Mrs. J. Merkleger, Waterloo, Ont. has enthusiastically recommended Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets. Her experience with these tablets she outlines, explaining why she was greatly troubled with dyspepsia. "I had taken so much medicine that I might as well have given up. My stomach just felt raw. I was so nervous that I could not sleep. My friend told me they were a good medicine, and I bought a box. I took a few and I can eat any food."

So you see you need only buy the other farmers of your own class with those all over Canada. That is because you have never seen a cement that has won so many prizes. Many of the winners had cement before they had seen it. What the cement is, you will see in the prize book. Guid Lang Syne

25-YEARS AGO.

Items of General Interest From The Standard Files of Sept. 15, 1887.

J. W. Bengough gave a lecture Wednesday evening in Haskett's Hall.

Mr. John Breadner, of Euphrasia, has sold his mules to Mr. Robert McAfee.

Mr. McKay, our tanner, has put steam power into his tannery. This is the eighth factory in Markdale that has steam power.

Master Tom Benson, of Manitowaning, came down this week. He proceeded to Toronto to stock up his jewelry store for the winter.

On Thursday last, Mr. Ben Wright happened with the misfortune of getting his leg broken. He was shovelling in a gravel pit adjoining the village when the bank fell, crushing him and breaking his leg below the knee. He is 72 years of age.

The biggest practical joke that has been perpetrated on the public for a long time was that carried out by two dandies who worked the northern country, as Scott Act detectives in disguise.

The first heard of the pair was from the Globe, some of the members of whose staff were on the press excursion that "did" Muskoka a few weeks ago. On August 2, a writer of that paper described at length a newly married couple that got on the boat at Barrie and accompanied the party to Peninsular Point. The bride and groom caused no end of amusement to the brethren of the press. To them the couple appeared as grizzled and veritable specimens of back township simplicity, making of their wedding and enjoying with child-like innocence the happiness of their honeymoon. Those who experience the deception worst of all were the hotelkeepers of Orillia and Barrie, and other northern towns, where the festive bridal couple had called and partook of liquid nurture. These hotelkeepers were summoned in large numbers and fined heavily for selling liquor contrary to the Act.

THIS WEEK we make an advance showing and display of Ready-to-Wear Shapes, of your order for the more Formal Styles will be carefully looked after. One sometimes does not see any great change in style from one season to another, but this year the difference of designs in the new hats from the preceding seasons is very marked. Some of the leading shapes this season are, Tricorn, Marlboro, Viceroys, Mercedes' Juno, Astrakhan, Paris; also French Velvets. The character of trimming used is a very marked feature from the preceding seasons, lines such as Yellow, Gray, with Black and White as good as ever. We trust you will not miss this opportunity of seeing the offerings for the coming season. This week at our store.
