

After all, it is QUALITY that counts

During the past few weeks of Slaughter Sales the people of Markdale have had a great opportunity to choose between my exclusive high-class clothes tailored up to a standard and those of the other kind made down to a price. Never before have I been so well satisfied with the foundation of "quality" on which I built this business. My ideal has always been high-class goods at a fair price—fair to the buyer, fair to the seller.

To-day that policy is giving its best results. While others are driven to questionable methods to unload their "cheap" clothing, my hand-tailored garments for men stand out in a class by themselves and sell at 100 cents on the dollar, and the customer knows they are worth the money.

At present I am showing a beautiful range of two and three-piece Summer Suits cut in a smart two-button model (same as illustration) made from "Hewson Homespun" in grey, brown, leather mixtures, prices $10, $12, $15, $18. See these exclusive lines before you buy.

Children With Defective Sight.

A letter received from Mr. Gardiner, Principal of the Ontario School for the Blind, from the Superintendent of the American Mission School for the blind at Bonnay, India, mentions that the estimated number of blind people in India is 500,000, of whom certainly not more than 500 have had any opportunity for an education or training along industrial lines.

Reports from many places in the United States, as well as from several European countries, indicate that blindness is decreasing in the most highly civilized communities, largely as the result of greater knowledge, and more attention to preventive measures, on the part of physicians and nurses. While the returns of the last Dominion census of this subject have not yet been tabulated and published, there is reason to believe that a similar statement is applicable to Canada. Nevertheless, it is probable that there are now—as there always have been—many young people in Ontario who ought to be enrolled as pupils in the School at Brantford, but are not. Some parents of blind children have never heard of the School; others are sensitive about letting it be known that their children are afflicted; many, from what might be described as excessive affection, do not like to be separated from their children, even for the children's good. To get into communication with the parents of those for whose benefit the School is maintained, the Principal depends largely upon the kind intervention of neighbors, teachers, ministers and municipal officers, and he will be glad to get from any reader of The Standard the name and postoffice address of any person under twenty-one years of age, who is blind, or whose sight is so defective that attendance at the local Public School is not practicable. By the methods in use at Brantford, a good English education can be acquired by the sightless, and instruction is also given in such trades as are available to enable the blind to become self-supporting. There is no charge for board, tuition or books. Address H. F. Gardiner, Principal O.S.B., Brantford.

OWEN SOUND

"There is nothing in it," That was the comment of Mr. W. S. Middlebro K.C., M.P., with respect to the rumor that he was slated for a judgeship, a rumor which was given publicity for the first time through the columns of a local journal. Mr. Middlebro is emphatic in his statement that so far as he has any knowledge no judge's mantle is due to be wafted down upon his shoulders.

THORNBURY

Mr. Truesdale was in Clarksburg on Tuesday. The Doctor had a good property here at one time, but allowed it to rot down and wash away in floods till very little is left, except the anathemas of indignant citizens at the unsightly ruins that should be removed.

Mr. Frank Sheers motored on his bicycle over the mountain and down through Osprey last week. He finds the fourth concession the best piece of road in Collingwood Township. He thinks, however, that our road makers could learn considerably from the way things are down in Osprey.—Review.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hoy drove to the caves and spent Sunday exploring the innermost depths of the same. They enjoyed the rather unique pleasure of a snow balling contest. There are cavities in which snow remains during the entire year.

W. Brown, the man charged with attempted assault on a young girl in Clarksburg last week, had a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Pye and was committed to Owen Sound jail there to await his trial. He has secured lawyer Wright and it is expected that the trial will be brought on in about three weeks. If the charge is proven against him the penalty will be a heavy one.—Herald.

DUNDALK

Regis Bell has been suffering from "blood poisoning" but is now on the mend. Some time ago he received a nasty scratch on the arm and poison from the wound went through his system. His feet were affected the first of the week and he was confined to bed.

A destructive fire occurred at Bryce Hill early Thursday morning of last week, when Murt Woolsey's saw-mill was destroyed, with a quantity of shingles and lumber.

Mr. L. W. McArdle, barrister of Calgary, was in town Saturday on his way to visit the old home at Hopeville. With characteristic optimism he says that although money is exceedingly tight for speculation and building operations, still, general business is fairly good in Calgary and crops in that locality promise well.—Herald.

SHELBYNE

Dr. F. C. Frank, James A. Jelly and Walter Calhoun of Shelburne, caught four speckled trout in Mulmur Lake on Tuesday, that weighed 17 pounds.

J. H. Stoneman, of Amaranth left at this office on Thursday a very large hen's egg that measured 78½ inches. If this is not the largest recorded this season it is worthy of second place.

The most exciting runaway seen here for years took place on Thursday last. Ernest George, an Englishman, had just started work for Major Gabriel and drove into town with one of Mr. Gabriel's teams to get his truck at the depot. Mr. George is a capable man and knows how to handle a team but being used to driving teams in cities where the horses are well trained and take no notice of trains or automobiles, he drove the team close to an engine at the station. The horses were badly scared and ran away, throwing Mr. George out and inflicting rather severe injuries. The team came down the main street at a furious pace and ran east until they collided with a telephone pole near the grist mill. The harness and wagon were badly used up—but no great damage was done. Mr. George is now about all right again.—Free Press.

DURHAM

On Monday morning Mr. Wesley Morton met with a painful accident in the furniture factory here when the nail was torn from his little finger by the machine he was running.

