

OW & SON
dale

IRON
RUBBERS,
BRASS,
ETC.

SON, Markdale

Expenditures of the
Continuation School

Table with 2 columns: Item, Amount. Includes entries like 'Walker Trustee', 'Bank', 'Furniture', etc.

Expenditures of the
Continuation School

Table with 2 columns: Item, Amount. Includes entries like 'Walker Trustee', 'Bank', 'Furniture', etc.

Markdale Standard

VOL. 33.—WHOLE NO. 1685.

MARKDALE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, MARCH 27, 1913.

$1.00

YEAR IN ADVANCE

Local and General

Five thousand people are reported to have been drowned and thirty thousand rendered homeless by floods in Dayton, Ohio, on Tuesday.

Mr. Frank Maloy, of concession 6, Glenelg, will hold a credit sale on Wednesday next, April 2nd, commencing at 2 o'clock, to sell his farm stock and implements. Rudolph Mathews, auctioneer.

The entertainment in Marsh's hall on Friday evening the 14th of April will consist of an excellent musical program followed by a humorous play by 20 Peak Sisters from Pike's Peak in native costume.

It is said that this will be a poor year for maple sugar. There has not been a sufficiently long cold period. Maple syrup will consequently be dear, unless an unusually large quantity is produced by synthetic scientific processes.

Mr. H. J. McLennan, Health Officer, will hold a clearing sale at 2 p.m. on Thursday, April 10th, to dispose of sixty head of live stock, farm implements, nearly new household effects, and two farms. No reserve.

Mr. Peacey, who will give "An Evening With Dr. Henry Van Dyke" at Cook's Church on Friday at 8 p.m., filled two engagements in Toronto during March. He comes to Markdale on his way home from Toronto. Be sure to hear him and the excellent musical program that will supplement his recitations.

One rather important change has been made in the municipal bill in the matter of the time after which a person sustaining injury on a highway may enter action against a municipal corporation to recover damages. Hereafter three months' time instead of thirty days, as before, will be granted.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Annie McNea took place from the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Foley on Sunday afternoon to the public cemetery and was attended by a large number of citizens. Rev. R. M. Phalen conducted the service at the house and grave. Several beautiful floral offerings adorned the casket. The pall bearers were Messrs. F. B. Williams, Alex. McCutcheon, John Hannah, H. McPherson, Sanford Ward and Jas. Cargo.

The late John McInnis. There passed away on February 4th, 1913, at the home of his brother, Angus, one of the early settlers of Euphrasia in the person of John McInnis.

Born on the island of Islay, in the Highlands of Scotland, in the year 1850, he came with his parents to Canada seven years later, settling in the township of Erin, where the family resided for some years before moving to the back woods of Euphrasia, near where

Love Sentenced to Hang May 27th

Judge's Solemn Discourse.—Thinks Finding of Jury Absolutely Correct.

Standing in silence, his lips compressed, and his brows drawn down over his eyes, Charles Henry Love, convicted by a jury of the murder of his wife, whose body was found in a trench in the cellar of the Love home at Ceylon, was on Saturday at Owen Sound sentenced by Mr. Justice Lennox to be hanged on May 27. Love calmly accepted the sentence, but collapsed after he had been taken to his cell, which overlooks the small courtyard in which he is to pay the penalty for the heinous crime.

Shortly after 10 o'clock on Saturday Love was brought from his cell to the prisoners' dock. He was haggard and worn, and deep lines had appeared over his eyes. Only the involuntary twitching of the hand that rested on the rail of the dock when he stood up indicated the breaking down of the nerve that he had displayed throughout the case.

"Have you anything to say to the sentence of the court passed upon you for the crime of which you stand convicted?" asked the court. The prisoner looked at the floor and remained silent. He looked up and stared the judge in the eye quite steadily, and Judge Lennox continued: "I am pleased in a way that you have decided not to say anything now. It would probably come better after you have had time to think over and realize the position in which you are placed."

The sentence of the court is that you will be taken back from here to the common jail of the County of Grey, there to remain until the 27th day of May next, and you will then be hanged by the neck until you are dead. God have mercy on your soul.

The prisoner then passed out in charge of two guards. With him went Rev. H. S. McIlwain, the Baptist minister, who has been a frequent visitor to Love since his incarceration, endeavoring to cheer him with a few words of comfort. A few minutes later he became hysterical and plained about his cell, declaring that the witnesses for the Crown, neighbors, in whose midst he had lived for the past nine years, had taken undue advantage of him and given false testimony.

