Masters Leslie and Harold Barrett spent the 24th with their cousins, Messrs. Ross and Eldridge, who were successful in catching several fish and among them was a trout, which weighed two and one-half pounds and measured eighteen inches from tip to tip.

A few from around here spent the 24th at Rocklyn. Miss Kernahan spent Saturday and Sunday at her home in Markdale.

Master Albert Bowers, of Stratburg, has spent the past week with his uncle, Mr. Aaron Birch. Mr. and Mrs. James Harbottle spent Saturday with Mrs. Neely, of Vanleure.

Miss Elsie McNevin, of Riverdale, spent Sunday at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. James Kirkpatrick are visiting friends in Woodford. It is our painful duty to report the death of Mrs. F. Birch, which took place on Monday, the 26th.

Messrs. Roy and James Kirkpatrick spent Sunday with Goring friends.

Miss Mae Lankford is spending a few days with her aunt, Mrs. E. Wilcox, at Eastwood Corner.

A number of Mr. John McArthur's neighbors gathered on Monday and raised the part of his barn which was blown down by the big windstorm on Good Friday.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Birch, which took place on Wednesday afternoon last was largely attended. The service at the house and church was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Kemp, of Heathcote.

Enthusiasm Ran High At Conservative Picnic

Treasurer, who was greeted with cheers and "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." "Take my word for it," he said, "I didn't arrange that picnic. I am not here to speak this afternoon, but only to say a word or two, and my first words will be an expression of satisfaction that you have turned out in such large numbers, many of you having travelled immense distances to meet and welcome Sir James Whitney, and hear his address on this his second visit to Markdale and the County of Grey. I am delighted with the gathering and the reception you have given him, a reception unexcelled in this part of the country, even greater than that accorded many years ago to Sir John Thompson. Sir James is here, and he has a number of the "boys" with him. You will hear from them and be able to judge them. Another word, I am delighted to see so many of our Grit friends here to-day. I like the Grits when they vote right. In fact, I like to talk to the Grits better than to the Tories—they need it more. I like a fight, but I like an acclamation better, and I do so seriously that I appreciate the attitude of the Liberal party on this occasion. I know that nothing will be said to hurt their feelings, although we will have to slap the Grits a little to-day. I believe you think you have done the right thing in electing me. I think you will feel you are in about the same position as that of the young man who went home with a young lady—it was not his regular young lady—but he enjoyed the stroll down the street, and when they reached the garden gate just as a parting he said, (not wanting the boys to hear of it) "Now, you better not say anything about this." "No," she said, "I am just as ashamed of it as you are. (Laughter.) I thank you again for your presence here, particularly in view of the fact that this is the first public appearance in this part of the country of the Prime Minister since he attained that position."

HON. DR. PYNE

The Honourable Dr. Pyne, the Minister of Education, expressed his great pleasure at being present. He hardly knew what to say, as last week he had expected a contest in this riding, but he did not look on the gathering to-day as a political gathering at all, because it had been referred to as a "love-feast." He referred to his former visit to Markdale, when the Honourable Mr. Lucas had been first taken into the Cabinet, several years ago. The Provincial Treasurer's office had always fallen to a Scotchman, because, they said, a Scotchman kept the Sabbath and everything else they can get their hands on, which explained the reason he had never been able to aspire to that office. But what had commended the Hon. Mr. Lucas to Sir James was his natural adaptability to "gather things in." The Hon. Mr. Lucas had never led him to, to tell his colleagues that he came of Irish descent. The Provincial Treasurer and himself had entered the House about the same time, and got to know each other very well during the strenuous parliamentary in days gone by, in which the Hon. Mr. Lucas had taken his part in the debates and had been foremost in the battle. "I am glad you have honoured him to-day," said Dr. Pyne, "when he has arisen to one of the most important positions in the Province of the Prime Minister of the Province."

