Excellent Service to the Pioneers

The Methodist Church was filled with a large and representative audience on Sunday night, when the special service in memory of the pioneers of the congregation was held. After the Doxology and invocation, Mr. John Lyons, the oldest member of the church, announced the first hymn, and as touching scene—the venerable patriarch, moving under the heavy load of his three and ninety years, yet reading the hymn with so much feeling and intelligence, the hymn in question, which we submit is one of several from the pen of Rev. W. H. Adams, which were specially printed for the occasion—

Tune, "Austria."
 O'er the trackless ocean guided—
 By Thy hand our fathers came;
 They, O Lord, in Thy confidence,
 Loved Thy day, revered Thy name.
 Nor would we, their faith despising,
 But, on wings of prayer arising,
 Lift our contrite hearts to Thee.
 In the new land, wild and lonely,
 Rude the homes which they upraised,
 There they sought unto Thee only,
 There Thy love and mercy praised.

In our fairer habitations
 May their zeal in us increase,
 While Thy gracious consolations
 Prove our everlasting peace.
 Where, in wilderness extending,
 Every creature had his lair,
 Now behold us humbly bending
 In this holy place of prayer,
 Let the transformed world around us
 Witness be of changes within—
 Joy divine that God hath found us,
 Healed the deadly wounds of sin.
 Destined for their fathers' places,
 Age on age until the end,
 Keep O keep our children's faces
 Turned to Thee, our chanceless Friend.
 Aid may all, who boom of heaven,
 Now or evermore shall crave,
 Know on earth Thy blessing given,
 Glory find beyond the grave.

The reading of the Scripture and prayer followed, and then Mr. H. D. Irving, J.P., rose to speak. His address, which was couched in fine, idiomatic English, was largely reminiscent, and made a deep impression. It was plain to all that he held in high esteem the noble men who have gone before, and with whom it had been his privilege in his youth to be associated. He was followed by Mr. C. W. Rutledge, who, as the custodian of the church's archives, gave the following data, which was eagerly listened to.

Mr. Rutledge's parents, with nine of a family of whom he was the youngest, left Leeds County in November 1850, 62 years ago, came from Brockville to Toronto, by boat, thence by oxen and wagon to Artemesia. Nearest post office then was Mono Mills, 60 miles distant. Soon after East Glenelg P.O. was opened, with Mr. Atkinson as P.M. He died shortly after, and his widow kept this office, and at her decease her brother, the late Donald McDermott, got the appointment, and during his regime the name was changed to Cornabuss, being the name of his father's estate in Scotland. In 1862 Mr. W. J. McFarland had a frame building erected, and started a general store which was really the beginning of the village. In 1866 he was appointed post master, which position he held for thirty-two years. His son, W. A. McFarland, succeeded him for 6 years and was followed by our present post master, Mr. Angus Blewett, ten years ago. The first railway to Ontario, The Northern, from Toronto to Collingwood, was opened for traffic the 16th May, 1853, and our Grey and Bruce on the 9th August, 1873, and the name Cornabuss was changed to that of Markdale also in 1873. The first Methodist Church in this place, then called Cornabuss, was opened under the pastorate of Rev. Josias Greene, now of Clinton, the 6th January, 1870, and the following June was destroyed by fire. The barn of the late Mark Armstrong was burned the same night, the work of an incendiary, who was sentenced to a term in Kingston Penitentiary, and there died before the sentence had expired. Church No. 2 was dedicated January 7, 1862, and thirteen years later became inadequate and was replaced by a brick edifice, which was built under the pastorate of Rev. Wesley Casson, now of Toronto. The opening of this, the third church, took place in December 1885, and during the following 20 years the congregation worshiped unimpeded in the same. During the summer of 1905 upwards of $400 was spent in renovating and decorating the interior, and the result proved universally gratifying, but that same fall, December 18, 1905, fire, from an overheated furnace, again left us without a church. This was a staggering blow and the sight of the charred walls caused many a tear. The following Sunday was Anniversary Day and arrangements were hastily made and the occasion celebrated successfully in Marsh's Hall, where services were held during the 12 months, while the present building was in course of erection. This brings our eventful career as a congregation about up to date.

