Stopped Train and Saved Barn.

As the afternoon C.P.R. express going East, on the Teeswater branch was within two miles of Harrison, Conductor Osborne noticed the barn of Robert Moril in flames. He at once pulled the bell rope and gave orders to the passengers and crew to arm themselves with fire extinguishers of the train. Every male passenger and the crew proceeded in double quick time to the scene of the blaze. With heroic efforts the fire was extinguished and a costly re-ignition avoided. Mr. Morell and wife were profuse in their thanks, while the fair sex cheered the men as they returned to resume their journey.

In Loving Memory.

In loving memory of my Father, Donald MacDonald, "Irish Lake," who died May 13th, 1911.

Away in the graveyard yonder, In a cold and narrow bed, They have laid my darling Father, The birds sing o'er his head.

The face we loved is now laid low, The hands we often clasped in our's, Lie low in Death's cold coil.

I often sit and think of Father, When I am all alone, For memory is the only thing That grief can call its own.

Daughter, Mrs. Raymond Major.

The Assessor.

When he comes around assessing I consider him disagreeable, notwithstanding his politeness, and the sunny smile he wears all his dancing and his singing to my heart are never bringing anything but grief and sorrow, and addition to my cares. All his jolly and jollying I consider most revolting, for a humorous assessor is a bird I don't indorse; he should be as grim and sober as a graveyard in October, be as spongy as a moulter and as blabbery as a corpse. Let all other men be joyous and their mirth will not annoy us, but a sunny man assessor gives me fifty-seven pains; and his levity seems shocking, and his jests are coarse and mocking, for it's ill to be in a lurch where a grievous sorrow reigns. Oh, the blithe assessor queries with his everlasting queries, and he has a way of saying, without uttering a word, with a glance that's searching, "You're another. Ample, and the values you are giving are outrageously absurd." And he seems to be suggesting while he's snooping round and querying, that I want to beat the village of the country of its dues; and I feel within me burning an imperishable yearning to assault him with my bulldog and cresset him with my shoes.

A GREAT OPPORTUNITY

ONE OF THE Best Mixed Farming Propositions in Western Canada.

ONE SECTION - 640 ACRES.

In The Famous Knee Hill Valley

This is one of the most desirable districts in Alberta, and is especially well adapted for mixed farming, while spring and fall wheat do exceedingly well also. One hundred bushels of oats and from sixty to eighty bushels of barley per acre is quite common.

The Grand Trunk Pacific is built within twelve miles of this property, while a branch of the C.P.R. is surveyed to pass one half mile west of the land. On this fine construction is completed and ready for use within forty miles of the property, with good prospects of being completed just prior to the coming summer, and in this locality will have a very rapid raise in value, especially after the railroad is completed.

We are offering this one section only, at present, at a snap price on easy terms.

This is one of the finest sections of land in Alberta. Don't miss it.

For further particulars apply to
