Happy Trio, But Law-Breakers

The Bracebridge Gazette has the following disquisition on the bigamy case, whereby Mrs. Henry Draper became the wife of Peter Stark, with the knowledge and consent of Draper.

"When Chief O'Connell rounded up Henry Draper at St. Thomas and brought him to the hotel McDonald, he enacted a reunion that must have been affecting in its intensity of feeling. Henry Draper, years ago tall in love with his comely cousin, Millie, and they were married, and life promised to be one long dream of bliss. Little Drapers came to grace the home and weld the union more firmly. Then Peter Stark came upon the scene, and the light of his countenance seemed to dim Henry's glory in the eyes of Millie. Henry went away West on business, and when he returned he found Millie's love as strong as ever, but misdirected. Peter was the man for her. As her love for Peter grew, her love for Henry petered. Henry was a philanthropist, and with a philanthropicist, no doubt he wanted one his divorce if he wanted to get a new wife, but since the Senate threw out the emergency bill they have been so belittled that no doubt Henry lost confidence in them. Why make a fuss? If Peter wants Millie and Millie wants Peter, and Henry wants neither, why should Henry deny Peter? That is philosophy. Henry gave Millie to Peter. That was philanthropy. So Henry and Peter went together and Peter got a license to marry Millie. They claim that's perjury. Then the three went to the preacher, and when the preacher asked if anyone knew any reason why his man and this woman should not be together, Henry was no blab, and now he's in a conspiracy. So there you are, a happy Muskoka trio. The woman accused of bigamy, her first husband accused of conspiracy, and her second accused of perjury. All this fuss because there are laws against such simple transfers."

How his bosom swells with pride, How he sighs in deep relief, How he feels a happy thrill, That is 'most beyond belief, How he laughs and shakes in glee, How he almost chokes with joy, When the nurse comes down the hall, And she whispers: "It's a boy!" —Salt Lake Herald

Label Suit for Chesley Editor

Acting on behalf of Mr. Wm. Liefso, hotelkeeper, of Elmwood, Lawyer Klein, of Walkerton, has caused a notice of libel to be served on Mr. Wm. McDonald, M.P.P., editor of the Chesley Enterprise for the publication of an article in last week's Enterprise alleging that Liefso ran his hotel for the "grub" end of the plan was neglected to such an extent that on the previous Friday evening the Chesley editor sat for 15 minutes waiting for his supper, and although someone pecked in from the kitchen, no attempt was made to serve him.

Euphrasia Council.

The Council met at the Township Hall, Rockley, on Friday, Feb. 13, all members present, Revue in the chair, minutes of last meeting read and confirmed.

Murray—Cook—That R. McDowell be appointed engineer for this Township and that a By-Law be passed confirming said appointment.—Carried.

Murray—Gaudin—That the Clerk notify Jas. Pentland to remove the fence on 9 and 10 side-road from the road at his earliest convenience.—Carried.

Murray—Gaudin—That this Council pay 15 cents per yard for gravel suitable for road purposes, parties selling gravel to furnish road to pit, and all accounts to be presented to the Council by the yard, and not by the load.—Carried.

This Thing Can't Go Much Farther, Now!

How his bosom swells with pride, How he sighs in deep relief, How he feels a happy thrill, That is 'most beyond belief, How he laughs and shakes in glee, How he almost chokes with joy, When the nurse comes down the hall, And she whispers: "It's a boy!" —Salt Lake Herald

How he scowls and shakes his fist, How he raves and paws the air, How he mutters to himself, "Awful exclamations there. How his mind is full of doubt, And his brain is in a whirl, When the nurse comes to his side, And she whispers: "It's a girl!" —Los Angeles Express.

How he clutches at the wall, How he gasps to get a breath, How he reels as if to fall, And his face turns white as death, How he groans in his despair, And the nurse adroitly grins, As she meets him on the stair, And announces: "They are twins." —St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

How he stands in blank amazement, Helpless, hopeless and distraught, Turns to heaven his vacant gaze, Has not power to frame a thought, How his grief no poison lacks, He's all in and to the bad, And he drops dead in his tracks, When the nurse says: "Triplets, dad!" —Nebraska State Journal.

How he opens wide his mouth, How his wild screams fill the night, How he rushes north and south, For murder, arson, fight, How he bubbles in his pain, How he rages, cries for gore, When the doctor counts again, Whispering to him: "There are four!" —New York Evening Sun.

PRICEVILLE.

(Special to The Standard.) The last few days of February were nice, and mild, some people though were expressing the wish that "March would come in rough," and they got their wish, for the wind veered to the north on Sunday, and a terrible blizzard raged all night, the wind driving the fine particles of snow into dwelling houses through imperceptible crevices where snow was never known to come before. The roads were badly blocked, and there was no mail train from Toronto all day Monday.

The Priceville Agricultural Society has arranged to hold a Field Crop Competition this year, the variety of grain chosen is white Oats, and any persons within fifteen miles who wish to enter a five acre field can get entry from the Secretary, $75.00 will be divided into several prizes.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Braithwaite, who went out to Saskatchewan a few weeks ago on a business trip, are home again.

W. Sackett's poultry house near the station got on fire one night during the late cold spell and was burned to the ground through some defective heating arrangement. Considerable poultry was destroyed.

Has a Most Remarkable Memory

Toronto Man Can Remember Weather Conditions and Minute Events for Past Twenty Years.