"I have been tried by the newspapers all over the Province, and found guilty," he exclaimed. "I have been wrongfully convicted. I am innocent of the crime. For almost twenty-five years my wife and I, in our own humble way, lived in peace and happiness. Why should I kill her? This is a terrible fate. I have had to face a trying ordeal, and in the face of all my sorrow my baby boy testified against me. My daughter told the truth. I once belonged to the Salvation Army, and probably had I still been casting in my lot with that organization I would not have been facing this awful charge."

Fearing that Love might become mentally deranged, the Sheriff summoned the jail physician, who administered a drug, which had the effect of quieting the prisoner. He slipped into a sleep, but awoke about three-quarters of an hour later and asked that his wife be granted permission to see him.

While Love was in his cell awaiting the verdict of the jury on Friday night he ate a large supper, and though exhibiting signs of nervousness he expressed hope that he would regain his freedom. ADDRESS TO THE PRISONER.

This was Mr. Justice Lennox's first criminal case since his elevation to the Bench. Before pronouncing the sentence of death his Lordship, in a solemn discourse, said to the prisoner: "I am rather pleased in a way that you have decided to say nothing just now. It would come from you better after you have had time to realize the terrible situation in which you are. You had the advantage of an eminently fair trial. The witnesses were respectable people whose word could confidently be taken. You had the advantage of being defended by an able counsel who did everything that was possible to do for you." Continuing, he said: "We cannot lift the veil which enshrouded the events in your home on the evening of December 9, but I think the finding of the jury was absolutely correct. I cannot but feel that the determination of the jury was well justified by the evidence adduced. You are in an unfortunate position. I, as well as your counsel in his address to the jury:

Better than twenty criminals escape than one innocent man should suffer.

But it is because the twenty criminals do escape that we have the additional hundred criminals come before the courts. It is fortunate for society that juries do see their way justly to submit their decisions. The sentence followed.

STORY OF THE CRIME. The deed for which Love is to pay the penalty was committed on the night of December 9 in the Love home at Ceylon. The woman, after being stung with a blunt instrument on the back of the head was carried into a trench dug in the cellar beneath her bedroom, where her breath was washed and the windpipe severed. She lay there in a pool of blood for three days. After the neighbors had threatened to solicit the assistance of the police in an effort to recover the body Love made a discovery of its whereabouts. The Crown based his case entirely upon circumstantial evidence.

THE TRIAL. Scarcely any new evidence was brought out at the trial, being mainly a repetition of that produced at the preliminary examination at Flesherton. The trial commenced on Wednesday morning, and lasted three days. His son, Arnel Love, aged 14 years, Constable Cook, Gibson Collinson and others were witnesses against the condemned man.

The following gentlemen comprised the jury which brought in the verdict of "guilty" on Friday night: Charles Sutherland, Henry Long, Wm. Fox, Malcolm McKinnon, Jas. Whitmore, Wallace E. Dickson, Wm. A. Taylor, Wm. Smart, Burt. McCarter, Harry Seim, John D. Ellis, and Samuel Irwin.

Dry Burglars in Dundalk

A most daring attempt was made last Friday night about 10 o'clock to break into the residence of Isaac Traynor, J.P., Dundalk. For over a month he has had the custody of three cases of liquor which were seized by High Constable Cook, and this is the booty that is supposed to have been sought for. With a brace and bit a hole was made in the outside cellar door at the rear of the house large enough to permit of a hand being passed through to release the fastenings on the inside. The miscreants (supposed to be three of them) got into the cellar but could not find the liquor. The noise was heard by Mr. and Mrs. Traynor and their visitor, Mrs. Traynor, but they were not alarmed till they examined the cellar and found the door broken open. The "birds" had taken no clue as to the identity of the burglars other than foot prints around the cellar door. There is suspicion of certain parties but there is nothing definite as yet to base a conviction upon. Conviction means a penitentiary term. We understand the liquor is stored in the vault in the town hall awaiting the decision of the Police Magistrate as to the trials recently held.—Herald.

For having her little finger crushed by the slamming of the door of a railway coach in Seattle, a hole was awarded $25,000 damages. It is reasonable to expect that she will now have many aspirants for the rest of her head.

