TRIED EVERYTHING WITHOUT RELIEF

Until I took "Fruit-a-tives"

SARNIA, ONT., Feb. 5th, 1910.

"I have been a sufferer for the past 25 years with Constipation, Indigestion and Catarrh of the Stomach. I tried many remedies and many doctors but derived no benefit whatever.

Finally, I read an advertisement of 'Fruit-a-tives'. I decided to give 'Fruit-a-tives' a trial and found they did exactly what was claimed for them.

I have now taken 'Fruit-a-tives' for some months and find that they are the only remedy that does me good.

I have recommended 'Fruit-a-tives' to a great many of my friends and I cannot praise these fruit tablets too highly"

PAUL J. JONES

THE ORIGIN OF OUR DOMESTIC TURKEY.

While it's rather difficult to trace man to the monkey, our domestic turkey leaves plainer footprints on the sands of time, and we believe should a hunter snare and mate a Northern wild turkey gobbler and a Mexican wild turkey hen the offspring would be in blood and appearance like the first of the domestic turkey tribe, from which the present varieties come. To prove their claims discoverers always bear back curious trophies from the lands they find, so we are told that Pedro Nino (1500), among other wonderful things from the new world,

THE NORTHERN WILD TURKEY

bore back the Mexican wild turkey to Spain, and the Cabots or others on return to England exhibited the Northern wild turkey.

When Cortes (1518) conquered the golden land of the Montezumas he found the Mexican wild turkey in large domesticated flocks, but there is no record that Indians or early settlers bred the Northern wild turkey.

The Mexican turkey was sent from Spain to England in 1524, and the advent of this strange bird was of great interest to ancient ornithologists, the Mexican so beautiful in its silvery white markings and black and the Northern magnificent in its chestnut brown, bronze and black.

Some English genius then mated a Northern gobbler and Mexican hen, and, their good qualities thus coalesced in their offspring, the resulting stock was the beginning of the present domestic turkey tribe.

English settlers brought birds of the new blood back to America, the land of their nativity, to be further improved by American skill, and of the seven splendid varieties resulting the Mammoth American Bronze, the nearest to the original, is conceded by both continents to be the ne plus ultra of them all.

DON'TS.

Don't be cruel to dumb animals. God placed them in your care, so beware.

Don't pose as a poultry perfecto. Folks quickly dispose of the fellows that pose.

Don't abuse the broody hens. Put them in an all slat crate, and their fever will abate.

Don't feed geese much grain in summer. Soft grass, water and weeds supply their summer needs.

Don't neglect breeders after hatching season. Get the surplus off before molt puts them out of condition.

Don't feed much cabbage to layers. A cabbage leaf worn in the heat will keep your bald head cool and sweet.

Don't waste feed on crippled ducklings and chicks. They are expensive nuisances and should be killed on sight.

Don't let your hens scratch in your neighbor's garden. They may find something there to pick and also get hit by a brick.

O YOU CITY HUNTER.

The city dude now takes his dorg
And hundred dollar gun
And goes into the country
To have a lot of fun.

He could not hit a barn door
If he should shoot all day.
His dorg was raised on chocolates
And don't know how to bay.

He surely looks courageous
With his gun and fire suit,
But if a cow just mooed at him
He'd up a tree quick scoot.

He'll sit before the cook stove
And drink hard cider down,
While Farmer Brown is shootin' game
For him to take to town.

Old Brown will skin some chickens—
They're pheasants, don't you know—
He'll shoot some tame brown rabbits.
You bet old Brown's not slow!

Then he will take those deer horns
That hung there twenty year,
He'll brush the cobwebs off of them
And on them fresh blood smear.

The dude will give us all a wad
And say to all, "Goodby!"
Then quick to a photographer
The mighty hunter fly.

Next day he'll get a half page puff,
An illustrated lie.
He'll give the editor skinned hen
To make a pheasant pie.

FOR A BALANCED RATION.

Rations are of three kinds—narrow, wide and balanced. When narrow it contains too much protein, when wide it has an excess of carbohydrates, which include fats, and when balanced protein and carbohydrates stand in the ratio one of protein to 4.6 carbohydrates.

For the convenience of friends who desire to balance the ration so that hens get just what they need we furnish this content table:

	Protein.	Total carbohydrates and fats.	Nutritive ratio.
Corn	7.9	76.4	1:9.7
Wheat	10.2	73	1:7
Oats	9.2	56.8	1:6.2
Barley	8.7	69.2	1:7.9
Buckwheat	7.7	53.3	1:6.9
Kaffir corn	7.3	63.2	1:8.1
Corn bran	7.4	70.1	1:9.4
Wheat bran	12.2	45.3	1:3.7
Wheat mids.	12.8	60.7	1:4.7
Buckwheat mids.	2.2	45.6	1:21
Beef scrap	66.2	21.1	1:0.5
Dried blood	52.3	5.6	1:0.1
Blood meal	83	23	1:0.7
Dried fish	44.1	23.2	1:0.5

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

We read that the fresh egg market in San Francisco was recently cornered for the Crocker kennels, where the eggs were fed to the dogs, valued at $100,000. Well, of all things! Think of throwing A No. 1 eggs to pups!

An incubator factory at Homer City, Pa., burned down Aug. 10, with a loss of $150,000. They at once dispatched for new machinery, erected a temporary factory and notified their agents that they would have plenty of goods to ship in six weeks. How's that for snap?

The cars of the Trenton Street Railway company were continually being held up by a flock of geese, led by a cross old gander, who walloped everybody that tried to stop the procession. A fine of $46 ($2 per goose) was imposed on their owner for allowing them to parade.

