may be that we have not been taught to fully appreciate the significance of Confederation. The fact that men and newspapers are discussing the matter is a sign that a change is possible.

Interest in the progress of the Democratic Tariff Bill at Washington has been revived by the turn of recent dovelopments. In the original draft of the bill provision was made for substantial reduction in various raw food products such as live stock and wheat, but they were not placed on the free list, the amount of duty remaining being, it was claimed, sufficient to provide the American farmer with ample protection, and to prevent the measure from being much good to the Canadian farmer. Finished food products such as meats and flour were on the free list. Incidentally this looked like a pretty soft arrangement for Car adian millers and meat packers. However, the more radical Democrate have declared that the only thing to do is to make a clean sweep of duties on food stuffs. It now looks as though their view might prevail with a certain provise, and it is this exception which is of particular interest to Canadians.

The present proposal is, that wheat, live stock, etc., should be placed on the free list, but that in the case of countries maintaining a duty against these articles a duty of a similar amount will be levied by the United States.

A Versatlic Ruler. The U. S. Tariff.

A Versatlle Ruler.

Canadians do not know much about the politics of France, but the visit of President Poincare to the King of England calls attention to one of the most remarkable men in the world to day. Poincare is the first man who has been both Premier and President of France. It is rather difficult to understand why any country should have both a Premier and a President or to understand what the respective functions of the two are. In a broad sense the powers of the President are similar to those of the President of the United States, with the exception that the office is supposed to be not a party one, but detached and judicial, something like that of the Governor-General of Canada. The Premiership is, on the other hand, held by a party leader just as in the case of our own Premiership. Poincare is the first man who has been considered sufficiently impartial and has had sufficient popularity and ability to secure elevation from the Premier's position to that of President.

His services to France have been remarkable, and it is understood that in his short term of office he has already converted a shaky Republic into one of considerable strength and stability. His popularity with all classes of people is tremendous. And in addition to his marked success as a statesman he is known as a most generous and discriminating patron of arts and letters.

There are those who say that the chief executive of the lold world's solitary Republic figure in the world to day.

The profits which are yet to be made in the hotel business in this country may be indicated by the fact that transfer has justified made of a Toronto hotel license at a price said to exceed considerably the sum of $100,000. It was the highest figure that has ever been paid in Canada for a hotel license. The property in question is centrally situated down town, its main business being in the bar which, though almost one hundred feet long, does not by any means hold the record for Toronto, there being two or three others with greater dimensions.

It is understood that the property which has been in the possession of one family for upwards of forty years, now passes into the hands of interests which are controlled by one or other of the breweries. Brewery ownership is understood to apply to many hotels. And in other cases individuals own more than one hostely. This system of the houses is however, frowned upon by the License Commissioners, who desire as far as possible to suppress trafficking or speculating in hotel licenses and it can therefore only be put into effect under cover.

Later reports from the scene of the fighting say that the Servian artillery had gone into action, and a fierce battle was in progress in which both sides had suffered considerable losses. The Bulgarian attack on the Servians has created a dangerous state of excitement here. The newspapers publish special editions, declaring, in large type, "War has begun." The streets and cafes are filled with excited crowds.