WILSON—In Artesian on the 24th March, 1913, to Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Wilson, a son, BRADLEY—On Thursday, March 6th, 1913, to Mr. and Mrs. R. Bradley, Markdale, a son, a son (John Edward). THOMPSON—In Brandon, Man., on Wednesday, March 19, 1913, to Mr. and Mrs. Oscar W. Thompson, a daughter (Catherine Jane).

Equinoctial Gales Cause Great Damage

Windows and Buildings Shattered.—Many Barns Unroofed.—Worst Wind Storm in Years.

On Good Friday Markdale was in the throes of the fiercest equinoctial gale that has visited this latitude for years. From the west and southwest it raged all afternoon, and considerable damage was done. Commencing about ten o'clock in the forenoon with a downpour of rain it continued to increase in violence, until a perfect hurricane developed. By reports from the daily papers the storm seems to have been general, and even down in the lower provinces and southern States great damage and considerable loss of life is reported.

It is a safe conjecture that Markdale people never experienced such a wind. In the face of a gale blowing fifty or sixty miles an hour, walking was practically impossible, hats went sailing skyward and many amusing incidents occurred in the latter connection. Many barns and outbuildings in the country were unroofed, and giant trees were leveled to the ground.

Some of the damage wrought in town is as follows: M. Armstrong's windmill blown down, damage $40.00. Chimneys on the houses of Sheriff Henry and John Hannah were demolished. Del Walker's windmill toppled over onto his barn. End blown out of Tom Mann's carpenter shop. Spire on English Church blown over. Honey Bros' tannery partly unroofed. Blower at Furniture Factory damaged, and part of tin roofing removed.

Faultlight in Methodist church badly broken. Mail carrier Thos. Neely reports about seventeen barns either unroofed or partly unroofed on his route. Telephone and telegraph lines were put out of commission, and the part of the town was in darkness on Friday night owing to some electric light wires becoming displaced.

Passengers coming in on the trains tell of damage wrought in different parts of the province. Occasionally the train swayed with the force of the breeze like a crane, and many a passenger's face blanched at one, or two

When Tom O'Shaughnessy's old grey mare kicked up her heels and landed the road went clatter dash. It looked as though there'd be a smash. This Canny Scott enjoyed the fun. And said, "Hoot, Mon, I'll let her run; I know the lines and tugs will stand. Because they are the 'Ennis' brand. With confidence I tell this tale, To see the point you cannot fail. For horses often run away, And your's may try it any day. But, if like Tom, in his mad flight, Your harness holds and you sit tight, I guarantee you'll safely land, If you but use the Ennis Brand. Markdale Harness Emporium. R. W. ENNIS

WILSON—In Artesian on the 24th March, 1913, to Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Wilson, a son, BRADLEY—On Thursday, March 6th, 1913, to Mr. and Mrs. R. Bradley, Markdale, a son, a son (John Edward). THOMPSON—In Brandon, Man., on Wednesday, March 19, 1913, to Mr. and Mrs. Oscar W. Thompson, a daughter (Catherine Jane).

WILSON—In Artesian on the 24th March, 1913, to Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Wilson, a son, BRADLEY—On Thursday, March 6th, 1913, to Mr. and Mrs. R. Bradley, Markdale, a son, a son (John Edward). THOMPSON—In Brandon, Man., on Wednesday, March 19, 1913, to Mr. and Mrs. Oscar W. Thompson, a daughter (Catherine Jane).

WILSON—In Artesian on the 24th March, 1913, to Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Wilson, a son, BRADLEY—On Thursday, March 6th, 1913, to Mr. and Mrs. R. Bradley, Markdale, a son, a son (John Edward). THOMPSON—In Brandon, Man., on Wednesday, March 19, 1913, to Mr. and Mrs. Oscar W. Thompson, a daughter (Catherine Jane).

Equinoctial Gales Cause Great Damage

Windows and Buildings Shattered.—Many Barns Unroofed.—Worst Wind Storm in Years.

On Good Friday Markdale was in the throes of the fiercest equinoctial gale that has visited this latitude for years. From the west and southwest it raged all afternoon, and considerable damage was done. Commencing about ten o'clock in the forenoon with a downpour of rain it continued to increase in violence, until a perfect hurricane developed. By reports from the daily papers the storm seems to have been general, and even down in the lower provinces and southern States great damage and considerable loss of life is reported.

It is a safe conjecture that Markdale people never experienced such a wind. In the face of a gale blowing fifty or sixty miles an hour, walking was practically impossible, hats went sailing skyward and many amusing incidents occurred in the latter connection. Many barns and outbuildings in the country were unroofed, and giant trees were leveled to the ground.

