Our Empire.

The British Empire and its dominions beyond the seas are now large in the eye of the world just now. Scarcely any other nation is receiving attention. In spite of the Bismarck-like budgets of the Chancellor, and the strikes of men and women, England is showing strength and resource and cohesion that must be the marvel of her students. Though so old the blood of youth is in her veins and she seems this year as if only awakening to her possibilities. It is the same in Canada. Immigration is pouring in in greater volumes than ever recorded, and only the other day the Finance Minister said our trade this year would reach a billion dollars. The Empire is just beginning to move — practically stagnant heretofore in comparison with the years to come.

A Fireless Future?

A circular has been sent from a House in Toronto, to every paper in Canada asking it to publish the resolution of a recent Bible Students' Convention in that city wherein the repudiation is made of all those teachings heretofore deemed sacred and inviolate respecting future punishment of the wicked. The promotion of the doctrine of a literal hell of fire and brimstone is to be strictly denounced and all energymen are invited to spread the new gospel of a fireless future. The convention declares that the Bible teaches nothing of the kind and that the tortures depicted, tortures to last through the ages, are the figments of his imagination. The subject is one of infinite variety and capable of most vivid mindings. It is wiser for a local paper not to venture his conclusions on that topic. If the theologians constructed Hades let them destroy it if they think it has survived its usefulness.
