Did You Know This

Probably very few persons understood the expression "Comin' Through the Rye." There is in Scotland a small stream called the Rye. The girls forded it going to church, school and to market, and as the water was a foot or two deep they had to hold their skirts up. The boys would meet them in midstream and kiss them without any difficulty, as the girls couldn't drop their skirts to make any resistance. That's what the poet means when he wrote "Comin' Thro' the Rye," but most people think he meant a field of rye.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

INTERNATIONAL LESSON, MARCH 9.

Lesson X.—The destruction of Sodom. Gen. 19. 1-3, 12-29. Golden text, 2 Cor. 6. 17.

The chapter and verses immediately preceding our lesson passages for to-day record the incidents connected with the birth of Ishmael and the promise to Abram of the birth of Isaac. They include an account of the renewal of the covenant at Mamre, and an announcement to Abram of the impending doom of Sodom. Chapter 17 records the change of Abram's name to Abraham, and of Sarai's name to Sarah. Verses 1 to 11 of our lesson chapter tell of the entrance of the two angels into Sodom and of their reception and entertainment by Lot.

Verse 12. The men—The angels, that is, messengers of Jehovah. They urge Lot to lose no time in leaving the city, and to take with him all the members of his immediate family.

13. We will destroy this place—Their visit had been for the purpose of ascertaining the facts concerning the city's reputed wickedness. This being established, their commission includes authority to visit dire judgment upon the city.

The cry of them is waxed great before Jehovah — Throughout the entire narrative Jehovah is spoken of as possessing the characteristics and limitations of men. This is one of the distinguishing marks of the early prophetic narrative, of which our lesson passage forms a part. Compare Genesis iv., 10, where a similar expression is used.

14. Who married—Or, who were to marry.

Up, get you out of this place—Lot himself seems to have fully understood the urgency of the command to leave the city at once.

As one that mocked—Better, jested. The sons-in-law are incredulous. To them the destruction of their city seems impossible.

15. When the morning arose—At dawn. All that precedes had transpired while it was still night.

Thy two daughters that are here—As opposed to the prospective sons-in-law who had chosen to ignore the warning, and who were not in Lot's house.

Lest thou be consumed—The implication is that Jehovah had fixed a time beyond which the destruction of the city was not to be postponed.

Iniquity—Or, punishment.

16. But he lingered—Reluctant to leave his home and the city which had been so long his place of residence. The angels appear sympathetic and determined to rescue him with his household, even though it be necessary to lead him by the hand. Thus with gentle insistence they bring him forth until he is safely beyond the city gate.

17. Escape for thy life—Further flight is necessary to reach a place of greater safety.

Look not behind thee—Resist every temptation to return or to watch with curious eyes the fate of the city.

All the Plain—The valley region in the neighborhood of the doomed cities.

18-22. The omitted verses record Lot's plea to be spared the necessity of fleeing to the barren mountains, and to be permitted to remain in a little village some distance from Sodom.

23. Zoar—Meaning, little.

24. Rained . . . brimstone and fire—Brimstone is the word used uniformly in the Bible for sulphur, which is found in all volcanic regions both as an uncombined deposit and as one of the chemical constituents of gases as sulphur dioxide and sulphureted hydrogen, which are not infrequently exhaled from the earth in such regions or dissolved in the water of hot springs. It is frequently referred to in connection with Jehovah's denunciation of the wickedness of nations and individuals (compare Deut. 29. 23; Isa. 34. 9; Psa. 11. 6). The extensive occurrence of sulphur in the region of the Dead Sea corroborates the Bible statement that this substance contributed toward the destruction of the cities of the Plain—Sodom and Gomorrah. It was the work of Jehovah through the use of natural means, but, of course, was decidedly miraculous.

26. Pillar of salt—Great ledges or cliffs of crystallized rock salt are to be found at the southwestern shore of the Dead Sea. During the rainy season, fragments of these cliffs become isolated and resemble pillars, which are in constant process of formation and destruction. The process is, however, in some cases very slow, owing to a chalky limestone covering which protects the salt. These pillarlike shafts not unfrequently assume forms which strangely suggest the outlines of the human figure, especially when viewed from a distance. Late Jewish writers, including Josephus, believed they were still able to identify the pillar of salt referred to in our lesson passage.

27. Abraham—The longer form of the name, explained as signifying father of a multitude, is used from chapter seventeen forward.

28. Gomorrah—The twin city of Sodom and equally wicked.

29. God remembered Abraham—His mercy toward Lot is explained by the writer as partly due to his regard for his righteous servant Abraham.

A VERY DURABLE WOOD.

British Guiana Greenheart Outlasts Steel or Iron in Water.

A wood which, according to the department of agriculture, outlasts iron and steel when placed in water, is British Guiana Greenheart. It is used in ship and dock building, trestles, bridges, shipping platforms, flooring, and for all purposes involving great wear and tear. The woods of two species of West African trees have been introduced into English markets as substitutes for greenheart under the name of African greenheart, but both are inferior to the South American tree.

All the gates, piers and jetties of the Liverpool docks and practically all the lock gates of the Bridgewater Canal in England are of greenheart. It furnished the material also for the 50 pairs of lock gates in the Manchester (England) ship canal. When the greenheart dock gates in the Mersey harbor at Liverpool were removed in order that the channel might be deepened and widened, the same wood was again employed in building the enlarged gates, and wood placed in the gates of the Canada dock in 1856 was used again in its reconstruction in 1894. The use of greenheart has been specified for sills and fenders in the lock gates of the Panama Canal. Nansen's ship, the Fram, and the Antarctic ship Discovery were built of greenheart. In addition to its use as timber, great quantities of the wood are made into charcoal.