After singing another of Mr. Lyons' hymns, again announced by Mr. Lyons, the Hon. T. S. Sproule was called upon. He wished to speak merely as a layman, and as an adherent of the church, and as His tribute of respect, however, was none the less real and hearty. He especially arraigned the moral laxity which seems to have seized upon the life of this community, and which manifests itself in Sabbath desecration and contempt of public authority. He pointed out that this was a sad declension from conditions as they obtained among the early settlers; and then he insisted upon it that it was impossible to build up a strong nation out of a people who cast aside all restraint, and habitually seek pleasure before duty and the fear of God. Mr. J. H. Dundas sang "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" in excellent voice. The service closed with the old hymn "O God, our help in ages past," followed by the benediction.

The Carnegie Library Board here are sleeping so soundly at their posts that they run chances of being awakened by their own snores. But in the meantime the watchers and waiters here are shaking in their overshoes lest Andy Carnegie dies before these Rip Van Winkles wake. If this happens the town will bid good-bye to a gift that was within our reach, but which we didn't get because the Board let the seven blind sisters, didn't get their eyes open in time. The people by large petitions and otherwise declared so strongly for the Carnegie Library that they almost jar the philanthropist out of bed when he sees the levity of the Board now. We are creditably informed that certain members of the Board don't want the Library at all, and are merely killing time in the hope of side-tracking the project and burying it eventually in the graveyard of oblivion. If the Board don't get busy, it is up to the Town Council to hustle a little themselves and see that the people want that Library, and it is only a matter of choosing a site and calling the masons and carpenters onto the scene.—Walker-Town Herald.

We know of another town not one hundred miles from Markdale, where there is just as applicable as in Walkerton.

Markdale all-night telephone service will commence about Nov. 1st. This great convenience will be much appreciated by the rapidly increasing number of patrons of the service here.

 A proclamation has been issued fixing Monday, October 28th, as a public holiday and a day for general thanksgiving throughout Canada for the bounteous mercies of the past year.

Harvest Home.

Well attended Harvest Home Services were held in Christ Church on Sunday last, morning and evening. Rev. E. G. Demond, Rector, was the preacher for the day, and delivered two excellent addresses, that in the morning being from John 10, 10, "I am come that they might have life," and in the evening from Exodus 33:18-19, "I will make all my goodness to pass before thee." Some pointed suggestions and remarks appropriate to the Thanksgiving season were enunciated by the rector in his admirable discourses. The form of service for Harvest Thanksgiving was used with appropriate lessons, psalms and prayers. Excellent music was provided by the choir of twenty voices under the leadership of Miss Macpherson. In the morning the choir sang as an anthem, "Thy Barns Shall Be Filled With Plenty," by Finmer, and Mrs. A. M. Brown sang in her usual splendid voice "Consider the Lilies." In the evening the above anthem was repeated. The offerings were large and slightly in excess of last year. The floral decorations were very beautiful and were prettily arranged. Cut flowers, potted plants and various kinds of grain were lavishly displayed, and great credit is due the decoration committee for their painstaking efforts in beautifying the interior of the sacred edifice. On the whole the joyous festival of Thanksgiving for the bounties of the harvest was very fittingly observed. We understand the harvest home service at St. Matthias Church, Berkeley, was also very successful, and that the decorations exceeded that of any former year.

S.S. Rally Day.
 The Methodist Sunday School held a very inspiring Rally Day service on Sunday afternoon last. The central thought of the programme was "Building a Nation for God," and in connection therewith, reading, in relation to the address, it was shown again and again that loyalty to God and loyalty to our country must ever go hand in hand. Mr. W. J. Shortill, Superintendent of the school, presided. Miss Marie Armstrong and Master Henry Armstrong appropriate recitations. The Pastor, Rev. W. H. Adams, in the first of his two brief addresses, spoke of the Bible, the Flag and the Sunday School, and bore impressive words in our national hymn, the second he emphasized the need for greater care in the religious and moral training of the youth of the country, if the standard of that national life is to be maintained. The church was beautifully decorated with maple leaves and flags, with equipment, $21.50, by the Floral Committee of the League.
