The Roch Cure.

After several years of discredit the Roch tuberculesis cure seems to be building favor once more. It is reported that the Roch tuberculin when used in minute doses cures 100 per cent. of the bone and gland cases treated with it. It cares 100, per cept. of the cases of tuberculosis of the larges in the first stage, 26 per cent. in the second stage, but can not be used successfully in the third stage. It is said that the reason for the failure in 1821 was that the dose was too large, This was from one million to ten million times as large as is the dose which is being used to-day.

These amountement is of tremendous importance and surely would not have been made without proper authentication. It would be a criminal thing to send out through the news agencies an item of this nature without making sure that it is correct. Tuberculosis is known as the freat White Plague and the death rafe from its ravages is enormous. Thousands of speople who live in certain climates awing to their tendency. mous. Thousands of people who live in certain climates owing to their tendency to tunerculosis will hear of these re-sults with intense interest. The Fried-mann cure which by the way is said to be giving good results in Germany ruised their hopes tremendously. If the Koch cure can do, what is now being claimed for it, it is the duty of governments to at once take the matter up and see that all hospitals chir obtain proper evidence and instructions in the use of the cure. Conservation of the natural resources of a country is considered the proper duty of the governments of today; how much more then is it a duty to conserve the life of the people by every heaths at their disposal.

All Aboard for the Arctic Circle.

A quarter of a century ago he who would have had the boldness to predict that within thirty years trains would be running from New York to the northern wilds of Alaska would have been voted one of that that majority of which Cariyle said the world was composed of in his day. And yet only a few days will now clapse before surveyors will be engaged mapping out the route for a trans-Alaska rallroad, whilst before another quarter of a century Canada will be running trains to the Arctic shores also with probably a season excursion ferry to the north pole, and the walrus and the polar bear will have to find new quarters as did the buffulo and the elk as it villzation advanced north as our western prairies beginne populated. All Aboard for the Arctic Circle.

The Thunderer's" Price Reduced.

The reduction of the price of the London Times from two-pence to a penny, or from four cents to two cents of our money, may indicate a purpose to make the famous old paper more of a popular institution. The traditional style of the Times has been over the heads of the common people. The day has past when a newspaper can thrive by appealing to a limited, and, exclusive constituency. The conservative old Briton, who was glad to pay the equivalent of Six Canadian cents for his Times and was shocked when it rame down from "thrippence" to "tupence" after Lord Northchife took hold, must regard the reduction of the Thunderer to the penny class as nothing short of revolution, not to say sacrilege. "The Thunderer's" Price Reduced.

Estimates of the Dead Vary From Fifty to One Hundred.

A despatch from St. John's, New foundland, says: Death travelled in a gale that overtook the sealing fleets here. The steamer Newfoundland lost probably fifty of her crew, while as many more, it is feared, will be maimed as a result of exposure.

The men lost were far from their ships killing seals, when the storm, with blinding snow, swooped down upon them. They were exposed for 48 hours before assistance arrived, and in that time many succumbed. The Newfoundland was one of a fleet of fifteen ships, carrying over 2.000 men, scattered among the ice floes near Belle Isle Strait. The crews were on the floes hunting seals which have their homes on these crystal plains, and the hunt had taken them from four to six miles from their ships.

When the blizzard came the crows of the other steamers managed to regain their vessels, but the floes on the Newfoundland's men were hunting drifted away from the main body of ice, and when darkness fell that night not one had returned. The ship's crew numbered 150, of whom 120 were on the ice. Captain Wesley Kean, his officers, engineers, stokers and cooks, remained aboard.

The weather cleared and Captain Kean signalled the steamers Bellaventure and Stephano, which were nearest him, of the loss of his men. These two vessels, being fast and powerful, smashed their way into co-operating with the United States the floes in search of the missing Government, which has two steam-

COLONEL J. E. B. SEELY. .. Britain's Secretary, for War Is a

Bian of Brilliant Parts. Col. J. E. B. Seely, whose resignation from the post of Secretary for War was refused by Premier Asquith after he had told the House of Commons that he alone was responsible for the tactical blunder which led to the meeting of the army officers and their subsequent reinstatement with guarantees that they would not be required to coerce Ulster into accepting Home Rule, but only to preserve law and order, is a man of brilliant parts. It would have effectually put an end to his political career had his resignation been accepted, and the empire at large will rejoice that it was not necessary to lose his serices from the War Office.

When he was made Under-Secrearv of State for War he was said to be the first yeomanry (mounted volunteer) officer to attain to the latter office, rank and experience in the regular army, being hitherto considered a necessary qualification.
