WARD BABY'S HEALTH
IN THE SUMMER
The summer months are the most dangerous to the baby. The commonest ailments, diarrhoea, colic, croup, etc., are more likely to occur than in any other season. It is important to keep the baby cool and comfortable. A light gown and a cool room are necessary. The baby should be kept in a cool, airy room, and the nursing should be continued.

A Special Form of Bad Dream for Each Sleeper.

the "Nerviline" Method.
Every mother knows how difficult it is to get a young child to take a cough medicine. Seldem will do help unless given in large doses, and the result is to completely upset the stomach and make the child sick.
Speaking of the prompt cure for coughs, trouble and children's colds, Mrs. Currington says: "In all my experience in nursing I haven't met any preparation so dependable as Nerviline. It is the ideal remedy. Every drop you rub on is absorbed quickly, sinks through the pores to the congested mucous, eases, relieves, and cures quickly. Especially for chest colds, pain in the side, stiff neck, croup, toothache, I have found Nerviline invaluable. In treating the minor ills of children Nerviline has no equal." Hundreds of thousands of bottles of Nerviline used every year—proof that it is the ideal liniment for the home. Re-stead of Nerviline. Get the genuine, and be sure it is Nerviline. All dealers of

THE DOCTOR'S GIFT.
Food Worth Its Weight in Gold.
We usually expect the doctor to put us on some kind of penance and give us bitter medicines. Now we know that a good doctor will be rightly trying to think out how we should live, and we will agree with him. He will give us something that will do us good. He will give us something that will do us good.
He will give us something that will do us good. He will give us something that will do us good. He will

SALT RHEUM CAME

Famous Watery Pimples, Itchy and

Lastest One of Fine Nails, Could Not Open Hands, Cured by Cuticure Soap and Ointment.
I have suffered for years with this terrible skin disease. I tried everything I could think of, but nothing helped. I was so miserable that I could not even work. I tried Cuti-cure Soap and Ointment, and in a few days I was cured.
I can now open my hands and work as usual. I am so glad that I found Cuti-cure. It is a miraculous cure for this terrible disease. I can now

Unintentional Suggestion.
Worrying again?
Yes. So many people are telling me not to worry that I can't help thinking about my troubles.
An old farmer from the County Kerry really couldn't believe that people who were miles apart were able to converse over a telephone wire. One day his wife went to a distant friend, who had a telephone in her house. During the afternoon the farmer sought shelter from the thunderstorm at the house of a neighbor who also possessed a telephone, and who persuaded the farmer to call his wife as a little surprise.
The farmer put the receiver to his ear, and after a usual preliminary he shouted "Hello, Jane." Just then a flash of lightning struck the wire and he fell to the floor under the force of the shock. Rising to his feet and shaking his head wisely he said, "It's wonderful, that was Jane right enough."

LION-HUNTING IN A SEWER.
An Exciting Time in Birmingham, England.
The man who trains wild animals must always be prepared for adventures, even when he least expects them. During a fair in Birmingham, England, says Mr. Frank Bostock in the Scout, we attempted to transfer a fine African lion from a small cage to a larger one, where the crowds could more easily see him. The animal was in an ugly mood, and leaped into the larger compartment with such force that the two cages rolled away from each door, and left a space between the doors, through which he promptly jumped. In another minute he was in the streets of Birmingham.
As he ran along, roaring fiercely at the crowd that quickly collected, he came to the opening of one of the city sewers, and into this he sprang. Then he disappeared, but as he passed along the sewer he stopped at every manhole to roar again, until the whole earth stem-ped to the full of angry lions.

PAID FOR GOOD WISHES.
Hotel-keeper Takes Neat Revenge on a Lawyer.
A Berne (Switzerland) hotel-keeper who recently concluded a lawsuit in the Swiss courts which had lasted for years and who received at the close an exceedingly lengthy bill of costs has just taken a neat revenge upon his lawyer.
An Eastern doctor brought a patient something entirely different and the results are truly interesting.
"Two years ago," says this patient, "I was a frequent victim of acute indigestion and biliousness, being allowed to eat very few things. One day our family doctor brought me a small package, saying he had found something for me to eat.
"He said it was a food called Grape-Nuts, and even as its golden color might suggest it was worth its weight in gold. I was sick and tired, trying one thing after another to no avail, but consented to try this new food.
"Well, it surpassed my every day's food. Since then I have blessed the good doctor and the inventor of Grape-Nuts."
I noticed improvement at once, and in a month's time my former spells of indigestion had disappeared. In two months I felt like a new man. My mind was much clearer and keener, my body took on the vitality of youth, and this condition has continued."

