J. Jl. Hedley has almost com illeted the renovation to his store property. A large plate glass front has been put in, new floor laid, new chimney built, and yet there is a new roof covering to be laid, then the painting, after which Hedley's front will make some of the rest in town look sick.

While throwing a belt off an Emery grinding machine last Satnight, Newall Clendennan narrow escape from serious injury, if not even worse. The belt caught on a swiftly revolving pully and jerked the machine from foundation, throwing both Newall and the machinery some ten or twelve feet, with the machine on top. Newall got several bad bruises besides getting his face severely cut. He is again able to attend to his work at the power house.-Review.

An Unwelcome Guest.

A weather-beaten knight of the road halted with his pack in front of Fred Glintz's farm in Brant on uesday evening last and proceeded to put up for the night in his harn. Although not of a panicky nature, Fred doesn't advertise like the Scotch that he fears nae foe. The thought of a tramp roosting in his hay-loft, with a Henry Clay smoking between his teeth, is the kind of ghost that frightens' him after dark. Consequently when Chief Ferguson got a hurry-up call by phone on Tuesday night to go out and arrest the vagrant, it is not surprising that he should have discovered that Fred was behind the movement. But like King Edward at the Cressy who wanted to let the Black Prince earn his spurs, the Chief didn't send the necessary reinforcements and the farmer being left to his own sources, started in to give a modern imitation of the laying on of hands and the casting out of devils, and single-handed won a notable victory over the tramp fraternity by boosting the bum from his premises. As Fred didn't lose a feather in the fray his triumph was not imbittered by Na-noleon's lament after Jena, "Anpoleon's lament after Jena, other such victory and we are done."—Walkerton Telescope.

A Burdensome Tax.

Possibly every merchant, trades the town has felt the calls and demands made upon him the past months a rather burdensome tax The colored church in Guelph, the Turkish Missions, the recently Mustoka Free (3) Hospital, some personal appeals for local charity, and several appeals by letter for hospitals, sanitariums and chari table institutions of one kind and March 27th, 1913, eight years and a new furnace which is being in happens to be engaged in a some mercial pursuit it does not imply that he is a Carnegie or a Croesus A year's voluntary contributions in response to appeals amounts to a considerable sum, and goodness knows the cost of conducting business has greatly increased. Every business man and woman en over helping every good cause when i is a personal duty, but really all of us are not rich nough or philanthropic enough to contribute to all local enterprises and respond liberally to the innumerable outof-town appeals, also. No doubt but some persons have really had to stint their families, their church or himself or his business to respond to some calls on his purse. One sufferer remarks that "many of us find dodging our creditors trouble enough without having to dodge the professional that infest our main stree manville Statesman.

Million Dollar Bookroom

Is What the Canadian Methodists Will Have in Toronto.

Work on the million dollar Canadian Methodist headquarters is to be commenced on May 1. The block will be six storeys high. It will be the largest and most complete religious publishing house in the world.

An effort will be made t the structure completed by Sept. 1, 1914. The site is spacious, the Beverley Robinson house property affords a double frontage or 231 feet on Queen and Richmond streets, with frontage of 221 feet on In addition to the pullishing house, printing plant and a mammoth retail book room; the new Methodist headquarters will contain offices for the general conference officials. The plans are being prepared in accordance with specifications based on the report of Rev. J. J. Redditt, associate book steward. Rev. Mr. Redditt ascertained on visiting the church publishing houses in New York and Philadel. phia that their output was less than that of the present Wesley building on Richmond street the reports from the west of the Fowl. henomenal growth of the mission settlements, it is doubtful it the resent scale of plans will be fully dequate. The committee now regard $650,-

000 as a reasonable figure to place on the Richmond street property. This is an advance of $65,000 on the quotation of last fall. The committee will be independent of money market conditions,