At a starting lever of an elevator in the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, is a complete weather chart for the past 24 years. People travelling up and down in that elevator can find out whether it was cloudy and warm or windy and bright on May 31, 1891, or snowing and cold on Feb. 1, 1902, or rainy and raw on April 19, 1891. The curious one can find out the weather on any day in the past 24 years without waiting more than a second or two. Furthermore, this information tallies with records of the Meteorological Office. The weather chart is not contained within a book, but in the brain of the elevator man. William McNair is his name, and he lives at 222 St. Patrick street. He is gifted with an uncanny memory. He can recall without hesitation the minutest details of his daily life on any given date five or ten or twenty years ago. Unconsciously, and without effort, his memory retains clear images of everything that happens to him, and can recall them at will.

RIGOROUSLY TESTED. He is not a faker. For hours Saturday afternoon, with the official Observatory records in their hands, Mr. R. F. Stupart, chief director of the Meteorological Office, and a number of other gentlemen put him through a rigorous examination from which he emerged triumphant at every point.

"The examiners were frankly skeptical at first, for what McNair claimed to be able to do was beyond the experience of anyone present, and the very possibility of it was doubted. Every effort was made to make the investigation thorough and exhaustive. Mr. Stupart had the weather register for the last 21 years, which contained the minutest detail of the weather for every day in that period, beside him.

Mr. McNair sat quietly in a chair beside the desk, his hands folded in his lap. He has large blue eyes, well set apart, a wide jaw, and a firm mouth. The test commenced: "What was the weather like on Aug. 30, 1899?" asked Mr. Stupart, a huge book in his lap.

Without a moment's hesitation the answer came: "It was a beautiful day—fine and warm."

"That is right," said Mr. Stupart, and he looked at the visitor searchingly, but a small smile was all that could be read on Mr. McNair's face.

ABSOLUTELY CORRECT. "And what was it like on the 15th of July, 1899?" "Fine and warm in the morning. Later in the day a heavy storm, accompanied by rain, came up. It continued all day Saturday, all through the night, and most of Sunday," was the quiet answer.

"Absolutely correct," answered Mr. Stupart.

Mr. McNair keeps no records whatever. He says that when the date is mentioned, a visual picture flashes across his mind, showing the weather conditions of the day, and he instantly recalls any events that came under his notice on that day. He recalls the people he met, and their names, and he also knows his exact movements.

"What was the weather like on December 12th, 1894?" continued Mr. Stupart.

"It was a dull, rainy day, very mild and slushy," was the answer.

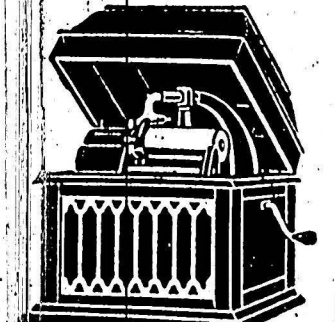

"TWENTY YEARS' BACK. The answer was perfectly accurate, and Mr. Webster then asked if he remembered any event which occurred on that day. "Yes, I do. I also remember that Sir John Thompson died the following day, the 13th," was the quiet answer.

Records were then looked up and they showed that the statement was correct. "What was it like on July 3rd, 1911?" resumed Mr. Stupart.

Don't be satisfied with anything less than an Edison Phonograph.

Throughout the history of sound reproduction Mr. Edison has blazed the trail. Every important step has been conceived first in his mind. He is the acknowledged master of acoustics throughout the world. His recent triumph is the Blue Amberol Record.

It came, after countless experiments, with all its strength of volume, sweetness of quality and lasting endurance. To bring out the remarkable tone of this new record demanded a new reproducer. He invented it—the Diamond-Point Reproducer. With it there is none of the annoyance of changing the needle after each record. The diamond is as much a part of the phonograph as its beautiful cabinet.

Edison Amberol VI. Cabinet Mahogany or Golden Oak. Diamond Point Reproducer. Powerful Spring Motor. Plays Blue Amberol Records.

A complete line of Edison Phonographs and Records will be found at J. H. STEPHENSON

By a score of 1-2 the Markdale "D.D." hockey team, tallied another victory on Wednesday evening last by defeating Dundalk in the local rink. The game was most friendly exhibition, and the manliness prevailed throughout. Half time score was 1-0 in favor of Dundalk. Williams, of that team, the Dundalk goal keeper, which called upon to stop ten shots, every one on Markdale's side was the outstanding feature of the game.

Mr. Thos. H. Reburn, who has recently moved to Markdale, received an invitation to attend an L. O. M. At-Home in his old home town, Shelburne, one evening recently, and while there he was presented with a handsome Past Master's Jewel by Wor. Master Thomas H. Murray. Appreciative of the services made regarding Mr. Reburn's services in different capacities, his lodges, Mr. Reburn is a Past Master of L.O.M. 1321, Shelburne, and District Master of Melancthon District.

Owing largely to epidemic attendance on Wednesday evening the attendance at the Armouries was small, but the Subject large and important. Rev. J. H. Dyke, of Toronto, gave an illustrated address on "The Fight Against Consumption." Much valuable information was given along the line of prevention. The lantern views were manipulated by Mr. H. C. Duff, superintendent of the Agricultural Department. Mr. Dyke followed up this public meeting by a personal canvass the following day in behalf of the Muskoka Hospital at Gravenhurst and met with fair success.