PROMISES FULFILLED

The Educational system had been criticized by almost every citizen. Practically every citizen who is teaching in any of our cottages is framing an educational policy for his school, he declared. We here as public men are courting criticism, and therefore we have no complaint to make. Most of the things promised by Sir James and his party in opposition have been carried out and fulfilled. His promises made in regard to education have been carried out. He broke up the great school-book ring, as he promised to do in days gone by. He has given you better qualified teachers in this Province. We have immense difficulty in providing teachers and keeping them on account of the great development in the northwestern part of Canada offering them such inducements that are taking the teachers away. I hope the people of Centre Grey will assist in keeping the best of the teaching profession in this Province. There have been great strides in development, necessitating industrial education. The great agricultural industry—the greatest of all—has received more attention from the Government than any other industry, which is quite natural. Industry which is quite natural. Industry brought about than before. Nearly forty agricultural educationists had been appointed in the various counties of this Province, and in a short time it is expected the system would be extended to every County in the Province, with an agricultural representative doing work that will show the people that the Whitney Government has the interests of the people at heart. That is something greater than the Transmontan tariff. If Sir James were not so modest, he might tell you that it was largely through his instrumentality that the Dominion Government had set aside the large sum was all the hope, all the encouragement, my friends, he thought he could give to the people. In three years and a half from that day, the new Government had doubled the revenue of the Province. We went to work systematically as soon as we took office, we went to work to do what we promised to do, to fulfil and carry out the pledges that we had been making in Opposition, because we had been making a number of them, and we carried them out, but one, I think, ladies and gentlemen, during the first parliamentary term that we held office. We are now, it would, indeed, take me too long if I went over the list of all these good things we did during the first term. We put the Province on a sound financial footing, put the numbered ballot where it ought to have been long before. We took up the public school system, and the agricultural system, and put them in good shape. Now, since then we have gone on doing all those things which it was our duty to do, and doing things which I am happy to say, have commended themselves to the good judgment of the people of the Province of Ontario. We paid about half a million dollars in one year towards the salaries of the teachers in the public schools, created a course in agriculture for public school teachers in the College at Guelph. We pay the University from $450,000 to $500,000 every year—and what is the University of Toronto? It is the one great state-owned institution for higher education in this Province, inside the portals of which the sons of the farmers of the Province are now getting that superior education which they are entitled to get, and in which, as one of the great factors in the happiness and prosperity of the Province they are entitled to share. We have paid half a million of dollars or more in a year for colonization roads in New Ontario, and as Dr. Pyne has said, we have District representatives in nearly forty counties, teaching agriculture in the most satisfactory way. You are acquainted with the facts in connection with the building of the new Central Prison and the same scheme applied there in allowing the work to be done by the prisoners. We have shown that we have endeavored to trust these prisoners, and we believe they are not unworthy of trust, and the results have been of the very best nature. We finished the T. & N. O. Railway, and we have entered into an arrangement with the Grand Trunk by which that Company in return for the right to run trains over our line has agreed to pay the Government of the Province $300,000 every year.

Then you are aware of what is being done with relation to the great power question, which has already brought about a revolution in industrial life, a revolution which is not ended yet, which will bring to the people of the Province a great increase in their business and industrial prosperity. We built a new wing to the Parliament Buildings; we found a desirable site for Government House, and the money received from the sale of the old site will build the new one, leaving a considerable over that for upsets. We sold the Central Prison and Toronto Asylum sites for over a million dollars. There shall be no doubt as to the real value of the services which we feel it our duty to perform to the people.

AID FROM DOMINION GOVT.

Now then, when the last Dominion campaign was on, we urged upon Mr. Borden that he should agree, if he came into power, that he would give a bonus to our Provincial Railway of from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 to which we were entitled, just as well as any other railway. We also asked him to agree to give us aid in highways, and aid towards immigration. He promised to do all three, and so far as he could do them, he has done them. He has voted for two years in succession, the last time two days ago, the appropriation for the bonus to the T. & N. O. Railway of a little over $2,000,000, that is for our Government railway. He has given considerable towards aid for agriculture; he is now appropriating $10,000,000 to be expended in 10 years throughout the Dominion of Canada.

A WORD FOR THE SENATE

I have no time to speak about it this afternoon, but the Senate of Canada, the majority of which are followers of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and very properly and singularly viceroy of Ontario down into the "hotchpotch pit of corruption and despair," has refused to allow the legislation to aid highways—besides the naval bill, to which I have not time to refer this afternoon—has refused to give the people of Ontario the aid which the Dominion Government is ready and willing and anxious to give us. I have no doubt that the historian will record both as to the influence which put the Province of Ontario where it was, and the influence which dominated the action of the Senate the other day in refusing to pass the legislation given to the Province.

