It is with good reason that we point to our harvests as the basis of our prosperity. But there are harvests of winter as well as harvests of summer. According to our present standards of living, ice is hardly less a necessity than wheat or potatoes. It is essoutial to health and comfort. Without its conserving indusnoe there would be enormous waste and probable shortage in the various provision staples upon which we depend.

This season ice is a bumper crop. All over the North it has formed in excellent quality and almost limitless quantity. Moreover, the conditions have been unusually favorable for harvesting. There can be no excuse for a short unusually favorable for harvesting. The Ice Harvest,

Such was the inscription in raised letters upon three brass bars affixed to the face of the handsome leather mail bag which was despatched as the first parcels post to His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught by Hon, L. P. Pelletier, postmaster-general, at 12 o'clock last midnight. Mr. Pelletier did not wait until midnight to post the first parcel. He called at the Ottawa postoffice early in the evening, purchased the necessary stamps, affixed them to the parcel and mailed it. At midnight the departmental automobile called at the postoffice, picked up a mail bag containing the parcel and carried it to Rideau Hall, where it was received by the secretary, who had been instructed to await its coming. The officials and staff of the Ottawa postoffice mailed to Madame Pelletier a beautiful bouquet of flowers as a souvenir of the nauguration of the system.