Where He Got It.
Teacher—Now, Willie, where did you get that chewing gum? I want the truth.
Willie—You don't want the truth, teacher, an I'd rather not tell a lie.
Teacher—How dare you say I don't want the truth! I'll be at once where you got that chewing gum.
Willie—Under your desk.
A naval seaman has once every day to salute the quarter-deck of his ship, even if an Officer is upon it. "Saluda" Tea is in such popular favor that many people feel like saluting a packet wherever they see it.
No Time For Play.
Ten-year-old William came home one day in a regrettable state of disorder, and a somewhat bruised face.
"O Willie, Willie," exclaimed his mother, shocked and grieved. "You have disobeyed me again! How often have I told you not to play with that naughty Johnson boy?"
"Mamma," said William, in utter disgust of this feminine reprimand, "do I look as if I had been playing with anybody?"

AUSTRALIA'S BIG FUTURE.
Department of Agriculture Talks of Egg Laying Contests.
The Department of Agriculture of New South Wales, Australia, in one of its bulletins, has the following to say relative to egg laying contests:
"Truly, it can be said that the competitions have proved the greatest educational force. The Australian poultry world has known. The industry has been revolutionized and placed on a sound remunerative basis, with every prospect of further advancement in extent, stability and profitableness. The old-time query, 'does poultry pay?' is met with a chorus of affirmative voices in actual results. The competitions have set a standard and provided an ever-present incentive and stimulus to progress. Everywhere we find better fowls, better cared for, giving better monetary returns. The spirit of rivalry and emulation has infected hundreds, thousands, and the constant study and striving to secure and breed fowls of higher productivity has inevitably borne good fruit, and is reflected in balance sheets of the poultry farmers." The whole history of livestock breeding armies with proofs that man cannot concentrate effort, skill and intelligence upon a higher ideal without ultimately making progress in the direction of fixing and enhancing desired characteristics.
This is as true of the hen as it is of the race horse or the merino sheep.
In the process breeds and strains and types that did not conform to the objective have been cast aside for the progressive in the quest for better and better layers. Naturally many have met with disappointments and contradictory results, but this has not affected the general average in the forward-march."

Gained in Weight,
Digestion Restored,
Health Renewed
Here Is More Proof of Quick Cure for ALL Folks that are Weak, Ailing, Nervous.
More Prais for Dr. Hamilton's Pills.
"For a period last summer the thought of food excited feelings of nausea," writes Mrs. C. A. Dodge, of Bloombury. "The doctor had made me listless and the distaste for food reduced me to a condition of semi-starvation and brought me to the verge of nervous collapse. Tonic was useless to restore an active desire for food. The doctor told me my liver and kidneys were both at fault, but the medicines they gave me were too severe and reduced my strength so that I had to abandon them. At the suggestion of a friend who had been cured of blood and skin trouble, I began the use of Dr.
Hamilton's Pills. The difference I first noticed was that while they cleaned the system, instead of feeling weaker I felt better after taking them. Indeed their action was so mild it was easy to forget I had taken them at all; they seemed to go right to the liver, and in a very brief time not only did all source of nausea disappear, but I began to crave food and I digested it reasonably well. Then I began to put on weight until within three months I was brought to a condition of good health. I urge Dr. Hamilton's Pills for all who are in poor health."

