MAPLE SYRUP ADULTERATION

Producers and Consumers. Fifty-five thousand farmers in Canada have been making maple sugar and tyrup. In 1891, the national production of sugar was 212, 000,000 lbs;-in 1911, only 185,000, 000 lbs. The average quality of the product has meanwhile improved owing to more general use of better methods of making, but the price you go about it right. has not increased. Maple sugar and syrup making is properly the farmers industry. Ye they have cut down production instead of increasing it. They have cut down their maple trees in wide sections, counting the sweet product not worth the while-at the prices. It is the price on the market which is responsible. With vastly increased demand greatly decreased production, prices have not gone up as you would expect. There's the trouble! Why not? Bless your heart simply because the Dominion Government for all that twenty years has done nothing effectual to prevent the sale of adulterations and imitations of maple sugar and maple syrup, which were turned out of factories in Montreal, Toronto, and

Instead of a little over $2,000,000 worth of maple sugar and syrup, we should produce $8.000,000 worth, according to reliable statistics, But to do so it will be necessary to fight, in parliament, against strong manufacturing interests in Montreal, Toconto and elsewhere. Thirty-seven persons or concerns were proven by he Inland Revenue Department to have sold as maple—some on a large scale—adulterated goods, and mitations that apparently had nohing of maple about them but the name "maple" on the package.

Such concerns sell to grocers from coast to coast.
