(Orangeville Sun.)
 For many years, until quite recently, Orangeville used to have a Dominion Day celebration that beat anything held in the smaller towns. The people who used to come in an army of 10,000 got a good run for their money. But times have changed. Nearly all the good workers have disappeared from the scene and for a few years there has been no Dominion Day demonstration here. What's the matter? Surely there needs to be an awakening. The fellows of to-day ought to be as good as the sports of yesterday.

"Money talks." "Yes, and it generally talks cents."