FRANCE'S GREAT INVENTIONS
Paris Architect Says Most Marvels Originated There.
What nation has created most of the marvels of modern science? A French architect, M. Main, replies to this question in the following manner:
The first practical automobiles were built by Serpollet and Levasor, about 1890, both Frenchmen.
The first dirigible balloon able to reach the continent was built by Giffard in 1852. In 1883 the brothers Tissandier and in 1884 Renard and Krebs built balloons which could be steered perfectly. All five were Frenchmen.
Another Frenchman, Ader, constructed in 1897 the Avion, the first heavier-than-air machine to leave the ground. This was built on the same principles as the aeroplane, which was later transformed completely and made practical by the Wright brothers in 1903.
A Frenchman, Adler, built the first practical submarine in 1867.
The telephone was invented by a Canadian, Graham-Bell, in 1876, and the phonograph by an American, Edison, in 1877.
The elements of the cinematograph were discovered by a Belgian, Plateau, about 1865. A Frenchman, Marey, photographed the movements of living creatures about 1872, and an American, Edison, in 1895, invented the modern moving picture.
Lippman, a citizen of Luxemburg, discovered a process of color photography in 1861, and the Lumiere brothers, two Frenchmen, invented a practical method, which was entirely different, in 1904.
A German, Roentgen, discovered the X-rays in 1895.
Another German, Hertz, discovered in 1880 the Heritron waves, which a Frenchman, Branly, about 1900, utilized in inventing wireless telegraphy.
A Frenchman, Moissan, manufactured diamonds and rubies in 1893.
Two French citizens, M. and Mme. Curie, discovered radium about 1900.
A Frenchman, Pasteur, in 1885, discovered and applied successfully vaccination against hydrophobia.
A German, Behring, and a Frenchman, Roux, discovered and applied an anti-diphtheria serum and other serums.
A Frenchman, Carrel, who settled in America, kept animal tissues alive after separation from the bodies in 1912.
The north pole was reached in 1909 by an American, Peary, and the south pole by a Norwegian, Ammudsen, in 1911.
This list, drawn up by a Frenchman, therefore mentions thirty-two names (counting those mentioned twice as two), of which nineteen are French, seven American and three German.

ENGLISH HOLIDAY CLUBS.
Custom of Mill Operatives of Lancashire.
During his Lancashire tour King George had an opportunity of witnessing one of the most interesting sights in the world. He saw Lancashire operatives holiday-making, and there was no one who gets more hearty enjoyment out of his holiday by the sea than the mill hand. For fifty or fifty-one weeks in the year he puts a little "brass" in the going-away club, and then when his holiday week or fortnight comes round he has a grand time, a really jolly holiday, caring naught and spending freely until he comes to the end of his money; for to return home with any of his savings left is not the way of the Lancashire lair or lassie. "Oh, mon," they say, "we'll winna blue his 'wake' brass would borrow money from you to put it 'th' bank!"
It is not an uncommon thing for a family of operatives to spend £20 or £30 in the course of five or six days' holiday-making, and one family has been known to save as much as £47 for a "wake," and return from their holidays without a single coin left. This, however, is but typical of the mill hand who works hard and plays hard.
Every mill has its going-away-club, and it is estimated that this year they have shored out half a million sterling. Saving clubs of Bolshevik have paid out over £50,000 and the Lancashire £20,000 more, and from Oldham, Blackburn, Preston and Burnley come this same total of hundreds of thousands of pounds being paid out by clubs to the happy-go-lucky mill hands, who from July to September invade mostly the northern seaside resorts.
During the last two or three years, however, they have varied the usual holiday at Blackpool or Douglas by going farther afield, and one finds them holiday-making at such places as Folkestone, Deal and Dover, Torquay, Weston-super-Mare, while many of them indulge in excursions to Holland, France and Belgium.
Blackpool, however, is still first favorite with the majority, and it is estimated that that popular resort is invaded every week by at least 50,000 operatives. There is no place like Blackpool in their eyes, and apparently in the eyes of other people, too, for it is a bad season for Blackpool when its total number of visitors is fewer than 4,000,000.
The mill girl is even more enthusiastic in regard to saving for holidays than the men, and no matter what she may earn or what her weekly expenses are, she will find ways and means to put by a little for the going-away club. It may only be a few coppers but it all "mounts up," as they say, and she generally finds herself with £3 or £4 for herself when the holiday week comes round.

How Could He?
Pat and Mike were walking along the side of a bog when Mike had the misfortune to fall in. On seeing this Pat turned and ran back to a house, and knocking at the door, shouted out—"For the love of Heaven give me a spade! Mike has fallen into the bog!" "How far in is he, Pat?" asked the occupant.
"Sure, he's up to the ankles," answered Pat. "If he's only up to the ankles he can surely walk out."
"Sure and how could he when he's in head first?"
Plenty of Time.