I have hurried, or tried to hurry over these things that I wanted to say, and I feel that I have not done justice to any one of them. of $10,000,000, which will result in great good, not only to Ontario, but to every Province of the Dominion.

Now last year, or the year before last, believing that nothing can be of such importance to an agricultural community as good roads, good highways and good communications, the Government of Ontario provided an appropriation of $5,000,000 for the purpose of building highways in New Ontario. We have announced that next Session we propose to provide an appropriation of from five to ten millions of dollars for good roads in Old Ontario, and thank God, and I say it reverently, we can build them in spite of the Senate. These free people, these civilized people, these people occupying the position they do on the continent of North America, living under the favor of the Almighty Being, blessed by the operation of British institutions, can defy the fossils in the Senate Chamber at Ottawa; and we can say to each other, please God, what we choose to do with our money with regard to our roads; and they will do.

THE LIQUOR QUESTION

I want to say a few words to you on the liquor question. Some people say—I do not mean anybody here—Oh, let it alone. Why? I will not let it alone. Why? Because it is my duty to deal with it, my duty as a man who respects himself. It is my duty as a public man who has to do the work that falls to his lot as the servant of the people. When I first ran for the legislature, I had the summer previous been one of the United counties of Stormont, Dundas and Gengarry, and advocated the adoption of what was known as Scott or Canada Temperance Act—why? Not because I believed there was any miraculous effect to be expected from it, because I did not expect anything of that kind from human sources, but rather that I believed, as I do now, that any good man in any community should feel it to be his duty to do everything that lies in his power to minimize the evils which are caused from the liquor habit and the liquor traffic. Six months afterwards I was the candidate of the Conservative party for the Legislature for the County of Dundas; and I was beaten by 35 of a majority. I think that every hotel keeper but one voted against me, and I am proud to say that the election was not over until a number of them were terribly sorry they had voted against me. We went to work and we got the man out who beat me, and then I was elected. The Opposition took their stand in the Legislature on this great question. We said that we would do what we could to enforce the liquor license law as it has never been before. A great many people say what a terrible thing that local option, that three fifths clause is. The people are beginning to understand that the salvation of restrictive legislation in a country like this is the provisions of the three fifths clause. There is not a civilized country on earth except one or two—where a simple majority governs, and I am going to show you something.

Here is a bill entitled the Temperance Scotland Bill. This is a bill that was introduced into the British Parliament a few months ago providing for temperance legislation in Scotland. It was passed since. There are three provisions in this Bill, one is if the people wish to vote to do away with license and another is to limit the sale of liquor to certain places, and the manner in which a requisition is laid with the local authority, on an appeal if three fifths at least in number of the votes recorded are in favor of a new license resolution, and not less than 30 per cent of the votes is recorded, such legislation shall be deemed to be carried, and one of the highest statesmen occupying one of the highest positions in Great Britain would not listen for a moment to any proposition of this kind on a simple majority and I feel that every man who is a member of the British House of Commons and find the name of one man amongst the 656 members who, during the last 25 years, declared that a matter of local option should be decided on a majority. We are not sorry for our act with relation to this question, and it is because we cannot have total prohibition. The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, the greatest tribunal in this world, has decided that we can have a law in our Act, we cannot have prohibition, and therefore we must do the best we can.

HAS BEEN CRITICIZED

Now through all these years, during the nearly nine years, we have been in power, we have never hesitated. We have received criticism, unfavorable criticism from political opponents, and we have received unfavorable criticism from political friends, and we have never faltered, and we will not falter, but will go on from the basis which I have indicated, doing our duty, feeling that it will be a satisfaction to us as we grow older to know that we have been instrumental in lessening and diminishing the evils which come to humanity from over indulgence in intoxicating drink.

I did have some things to say here with reference to my political opponents and this very great question, but I do not know whether the situation or the circumstances, as I have already indicated, which I have found here will prevent me from saying them or not, but I think I will say one or two of them anyway. You hear a great deal about "banish the bar." Well, where do you hear it? I have not heard anything about it in