Some of the damage wrought in town is as follows: M. Armstrong's windmill blown down, damage $40.00. Chimneys on the houses of Sheriff Henry and John Hannah were demolished. Del Walker's windmill toppled over onto his barn. End blown out of Tom Mann's carpenter shop. Spire on English Church blown over. Honey Bros' tannery partly unroofed. Blower at Furniture Factory damaged, and part of tin roofing removed.

Faultlight in Methodist church badly broken. Mail carrier Thos. Neely reports about seventeen barns either unroofed or partly unroofed on his route. Telephone and telegraph lines were put out of commission, and the part of the town was in darkness on Friday night owing to some electric light wires becoming displaced.

Passengers coming in on the trains tell of damage wrought in different parts of the province. Occasionally the train swayed with the force of the breeze like a crane, and many a passenger's face blanched at one, or two

When Tom O'Shaughnessy's old grey mare kicked up her heels and landed the road went clatter dash. It looked as though there'd be a smash. This Canny Scott enjoyed the fun. And said, "Hoot, Mon, I'll let her run; I know the lines and tugs will stand. Because they are the 'Ennis' brand. With confidence I tell this tale, To see the point you cannot fail. For horses often run away, And your's may try it any day. But, if like Tom, in his mad flight, Your harness holds and you sit tight, I guarantee you'll safely land, If you but use the Ennis Brand. Markdale Harness Emporium. R. W. ENNIS

WILSON—In Artesian on the 24th March, 1913, to Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Wilson, a son, BRADLEY—On Thursday, March 6th, 1913, to Mr. and Mrs. R. Bradley, Markdale, a son, a son (John Edward). THOMPSON—In Brandon, Man., on Wednesday, March 19, 1913, to Mr. and Mrs. Oscar W. Thompson, a daughter (Catherine Jane).

WILSON—In Artesian on the 24th March, 1913, to Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Wilson, a son, BRADLEY—On Thursday, March 6th, 1913, to Mr. and Mrs. R. Bradley, Markdale, a son, a son (John Edward). THOMPSON—In Brandon, Man., on Wednesday, March 19, 1913, to Mr. and Mrs. Oscar W. Thompson, a daughter (Catherine Jane).

WILSON—In Artesian on the 24th March, 1913, to Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Wilson, a son, BRADLEY—On Thursday, March 6th, 1913, to Mr. and Mrs. R. Bradley, Markdale, a son, a son (John Edward). THOMPSON—In Brandon, Man., on Wednesday, March 19, 1913, to Mr. and Mrs. Oscar W. Thompson, a daughter (Catherine Jane).

of the more severe oscillations. In some places in the province all the way along the tracks on both sides of the road hundreds of big trees were lying down and twisted as if some giant hand had taken hold of them, and the sheer pleasure of seeing what fantastic shapes they could assume had knotted the grotesqueness. Others were splintered into matchwood and scattered about in quivering fragments. Some were turned upside down, the roots grating in the grass and branches forced into the spring ground. One out of every three barns had their roofs blown off. In some cases they were thrown away bodily dozens of feet from their former position, and in many cases ends had been lifted up and swinging half over way with the gale like huge rafts upon a swelling sea. Some were blown on to the tops of trees and roofs, and trees sprang about in a wild fashion.

At Paisley the roof of St. John's Church was lifted clean off and went away for a quarter of a mile, sailing like an aeroplane. Southampton a large part of the roof of the Knechtel Furniture Company was torn out and thrown away like a piece of paper. From Wingham, Durham and Owen Sound great damage is reported, chimneys and barns being laid low everywhere. Those useful institutions which welcome the advent of kindly breezes, windmills, were overturned everywhere. Some of them were twisted round, looking as if they had cut throats of the spires, and others were beyond description in the varied shapes they assumed.

Easter in the Churches. ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH. Special Easter service was held in St. Joseph's Church on Sunday morning, when a large congregation was present. Rev. Father Ferguson gave an excellent discourse. The altar was beautifully decorated with palms, lilies and carnations. The close of the service the choir assembled at the parsonage, where a purse was presented to Mrs. Sullivan as a token of appreciation of her services as organist.

