SOLEISM IS THE LATEST.

Predicting the Future From Baby's Pink Foot.

Countess de la Rochefoucald, who traces her ancestry back to the bluest blood of France, is the heroine of a new science. She reads the baby's foot. She predicts from the cradle the future of the tiny creature who reposes there. This latest science is called soleism. Countess de la Rochefoucald from her girlhood days has had a perfect mastery over palm reading, and so famous did she become in this vocation that whenever there was a dinner party or afternoon tea she was besieged by hostess and guests to Palm reading had its limitations, however. Length of life, the tragedies or felicities of love, portending accidents, etc., ceased to interest her. A yearning toward the forcwarnings of impending crime obsessed her. She believed the foot would be the medium by which one could tell the future criminal in the baby or point out the undiscovered murderer in the man.

Tedious and long wore her researches, and it is only now after thoroughly satisfying herself that her prognostications are absolutely sound that she consents to divulge her secret.

"Murderers are marked from pirth," proclaims the countess. 'Traits of viciousness and criminality are shown in the feet of the new-born baby; unreadable, naturally, to all but an expert in this study.

"I have not been able to follow the career of a child so marked, inasmuch as my experiments cover, practically, only a period of ten years; but whenever these signs of criminal tendencies have shown themselves, that baby has developed into a cruel, brutalizing boy, and as time passes I am convinced that a life will be forfeited at his hands.

UNIQUE MOVEMENT.

Financier Says Work Is Better When Laborers Sing.

A movement to increase the on foot by Jacques Vernes, the wellknown French financier.

M. Vernes argues that France's industrial decline, as compared with other nations, is largely attributable to the fact that modern Frenchmen have neglected the arts of song and dance. This theory has aroused lively discussion in the artistic as well as the industrial circles of Paris.

"What is chiefly needed in the industrial pursuits," says M. Vernes,
"is a knowledge of rhythmical movement.

"As rhythem is the principal basis of work I have decided to introduce music in all the industrial enterprises with which I am connected. I tried it in the Pyrenees where we have built roads and bridges. The result is simply amazing. I do not mean ragtime music or tango dancing. I want to revive the times when every workman sang at his bench.

"The spirit of commercialism as exemplified in Paris by American methods has had a depressing influence in France. While it has taught us much it is in direct conflict with our nature. A counteracting influence is necessary, and I believe that I have found it in songs for workers.'