Of Illinois 237,165 farms in the last census 237,067 reported chickens to the number of 20,563,850. She also has 189,411 turkeys, 226,791 geese, 201,030 ducks, 84,057 guineas, 144,286 pigeons and 410 peafowls. The value of poultry in ten years has increased over 82 per cent.

We don't know whether you have ever tried to gum it on a tough beefsteak, but if you did you can appreciate the time Biddy has to grind grain without grit. Grit and oyster shell are especially necessary for grinding, and mineral ingredients in winter, when the hen can't pick up any on the land.

The New York state agricultural department is advertising 1,100 farms, comprising 148,190 acres, for sale or rent. During 1910 the state department received inquiries for land from 1,400 persons and sold land to the value of $6,200,000 to nonresidents. Much of this will be used for up to date poultry culture.

The law that regulates sex is a matter of profound and profuse consideration with certain poultry writers who seem to have no practical ideas to give readers who want practical rules to apply to work. If the heads of certain poultry editors were tapped enough hot air would be released to change midwinter to sultry summer.

An old cluck had the laugh on Mrs. Shumaker of Rose Valley, Pa. The hen stole her nest and was contentedly hatching in an old sleigh, under which some busy hornets had a nest. Milady proceeded to yank Mrs. Hen off the nest to break her of sitting when a dozen hornets flew to her defense, and the lady was peppered a dozen times and some more. "Stung!"

Farms in the United States are now valued at $28,383,821,000, an increase of 118 per cent, and the only crop raised on these 6,340,120 farms that exceeds the poultry product is corn, and, judging by the advance in poultry culture, corn is soon to be outdistanced by the American hen. May her tribe increase, especially among those farmers who in the face of her billion dollar product are still blind to her importance.

AMERICAN CORN.

In Its Sturdy Vigor It Is Representative of Our People.

Indian corn is a native of America. The Indians cultivated it when the white man first came, and their legends carried it back to Manitou, or Great Spirit, from whom it came as his choicest gift to man, says the Washington Post. Without it the earlier settlements would have perished.

It grows in all parts of the United States and in its every stage presents varied charms and attractions, more alluring to the eye than waving fields of wheat or rice, the white cotton or the splendid sugar cane, with which it vies in stateliness and outranks in its gorgeous and changeful hues of green.

One-third of the human family lives on rice, but it is not the third that counts. The date palm is everything to the desert dweller. So is corn to the American, although often indirectly. He eats it on the cob and off, makes of it innumerable kinds of food and turns it into hogs and cattle.

In its sturdy vigor Indian corn is representative of the people. It strikes its tap root deep into the earth, while the lateral roots reach out in every direction. It droops under the long drouth, but given two or three rains toward earing time it yields a harvest that puts the gloomy prophets to shame.

THE BRITISH MUSEUM.

Care With Which It Is Guarded From Fire and Thieves.

It is very doubtful whether the British museum could ever be burned down. It is more likely to be swamped first. There is enough water stored there in tanks to last for many days' continuous pumping in case by any chance the ordinary supply gave out.

Every policeman on the premises, too, is also a fireman, being especially trained before he takes up his duties. There is not a nook or corner in the remotest part of the building which could not be deluged in two minutes if necessity arose.

Not only is there little chance of the museum itself being burned down, but also any building near it, for that matter, for the museum looks after them, too, hardly less carefully.

Thieves have just about as much chance as fire has. Immediately after closing every gallery and every room in the building is gone through, searched and locked up, and then the whole process is repeated again an hour later, this precaution being directed against fire rather than thieves.

It is a full hour's hard work merely to lock or unlock all the doors in the building.—Pearson's Weekly.

Saved Ann a Ducking.

A colonial shrew who was threatened with the ducking stool was once saved by this plea:

"You wish to duck Ann Willott to cure her!" her defender declared. "Now, if she be not cured where is the gain in ducking her? And if she be cured all the women who now keep a guard over their tongues through distaste to be likened to such a known, notorious and contemptible scold as Ann will do so no longer; but, although it is not like any should become such as she, yet all will scold a little more than now they do, the check of her example being removed. Now, it is better that Ann, being a single woman without family to afflict, should go unpunished and unducked, but despised by all, and wag her tongue as she will, standing therein for the whole town, than that she should be silenced and the tongues of other women run more free."

This argument seems to have prevailed, for Ann Willott was never ducked.

Old Time Verdicts.

A certain medieval jury, as related in the Oxford and Cambridge Review, sitting upon the case of a man and his wife who had been struck by lightning, returned the reasonable verdict, "No one is suspected." In another case, when the body of a man similarly killed was first found by his wife, the jury was gratifyingly definite in its finding that "she is not suspected." In modern days the verdict in a case of self inflicted death is apt to be "temporary insanity." This was beyond our medieval predecessors, but their formula showed a glimmering of the idea that a man must be mad to take his own life, verdicts in such cases often being that the victim had acted "by temptation of the devil."

The Modern Practice.

The younger Pliny tells us that the Roman lawyer, Regulus, had a habit of painting round his right eye if he was counsel for the plaintiff, his left eye if he was for the defendant. In our times if a lawyer is painted around his right eye it means that a witness on the other side has met him since court adjourned. If both eyes are blacked it signifies that he saluted him twice instead of once. That's all.—Los Angeles Express.

Generous.

"So you are a bill collector," said Mr. Pinchpenny.

"Yes. Here is one"—

"Keep it, my boy, keep it. You seem to have a nice collection there. Far be it from me to break it up."—Philadelphia Telegram.

Dishonest.

Harduppe—Is Wigwag honest? Borrowell—Well, he came around to my house the other day and stole an umbrella I had borrowed from him.—Philadelphia Record.

Let every man, if possible, gather some good books under his roof.—Channing.