CHRIST CHURCH. Easter Day was duly observed at Christ Church. The Holy Communion was twice celebrated at 8 and 11 a.m. The Altar and choir were prettily decorated with flowers. The music was a special feature of the day. The anthem in the morning was "Seek Ye the Living Among the Dead" that at evensong, "Asleep in My Glory." The pastor preached from the text: "Why Seek Ye the Living Among the Dead?" and "He is Risen." Attendance at both services was fairly good, considering the fact that quite a few regular attendants were absent from town and others were prevented by illness.

Pickell, D.D.G.M. W. Grand Lodge. The Grand Lodge of Ontario, held its annual meeting at Markdale on Tuesday, March 19th. The meeting was held at the Grand Lodge in Markdale. The Grand Lodge of Ontario, held its annual meeting at Markdale on Tuesday, March 19th. The meeting was held at the Grand Lodge in Markdale.

Pickell, D.D.G.M. W. Grand Lodge. The Grand Lodge of Ontario, held its annual meeting at Markdale on Tuesday, March 19th. The meeting was held at the Grand Lodge in Markdale.

Pickell, D.D.G.M. W. Grand Lodge. The Grand Lodge of Ontario, held its annual meeting at Markdale on Tuesday, March 19th. The meeting was held at the Grand Lodge in Markdale.

Pickell, D.D.G.M. W. Grand Lodge. The Grand Lodge of Ontario, held its annual meeting at Markdale on Tuesday, March 19th. The meeting was held at the Grand Lodge in Markdale.

Pickell, D.D.G.M. W. Grand Lodge. The Grand Lodge of Ontario, held its annual meeting at Markdale on Tuesday, March 19th. The meeting was held at the Grand Lodge in Markdale.

Pickell, D.D.G.M. W. Grand Lodge. The Grand Lodge of Ontario, held its annual meeting at Markdale on Tuesday, March 19th. The meeting was held at the Grand Lodge in Markdale.

other on Sunday was not allowing doubtless to that Easter came so early.

ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH. Special Easter service was held in St. Joseph's Church on Sunday morning, when a large congregation was present. Rev. Father Ferguson gave an excellent discourse. The altar was beautifully decorated with palms, lilies and carnations. The close of the service the choir assembled at the parsonage, where a purse was presented to Mrs. Sullivan as a token of appreciation of her services as organist.

CHRIST CHURCH. Easter Day was duly observed at Christ Church. The Holy Communion was twice celebrated at 8 and 11 a.m. The Altar and choir were prettily decorated with flowers. The music was a special feature of the day. The anthem in the morning was "Seek Ye the Living Among the Dead" that at evensong, "Asleep in My Glory." The pastor preached from the text: "Why Seek Ye the Living Among the Dead?" and "He is Risen." Attendance at both services was fairly good, considering the fact that quite a few regular attendants were absent from town and others were prevented by illness.

Pickell, D.D.G.M. W. Grand Lodge. The Grand Lodge of Ontario, held its annual meeting at Markdale on Tuesday, March 19th. The meeting was held at the Grand Lodge in Markdale.

Pickell, D.D.G.M. W. Grand Lodge. The Grand Lodge of Ontario, held its annual meeting at Markdale on Tuesday, March 19th. The meeting was held at the Grand Lodge in Markdale.

Pickell, D.D.G.M. W. Grand Lodge. The Grand Lodge of Ontario, held its annual meeting at Markdale on Tuesday, March 19th. The meeting was held at the Grand Lodge in Markdale.

Pickell, D.D.G.M. W. Grand Lodge. The Grand Lodge of Ontario, held its annual meeting at Markdale on Tuesday, March 19th. The meeting was held at the Grand Lodge in Markdale.

Pickell, D.D.G.M. W. Grand Lodge. The Grand Lodge of Ontario, held its annual meeting at Markdale on Tuesday, March 19th. The meeting was held at the Grand Lodge in Markdale.

Pickell, D.D.G.M. W. Grand Lodge. The Grand Lodge of Ontario, held its annual meeting at Markdale on Tuesday, March 19th. The meeting was held at the Grand Lodge in Markdale.

Pickell, D.D.G.M. W. Grand Lodge. The Grand Lodge of Ontario, held its annual meeting at Markdale on Tuesday, March 19th. The meeting was held at the Grand Lodge in Markdale.

SEEDS

Government Standard No. 1 Ma... Cloth
Government Standard No. 1 Corn on Red Cloth
Government Standard No. 1 Lucerne or Alfalfa
Orchard Grass... mothy Seed
R. L. Stephen