face was healed. I was so amazed that I have told the facts to several persons, and I have no objection to your stating my experience for the benefit of other sufferers."

Zam-Buk is purely herbal in composition, and is the ideal balm for babies and young children, for whose tender skin coarse ointments are so dangerous. Zam-Buk is a sure cure for cold sores, chapped hands, frost bite, blood-poison, varicose sores, piles, scalp sores, ringworm, inflamed patches, babies' eruptions and chapped places, cuts, burns, bruises and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. Refuse harmful substitutes.

By-Law No. 609, Section 22.

For the Guidance of Overseers of Highways in Artemesia.

Every overseer of highways shall when any leading road or highway in his road division becomes unsafe for public travel, or is obstructed thereby or by reason of the same being filled up by snow, cause a proper track to be kept open in or near the said road.

In case of any such sudden obstruction by snow or otherwise or damage on the roads it shall be the duty of the overseer in each road division and he is hereby given full power at any time during the year after the statute labor has been performed, to call out as many persons liable to perform statute labor in his road division as may be required to repair such damage or to remove such obstruction, and he shall forthwith make a return to the Clerk of the municipality stating the number of days work performed by each person, and such person shall be allowed therefor the following season, and any person failing or refusing to assist to remove any such obstruction or repairing any such damage when so required by the overseer, having had at least two hours' notice, shall be liable to the same penalties as are prescribed in the sixteenth section of this by-law. (Section 16 is a fine of not less than one dollar nor more than twenty dollars.)

The above By-law I believe to be in force in our Township.

JAPAN'S WOMEN DIVERS.

In the Water and Learn to Swim Almost From Babyhood.

The pearl divers of Japan are women. Along the coast of the bay of Ago and the bay of Kowashio the thirteen and fourteen-year-old girls after they have finished their primary school work go to sea and learn to dive.

They are in the water and learn to swim almost from babyhood and spend most of their time in the water except in the coldest season, from the end of December to the beginning of February. Even during the most inclement of seasons they sometimes dive for pearls.

They wear a special dress, white underwear and the hair twisted up into a hard knot. The eyes are protected by glasses to prevent the entrance of water. Tubs are suspended from the waist. A boat in command of a man is assigned to every five or ten women divers to carry them to and from the fishing grounds.

When the divers arrive on the grounds they leap into the water at once and begin to gather oysters at the bottom. The oysters are dropped into tubs suspended from their waists. When these vessels are filled the divers are raised to the surface and jump into the boats. They dive to a depth of from five to thirty fathoms without any special apparatus and retain their breath from one to three minutes.

Their ages vary from thirteen to forty years, and between twenty-five and thirty-five they are at their prime. —Oriental Review.

DO NOT BE A LEANER.

Learn to Be Self Reliant and Strong and Original.

Power is the goal of every worthy ambition, and only weakness comes from imitation or dependence on others, says Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine. Power is self developed, self generated. We cannot increase the strength of our muscles by sitting in a gymnasium and letting another exercise for us.

Nothing else so destroys the power to stand alone as the habit of leaning upon others. If you lean you will never be strong or original. Stand alone or bury your ambition to be somebody in the world.

The man who tries to give his children a start in the world so that they will not have so hard a time as he had is unknowingly bringing disaster upon them. What he calls giving them a start will probably give them a set back in the world. Young people need all the motive power they can get. They are naturally leaners, imitators, copiers, and it is easy for them to develop into echoes or imitations. They will not walk alone while you furnish crutches; they will lean upon you just as long as you will let them.

One of the greatest delusions that a human being could ever have is that he is permanently benefited by continued assistance from others.

Napoleon at Waterloo.

The question, "Was Napoleon himself at the battle of Waterloo?" does not admit of a flat answer. He was not himself physically. The dread disease of which six years later he died was at work upon him, and the physical decay, while it in no way affected his mind, told heavily upon his will. It was, for instance, observed that during his last campaign he was often found to be in a sleepy mood, that he talked instead of acting, that he frequently asked for the opinions of others, a thing that he had rarely been known to do before, and that he seemed quite often to waver in his resolution, whereas he had always been noted for the rapidity of his decisions. Mentally it was the same old Napoleon, but the great intellect was sorely handicapped by the stomach trouble that was so soon to kill him.—New York American.

Raisin Bread.

Incorporated with bread raisins constitute a valuable diet and help out the meat problem. It is stated that the raisin contains nearly 5 per cent protein and over 65 per cent carbohydrates and therefore is a very important energizing food. For invalids and children raisin bread is invaluable, says Life and Health. The simplicity of the loaf makes it an ideal substitute for the lard, butter, sugar, egg, cream and citron laden cake. It is therefore an important addition to the domestic menu, and the woman who has her children's health at heart will see that at each baking two or three loaves are well filled with raisins, kneading them in just before the loaves are put into the pans.

How Kaffirs Treat Children.

