What a Rich Farmer Did

A curious story is reported from Walkerton. It appears that one of the wealthiest farmers in the first of the week.
The many friends of W. B. Bu-Township of Elders ie signed over his whole estate to his family on condition that they would, for the week towards his maintenance in the Bruce County House of Refuge. He took up his residence there a fortnight ago. But he is not happy. In fact he promptly raised a row on finding that he could not fome and go as he desired, but, like all the other linmates, could roast and a jolly good time in Mr. not leave the premises without per-mission of the keeper. He finds that he is not at all his own master, and he cannot endure the restraint he is under The case is a curious one in several respects. One wonders how this wealthy farmer succeeded in persuading himself that he could sign away his property and be happy in an institution of that kind. There is room for surprise, too, that those to whom the property was deeded could accept it on such conditions, knowing how the deal would be talked about all over the county. The 'House of Refuge" is a kindlier name than "the Poorhouse," but the place designated is the same. · An aged man who parts with all his property before death com-pels him to do so, generally regrets it. In nearly every county, perhaps in nearly every township, in Ontario, cases can be cited where old men did this and depended on gratitude for support days. They found that gratitude does not furnish nearly as substantial support to an old man as the rent of a farm would afford. Nor will the gratitude of a relative who has been presented with a (Special to The Standard.) The Dufferin Central Fair held here on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week was a great success. The weather on Wednesday forenoon was a little threatening, but it cleared away by noon and the afternoon was beautiful. The 48th Highlanders Band, of Toronto, arrived on the noon train Tuesday and gave a hand concert on the street. In the evening they gave S Croft, a concert in the big skating rink. Miss La There was not a big crowd as the evening was rather cold. The crowd began to gather early on ednesday and after the arrival of two eggs laid ready for hatching ed by the 48th Highlanders Band, the grounds became a living mass of people. The exhibit in the hall was good considering the dry season. The fruit and vegetables were good, and the showing of butter and the baking was immense. The exhibit of horses and cattle was keenly competed for, making it very exciting. The booths on the ground did a rushing business. The concert given in the rink on Wednesday was good, and upwards of 700 in attendance. The gate receipts at the grounds were $760.00.

The combined gate receipts and concert were nearly $1000.00.
