

A Fit for Every Figure A Style for Every Taste

Look at these illustrations and note how the designers have studied the anatomy of every type of statue and have solved the problem of how to make clothes to fit every type. Styles for young men and business men that are distinctive and in a class by themselves. "Snappy" without being extreme; "Smart" without being conspicuous. No line offered to the trade receives the same infinite care in the making, and garments that pass the rigid scrutiny of our final inspection are well worth your while. I have these garments already in stock or I can make them to your measure, just as you choose. Be sure and see them before you buy your Spring Suit.

OUR PIONEERS

ROBERT SNELL

Over a century ago there resided at Daly's Bridge, county Cavan, Ireland, a sergeant of Yeomanry named John Snell. His son, George, who married Ellen, daughter of John MacManus, was blessed with a liberal education, and became the owner of some land in his native county. This, with other and which he rented, afforded himself and his young family a livelihood, but, becoming restless, he determined to sell out and to emigrate.

It was in 1829 that George Snell and his family sailed from Dublin. They were only twenty-four days on the passage to Quebec, and this despite the fact that they had over a week of violent storms. Mrs. Snell's mother and brother afterwards known in Ontario as George MacManus, M.P.P., accompanied them, and also later purchased a farm adjoining the one which they acquired.

They were able to travel only eighteen miles north of Toronto, by wagon, after which they were obliged to take the tandem nature gave them. Over logs and through wet places they journeyed in the June sun until they reached the township of Mono. With part of the money he had received for his Irish land George Snell bought a farm from a Dutchman; who had already cleared several acres; and then commenced their pioneer experiences. These were not so hard for the Snell family perhaps as for some others, for, with three acres of wheat already in, their food supply was largely insured. In the fall the wheat in question was cut with a reaping-hook, and beaten out with a flail. Like some others they early took up also the cultivation of flax, and a piece of linen spun and woven at the old home in Mono is still preserved in the family.

George Snell lived for the rest of his life upon the farm which he bought; and in the cemetery surrounding the church that was built upon his place he was finally laid to rest. For many years he was a leading man in both church and municipal matters. He was a class-leader until age compelled his retirement; and he served his township either as councillor or trustee for thirty-four years. Besides giving much of his time in the early days to the furtherance of education.

Mr. Robert Snell, who is now living in retirement in Markdale, was born in Mono on March 28th, 1833, and so will complete his eightieth year next Saturday. Fifty-eight years ago, next May, he was united in marriage by the Rev. John L. Kerr to Ann MacBride, daughter of Robert and Jane (Parker) MacBride, who, on the fifth of April 1911, finished her course, and was buried in the family plot at Mono.

Thirty-four years since Mr. Snell came up to Euphrasia, and bought a farm east of the Markdale Church, upon which he resided until he moved to town. He has lived to see his family of eight widely scattered, and to number among his descendants not only grandchildren but even great-grandchildren. The Rev. Isaac Snell, of Cartwright in the Bay of Quinte Conference, is his nephew.

Mr. Snell's reminiscences of his youth in Mono are full of interest. His memory has proved quite tenacious of incidents that were touching, pleasant, or amusing; and, spite of his age and infirmity, his eyes will still twinkle as he narrates some old episode. He has vivid memories of the ministers who seventy years ago visited his father's house and were there entertained. Amongst them the Rev. Francis Coleman, Professor of Geology in Toronto University; the Rev. W. S. Blacklock, whose name is known in legal circles; the Rev. Cornelius Flimmerhirt, whose life-story reads like an old-world romance; and many others. The influence which these devout and gifted men exercised upon the mind and character of the young boy was sweet and salutary and has held throughout all these subsequent years.

After being in a state of darkness for three years, the town of Harrison had the electric lights restored on Saturday last, March 30th, only to have them put out of commission by Sunday's flood.

Vestry Meeting.

There was a representative attendance at the Vestry meeting of Christ Church Monday night. The Wardens, Messrs. Bradley and Richardson, were reappointed. Miss Mann also consented to act again as Vestry Clerk for the coming year. The financial report revealed the fact that the Wardens have done splendid work, there being some new subscribers and increases on old subscriptions on both lists. An effort is being made to increase the income of the Church by a partial envelope system for those who prefer this method of giving. A hearty vote of thanks was passed to the Guild of Willing Workers for the financial assistance they had rendered the Wardens during the past year.