All travelers and magistrates testify to the unbounded kindness to children shown by the Kaffirs in their own kraals. Such a thing as a deserted Kaffir child is unknown, and the elder people put up with all the little annoyances of children with exemplary good humor. Actual cruelty to Kaffir children is practically unknown. — Diamond Field Advertiser.

Good Cooks.

"If all sick people had good cooks," says the London hospital, "how much greater might be the proportions of recoveries!" The value of the patent foods which are advertised so much lies largely, it says, in the ease with which they are prepared for the table.

Misfits at the Bargain Sale.

Nell—I stopped in at a bargain sale today. Belle—Did you see anything that looked real cheap? Nell—Yes; several men waiting for their wives.—Philadelphia Ledger.

HANDEL'S TEMPER.

Sorely Tried by a Joker Who Knew the Composer's Weakness.

The celebrated composer Handel had such a remarkable irritation of nerves that he could not bear to hear the tuning of instruments, and therefore this was always done before he arrived at the theater.

A musical wag who knew how to extract some mirth from Handel's irascibility of temper stole into the orchestra on a night when the Prince of Wales was to be present and untuned all the instruments. As soon as the prince arrived Handel gave the signal of beginning, con spirito, but such was the horrible discord that the enraged musician started up from his seat, and, having overturned a double bass, which stood in his way, he seized a kettledrum, which he threw with such violence at the leader of the band that he lost his full bottomed wig in the effort.

Without waiting to replace it he advanced bareheaded to the front of the orchestra, breathing vengeance, but so much choked with passion that utterance was denied him. In this ridiculous attitude he stood staring and stamping for some moments amid a convulsion of laughter, nor could he be prevailed upon to resume his seat until the prince went in person and appeased his wrath.

THE PLANET MARS.

Its Orbit and Its Distance From the Sun and Earth.

While the astronomers are still debating and weighing the problem of Mars and its inhabitants a few words about the distance of the planet from the sun and earth may be of interest.

The average distance of Mars from the sun is 141,500,000 miles. The distance from earth to sun is 93,000,000 miles. When sun, earth and Mars are in line, with the sun and Mars on opposite sides of the earth, Mars is said to be in "opposition," and it is then closest to the earth. If earth and Mars both moved in circles about the sun the distance from earth to Mars at opposition would be forty-eight and a half (141½—93) million miles. But neither of the orbits is circular, that of Mars being much more elliptical than that of the earth, with the result that at opposition Mars may be as far away as 61,000,000 miles from the earth when there is an unfavorable opposition, or Mars may come as close as 35,000,000 miles away, when it is as near as it can possibly come to the earth, and its opposition is then the most favorable possible. At such times Mars is brightest in the sky and appears of greatest size.—New York World.

Biggest of Cannibal Banquets.

Probably the biggest cannibal orgy on record is one of which Miss Beatrice Grimshaw tells in her book "The New New Guinea." "In 1858 a shipload of Chinamen was being taken down to Australia. The vessel was wrecked upon a reef close to Rossel Island (New Guinea). The officers escaped in boats, but were never afterward heard of. As for the Chinamen, numbering 326, the natives captured them and put them on a small barren island, where they had no food and no means of getting away. They kept their prisoners supplied with food from the mainland and every now and then carried away a few of them to eat until all but one old man had been devoured. This one succeeded eventually in getting away and told something of the story, which seems to have met with general disbelief. True it is, however, on the evidence of the sons of those who did the deed."

Know What He Was Doing.

The stalwart policeman who guards the traffic at Euclid and a cross street rescued a well dressed old gentleman from beneath the very wheels of an automobile.

"Officer," said the rescued man, "are you married?"

"No, sir," answered the policeman.

"Ah, well, you will hear from me in a day or two nevertheless."

After he had gone a friend of the officer asked: "Tom, why did you tell the old guy that you wasn't married? You've got a wife an' kid at home, and I know it."

"Sure I have. But if I'd told him so he'd have sent me a ham or a basket of grapes. As it is he'll probably come through with a little purse. I ain't no fool!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Sense of Direction In Bees.

The directive sense possessed by bees is the object of research made by M. Gaston Bonnier of Paris, and he seems to have proved that bees possess a special sense like carrier pigeons. Experiments showed that bees can fly two miles to their hives even when deprived of the organs of sight and smell. Many scientists and among others Dadent have always declared that bees are guided by the sense of smell and that they can smell flowers at one and a half miles. Bonnier's experiments proved that bees detect odors at only short distances.

No Props.

A noted sociologist tells the following story of a woman in a manufacturing town. Approaching her for statistics, he asked, "Madam, have you any children?"

"No," she replied. "I have to work in the factory myself."—Life.

CHANGED HER MIND.

Strategic Game In Domestic Economy the Husband Played.

Strategy can sometimes be made effective in domestic economy as in the operations of war. By way of illustration consider an instance that recently arose in a certain city.