David Keyes, contractor, of Kingdon, came into town on Monday morning last with a car loaded with lumber, cement-mixer, and other paraphernalia belonging to his outfit. Mr. Keyes has the contract of building the McMillivray bridge in Glengary township, and will start the work at once. We understand he has a bridge to put up in Bentinck township also.

A few weeks ago we reported a runaway team that was brought to a sudden halt just in front of our office by running astride an electric light pole. The last issue of the Markdale Standard reports a similar runaway with similar results. The team ran against a pole, in front of the Standard Office. In both cases the neckyokes and harness were broken, but otherwise little damage was done. Newspaper offices are evidently great hold-ups for runaway teams.

NAVAL DISCIPLINE

Punishments That Are Meted Out to British Sailors.

For infraction of regulations some curious punishments are meted out in the English navy. It is an every day occurrence, says the London Times, to see half a dozen sailors lined up on deck facing the paint work, holding their hammocks on their shoulders. At first the hammock isn't heavy, but after an hour or so it drags on one's shoulders like lead. Besides, it is not at all entertaining to stare fixedly at a square foot of painted woodwork for an hour or more at a time.

Another punishment that Jack de-serves is balling with a spoon. He is placed upon the deck, with two large wooden buckets, one filled with water and the other empty. With a spoon he must dip all the water from one bucket and transfer it to the other, being meanwhile the butt of his comrades' jests and jeers.

Sometimes a delinquent is made to walk slowly backward and forward along the deck, nursing in his arms a six inch projectile, weighing a little over 100 pounds. Once a sailor who laughed at the stammering speech of his commander was made to stand upon the forebridge in full view of the ship's crew and laugh for an hour, and a half.

Spitting upon the deck of a man-of-war is strictly prohibited. Cupids are placed at intervals along the deck, and these must be used. Upon some ships when a sailor is caught spitting on the deck a small tub is strapped to his chest, and he is made to wear it.

Any one who chooses may use this walking receptacle. The offender thus punished rarely repeats his offense.

BALZAC'S BACK DOOR.

It Was Convenient When Creditors Came Too Insistent.

In the year 1848 or thereabout, being worried by dues in Paris, Balzac took lodgings in Passy, then a village in the environs of a house in the Rue Basse. There is little remarkable about the front of the house. It is just a plain, white, two storied French dwelling of a hundred years ago or of today.

But at the back is a garden, and at the bottom of the garden is a doorway leading into one of the oldest lanes in the world, from the look of it. Truly, this ruelle, with its crumbling walls of stone and plaster, its ivy and its shade of overhanging trees, is as happily devoid of suggestions of modern "improvements" as anything to be found within the suburbs of Paris.

By means of this byway Balzac, when insistent voices from within the house reached his ears as he worked in his little pavilion at the end of the garden, could avoid the unpleasantness of an interview with any holder of the overdues bills which throughout his life were the only tangible results of his experiments as a printer and type founder.

It needs but little imagination to see him hurry down the lane, hatless and in slippers, to await events, while the dreams of exploiting the jewels of the Golconda or the silver mines of the new world.

NATURE'S CARVINGS.

There is a rock profile to be seen on Mount Wilson, California, which is more striking than the famous formation in the White mountains, although the former is said by some to be the most perfect of all of "nature's carvings."

The features are strong and full of expression and the contour of the head of correct proportions, the forehead lofty, the eyebrows jutting, and the aquiline nose is exceedingly vigorous. The mouth is hard and set, but complete in detail, and even the line from the nostril to the corner of the mouth and the rugged modeling of the cheeks are distinctly marked. The chin and jaw are correctly sculptured, and even the line of the high collar and old fashioned coat may be seen on this remarkable boulder.

THE BANANA.

The banana plant bears fruit every year. It is one of the most productive plants in the world and feeds more people than any other known to man.

It has been estimated that more than a third of the human race depend almost wholly for their existence upon the banana. That the fruit is ample to sustain life, and to sustain it in a very satisfactory manner, is demonstrated by the fact that the millions who live on practically nothing else get along very well with it and appear to be as strong and active as those who live on other kinds of food.

THE PIANO CASE.

To restore polish on a piano case first dust it with a dry, soft cloth, then dip a piece of chamois skin of good size in clear, cold water and wring as dry as possible, rub over the piano with this and if the skin becomes splattered rinse well and use again, always wringing as clear of water as possible each time. When it is clean polish with a soft dry skin.

AN IMPROVEMENT.

"Mrs. Newrich has put a beautifully carved sundial in her Italian garden."

"Yes?"

"And she has arranged to have it electrically lighted at night so she can tell the time at all hours."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

She Hit Back.

"He—Women have no real judgment in serious matters. She—Yes, and men count on that when they ask women to marry them."—Baltimore American.

DISCUSSION.

"My doctor tells me I may eat whatever I like."

"Then why are you looking so down in the mouth?"

"He didn't tell me how to get it."

LITTLE CHAT.

"Like a Bad Egg."

"Though a man with money be a bad egg, people seldom take offense until he breaks."

WESTERN CANADA

A BUMPER WHEAT CROP.

Thousands of Men Required.

This Year's Harvest Promises to be the Largest in CANADA.

According to present indications the wheat crop of 1913 will be the greatest ever harvested in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta, thus requiring the farm laborers of the East to assist in harvesting the world's greatest bread basket.

The Governments of the respective Provinces state that many thousand men will be required for this year's harvest; these will have to be principally recruited from Ontario, and the prosperity of Canada depends on securing labor promptly. The Canadian Pacific, on which Company will fall practically the entire task of transporting the men to the West, is already making special arrangements for this year.