Mr. S. M. Young has accepted a position in Meaford.

A Chance for Grey County Farmers

The Board of Agriculture is an organization composed of representatives from all the Farmers' Clubs in the county of Grey. The object of this Board is to spread the good agricultural possibilities of the county to every creature, and to induce others to come and take up our vacant farms and make them better than they are. The Board also hopes to give a greater incentive to the farmers who are at present in the county and assist them to do better work than they are doing now.

It was thought by the members of the Board that an apple exhibit at the Toronto Flower, Fruit and Honey Show and prizes offered for the best stock from the county at the Guelph Winter Fair would be an inducement for Grey Farmers to put forth their best efforts and help to advertise themselves and the county to the rest of the province. To further this end the County Council was approached, and asked for a grant of $300. This the members of the council gave and now it is up to the farmers of the county to do their share.

One Hundred Dollars are divided as follows as prizes at the Winter Fair to be held in Guelph in December 1913: Sheep—Lone Wool—1st $6.00, 2nd $4.00, Medium Wool—1st $6.00, 2nd $4.00. Swine—Best Bacon Hog any breed—1st $10.00, 2nd $5.00. Beef Cattle (steer or heifer) 2 yrs. and under—1st $10.00, 2nd $5.00, and over—1st $10.00, 2nd $5.00. Horses, (any draft breed) Mare or Gelding—1st $10.00, 2nd $5.00. To be raised in Grey County, and to be owned by exhibitor at least three months previous to Show. The $200 has been set aside for the playing of an apple exhibit in Toronto in November and it is hoped that all fruit growers will assist with this work. More about this later.

$25,000 Damage At Owen Sound

The big whirlwind of Friday did damage in Owen Sound to the extent of over twenty-five thousand dollars. Not a telephone line was left in commission when darkness had fallen. Both the telegraph wires were in like plight. A score of persons were injured, but no one dangerously hurt. All other traffic was suspended, but several fires were promptly dealt with by the fire brigade. The greatest damage was done at the factory of the North American Furniture Company, a large portion of the wall of the four-story structure being torn off. A fire-protection watermain burst, and several carloads of furniture was damaged. The loss will run up to six or seven thousand dollars. The loss of this concern was the heaviest of any. The roof of the big plant, the Canadian Malleable Iron Company was also a heavy loser. The roof of part of its big new plant was lifted and thrown away into an adjoining field. The loss will be in the neighborhood of three thousand dollars. Among other losses was that of the Dominion Trans-

Meaford Man Killed in Storm

Harold Hill, Who Has Been Living in Toronto, Was Struck by Falling Roof—Died in Hospital. One life was lost in the storm which swept over Meaford last Friday. Harold Hill, son of Archibald Hill, of that town, was struck by a falling roof, thrown from a store. He was taken to Collingwood Hospital where he died shortly afterward. The young man has been living in Toronto and had taken a situation in his home town a few days ago. When the fire alarm rang he ran out of his house to see where the trouble was, and just as he got to the street was hit by a falling roof, which smashed his head almost to a jelly. He was about 25 years of age. Children are much more likely to contract the contagious diseases when they have colds. Whooping cough, diphtheria, scarlet fever, and consumption are diseases that are often contracted when the child has a cold. That is why all medical authorities say beware of colds. For the quick cure of colds you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It can always be depended upon and is a pleasant and safe to take. For sale by R. L. Stephen.

In justice to yourself, money back if you do not get relief from constipation.

Good health is largely dependent upon the bowels. When they are clogged with the wastes of the system, the body tends to become languid, and the brain action, nervousness, and other annoyances.

Avoid harsh cathartics. They give but temporary relief. They often aggravate the condition. They are particularly bad when the bowels are dry, delicate or aged persons.

Renall's

Renall's is a candy in tablet form, these candy and are noted for their soothing action upon the bowels. They don't irritate, produce nausea, looseness, nor the pines attend upon other purgatives. Their action is gentle and the taking of them almost becomes a duty.

Children like Renall's. They are ideal for aged persons.

CAUTION: Beware of cheap imitations. You can buy Renall's only at the Renall's Store.

There is a Renall's Store in Great Britain. There is a difference especially designed for the purpose.
