HOME RULE BILL PASSES. TORONTO CORRESPONDENCE

Majority of 110 on Third Reading Closes Memorable Fight. A despatch from London says: After a long, stern battle the home rule bill passed the House of Commons on Thursday night by a majority of 110. It was later read for the first time in the House of Lords. There were two divisions in the lower House. Mr. Balfour's motion for its rejection was defeated by 305 to 308, while the third reading was carried by a vote of 387 to 257, one member of each side having left the House in the interval. The result of the division was too much a foregone conclusion for a tremendous demonstration, but the Irishmen inside and outside of the House did their best, and, assisted by the Liberals and Laborites, gave the measure for which they had waited and worked so long a good send-off on its way to the House of Lords, where its fate is certainly sealed.

Series of Brilliant Speeches.
The division was preceded by another series of brilliant speeches by the political leaders, among whom were Frederick E. Smith and the Solicitor-General, Sir John A. Simons, two of the clearest among the younger members, and the veterans John E. Redmond, Timothy Healy and Augustus Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland.

The House was crowded throughout the day. The Nationalists, led by Joseph E. Devlin, were prevented from attending by a preliminary attack which he suffered on Thursday. Several of the older Nationalists who are seldom able to attend came over from Ireland on that day.

The Liberals and Laborites, too, turned out in force, and the Unionists were not far below their total membership. The galleries likewise were filled to their capacity, many occupying seats including those of dignitaries of the Church and the Bulgarian peace plenipotentiaries.

Memorable Scene in House.
When the figures were announced the Nationalists went into a kerfuffle and papers, and cheered lustily for Premier Asquith and Mr. John Redmond. The latter, who is usually impassive, was carried away by the enthusiasm of his followers and entered into the spirit of the demonstrations as effusively as they.

Scenes in Belfast.
A despatch from Belfast says: Thousands of Orangemen and members of Unionist clubs held demonstrations on Thursday evening and on the morning of the home-rule bill. There was much firing of revolvers, mostly blank cartridges, but one man was shot in the back and is in a critical condition. There were no further disorders, but bands paraded the streets until midnight.

Several Firemen Choked.
The Third Big Fire in Montreal in Fifteen Years. A despatch from Montreal says: Several firemen were carried off, choked into unconsciousness, by smoke, District Officer Mann's caped head by inches upon a plank came crashing down upon a ladder on which he was standing, and damage aggregating nearly $100,000 was caused by a fire which broke out on Thursday morning on Deviser Street. The premises are occupied by the Canadian Traction Lamp Company, and the McCormick Blount Co. of London, Ont., the plant and stock of both of which concerns were injured by fire, smoke and water. This was the third big fire in the city in fifteen years, most of the firemen having been on duty for 24 hours. They got a much-needed meal from the biscuits found in the McCormick Company's factory.

Catarrah Brands You An "Undesirable"
So Lathsome is the Disease That Few Will Associate With a Catarrah Victim.
Is Your Trouble Catarrah?
Poor remedies have given Catarrah the reputation of being incurable. But it is curable, easily and quickly, if the right method is employed. Snuffing a powder or ointment up the nose won't cure Catarrah, neither will tablets, douching, or stomach medicines cure. These treatments fail because they do not affect local conditions; they do not remove the cause which is germ life established in the lungs, bronchial tubes, and nasal passages. Ordinary remedies do not reach these remote parts, but Catarrah-zone does, for it is breathed through the inhaled into every air cell in the head and throat. No matter where the Catarrah is Catarrah-zone will reach it. It kills the germs, heats sore spots, clears the nose and throat instantly. Universally used, pleasant and clean; guaranteed to cure or money refunded.