Though it grows in parts of British, French and Dutch Guiana, Venezuela, Brazil, Columbia, Peru, Trinidad, Jamaica and Santo Domingo, it is being cut only in British Guiana, where it is found along the seacoast and water courses seldom extending more than 50 miles inland. Greenheart used to bring $1 per cubic foot at the point of shipment, but the present price is considerably less. Constant drain for more than 100 years upon the most accessible stands of greenheart in British Guiana has stripped the forest of its best material, and the wood now obtained is of inferior quality. Tracts are now being cut over in some places for the third time. Only the heartwood of the tree possesses the peculiar durability desired, and the best wood is found in old trees.

The wood of three other species of the same botanical family is occasionally cut and sold with the genuine greenheart. These are the white cirouballi or sirauballi, the yellow cirouballi, sometimes called black cedar, and the keritee or kretti. While they closely resemble greenheart, they are inferior to it in durability.

A man hardly ever marries for love more than once.

He—"They say that two can live as cheaply as one." She—"Yes; but I don't intend to live cheaply."

CITY CIRCULATION AGENT
Of Leading Montreal Daily Endorses GIN PILLS

FIVE long years of suffering from Kidney Trouble—two boxes of GIN PILLS—and it's all gone. That has been the experience of Mr. Eugene Quesnel, Chief City Circulation Agent of La Patrie, of Montreal. He describes it feelingly:
Montreal, May 3rd, 1912
"I have been suffering from Kidney Trouble for over five long years. I had also Rheumatism in all my bones and muscles, could not sleep nights and on some occasions could hardly walk. I had been treated by some of our best Physicians but without relief and I lost over fifteen pounds. One day I met one of our leading storekeepers, who had been cured by your famous GIN PILLS, and he advised me to try them. So I bought two boxes at my druggist's and before I had used one box I felt a big change. Before I finished the second one I was completely cured.
I can assure you I can hardly believe it for if I had only known what I know now I would not have spent over One Hundred Dollars for nothing when two boxes of GIN PILLS cured me."
EUGENE QUESNEL.
GIN PILLS are gaining a world-wide reputation, by the way they conquer the most obstinate cases of Rheumatism and all kinds of Kidney Trouble.

STALWART OF OTHER DAYS

The other day Lord Llandaff celebrated his eighty-seventh birthday. He now lives a very retired life in London, but his career has been a strenuous one, and twenty years or so ago his name was on everybody's lips.

Lord Llandaff was born in Carlon, where his father was a judge of the Supreme Court. Educated in London and Paris, Mr. Henry Matthews took up the law as a profession, and rapidly forged his way to the front. Entering Parliament in 1868 as Conservative member for Dungarvan, he eventually transferred his activities to East Birmingham. From 1886-92 he was in the Conservative Cabinet, and for a few Home Secretaries have passed such a disturbing period as the odium of the Labor riot in Trafalgar square was heaped on his head, but when the Conservatives went out of office he was rewarded by a peerage.

In choosing his title, Lord Llandaff was influenced by the fact that he is descended from the Welsh family of Mathew of Llandaff, an offshoot of which were at one time Earls of Llandaff in the peerage of Ireland. He has never married and consequently the peerage will become extinct at his death.

Lord Llandaff is a very able linguist and a distinguished scholar. His professional abilities he attained to such a height, and he was one of the leaders of the Catholic Church in the administer.

LITTLE THINGS THAT COUNT.

Sometimes Turn Into Important Events in History.

How often has it happened that the fate of a nation—a man's career—has turned on some insignificant detail, some unpremeditated remark or effort.

For instance, James Watt, the reputed inventor of the motive power of steam, originated his idea from noticing how the force of steam raised the lid of the kettle. The falling of an apple led Sir Isaac Newton to the discovery of universal gravitation. Rome was saved from her enemies by the cackling of geese warning the sentries that the walls were being scaled.

To turn to the gentler sex—Nell Gwynn, a poor orange-girl, whose descendants to-day are the Dukes of St. Albans, first came under the notice of Charles II. by running alongside his carriage, offering her oranges.

The famous South African De Beers diamond mines were discovered by a man who casually went into a cottage, and there noticed some children playing with what appeared to be brilliant stones, which they said they had picked up from a stream near the cottage.

It was only a question of failing health that necessitated the late Cecil John Rhodes; then a comparatively young man, going abroad. Everyone knows the magnificent work he did in South Africa, and how well he deserved his name of Empire Builder.

And so we might run on, record after record. Only a short time ago, a lady living near Gateshead was unexpectedly left a fortune of £25,700 by a man she had once befriended when a seafaring youth of seventeen. He went to Australia as a sheep-farmer, and, prospering, made a fortune, and left it to his humble benefactress.—London Answers.

FRUIT SUGARS.

Professor Shberg Says There Is Ignorance About Them.

There is a lot of ignorance floating about the things we eat. Dr. K. Hirshberg, in Lesson specially the sweet thing sugar, for there is not one sugars, varying one from another in certain qualities, is a sugar from the cane beet and the maple. There called glucose, and another fructose, which when combined invert sugar. One of these sugars are universally distributed. They are to be found in all fruits. When cane sugar has been boiled with an acid or cream of tartar in the making of candy it is changed into glucose; in the human system all starch is digested into this glucose.

Although this is the starch which gives sweetness to commercial glucose, which when made from starch of the corn is known as corn sugar, and when made from starch of the potato has been called potato sugar. Then, there is the sugar of