An ambitious young housewife had an opportunity to buy at a bargain a handsome rug which she needed. The price was only $20, the owner declared that the rug was actually worth $100. The young woman's husband gently protested that even $200 was more than a certain person's income could afford for a single article of household furnishing. After much persuasion he consented to the purchase, as most husbands in such cases.

But this particular husband played a strategic game. When he gave his wife the money to pay for the rug it was not in currency notes of large denomination, but in the form of a round, sound silver dollars. The young woman was astounded. The money was counted down and by dollar she never had realized that it would take so many to pay for a rug. She decided to buy a single dollar rug, but declared that the money had been given to her in bank notes of $100 each she would have bought the costlier one without hesitation.—New York Mail.

LOOKING FOR GOLD.

Londoner Says De Rougemont Is In the Ural Mountains.

The whereabouts of that mysterious wanderer, Louis de Rougemont, has been disclosed.

"Yes," said a merchant in London (Eng.) the other day, "De Rougemont is quite well, and I am in touch with him.

"He is in the Ural Mountains looking for gold."

The reporter laughed rather incredulously. It sounded just like De Rougemont.

"It is quite well for you to smile," said the merchant, "but a well-known engineer has just been to see me and tells me that De Rougemont is perfectly right, and has information that for gold the Ural Mountains surpass Western Australia and the Klondyke.

"Yes," added the merchant, warming up to the subject, "you know that when you met De Rougemont he was a nervous individual, quite apt to run up the wall and throw fits in the public, but in all the letters that he wrote there is very little of the falsehood. When he told me he had ridden upon turtle I laughed at him and remarked that the moment I met a couth turtle it dives. 'No,' said De Rougemont; 'not if you get hold of its shoulders and hold up its head.'

"He borrowed some turtles from me, and proved his contention in the music hall in the West End. He also by riding a turtle at Southend out to a ship. The humor of it was that he got to the ship, but the poor turtle, who was quite sick of the job, and also in both cases the flesh of his legs were very badly scraped.

"You are quite right in thinking," the merchant continued, "that De Rougemont is quite a remarkable man. He is now eighty years of age, and when I last heard of him one of his acquaintances informed me that in the Ural Mountains he walked forty miles at a stretch, and then got up at the end of the march perfectly fresh.

"I suppose you did not know," he continued, "that De Rougemont is almost confirmed spiritualist! You see this old bureau here?"—pointing to a rather nice piece of Sheraton—"De Rougemont has promised that when he dies—which he expects will be soon—he will give three taps on a particular drawer, and if I hear them I expects me to be converted to his own ideas on the subject of spiritualism."

Strategy.

Finding it impossible to reach the stage while the lady in front of him wore her large hat, Jones, in his most insinuating manner, asked her to remove it. "Take off my hat!" she exclaimed. "Why, what impudence! Of course I won't take off my hat!" "Very well, madam," said the man. "I beg your pardon for asking the favor, but I rather think you will have to there!" "Take it off! Take it off! It is quite needless to say that the hat was immediately landed in the lady's lap. The gentleman leaned toward her, thanking her profusely. And the poor, imposed upon woman profited never found out that the man had put on his own silk hat, and the horrifying yells were aimed at him.

The Oil Tree of China.

The tung, or wood oil tree, worthily named the national tree of China. It is stately in appearance with smooth green bark and spreading branches, affording a good shade. It bears a fruit resembling shellbark hickory nut, but as large as a small orange. Each nut contains three triangular seeds similar to Brazil nuts. The oil is pressed from these seeds and the refuse is used as a fertilizer. The oil is used principally for polishing woodwork and dressing leather. Considerable quantities are exported.

The wood of the tung tree is used for making musical instruments, fine boxes and the framework of houses.

Regardless of Cost.

The Princess of Monaco is said to be that she regards money with contempt. On one occasion, after a visit to a glary had been committed to her apartments, she astounded a police magistrate by stating that she never even missed her money and did not know which of her jewels had been stolen, as she never troubled to find out how many she had.

RRISCY'S LINIMENT UNEQUALLED

Physical Director Chatham Y. M. C. A.

CHATHAM, N. B., July 3, 1910.
Dear Sirs:—I used Father Morrisey's Liniment in my capacity as Physical Director of the Chatham Y. M. C. A. for a hard run and a cold down after exercises. I can heartily recommend the Liniment to runners, athletes, and those whose muscles are subject to cramp. During the season the Y. M. C. A. have placed a large number of bottles in the field, and the majority say nothing else but Father Morrisey's Liniment. For removing stiffness and soreness of the muscles it is unequalled. I take much pleasure in sending this word of appreciation.

Yours truly,
Stanley K. Smith,
Local Secretary, Chatham Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Morrisey is a very prominent St. John, N. B. business man, and when he says a thing is above prescription is not a "cure-all" or so-called "patent medicine. Dr. Morrisey prescribed it for 40 years, and cured thousands after other doctors failed.
