

A Foolish Young Man;

Or, the Belle of the Season.

CHAPTER XXXV.—(Continued.)

Followed by this devout prayer, Ida went up to her room, and she closed the door and down she tried to tell herself that the whole thing was too ridiculous, was too much like a farce, and she would not let herself be utterly miserable, and she knew that she could no longer endure the strain of this life. She had been patient and without complaining, but there were some things that were intolerable to her. She had been patient, but there were some things that were intolerable to her. She had been patient, but there were some things that were intolerable to her.

CHAPTER XXXVI.—(Continued.)

When Ida came to the office of the nurse, she found her sitting at a table, and she was looking at a letter. She saw that it was from her father, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived.

CHAPTER XXXVII.—(Continued.)

When Ida came to the office of the nurse, she found her sitting at a table, and she was looking at a letter. She saw that it was from her father, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.—(Continued.)

When Ida came to the office of the nurse, she found her sitting at a table, and she was looking at a letter. She saw that it was from her father, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived.

CHAPTER XXXIX.—(Continued.)

When Ida came to the office of the nurse, she found her sitting at a table, and she was looking at a letter. She saw that it was from her father, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived.

CHAPTER XL.—(Continued.)

When Ida came to the office of the nurse, she found her sitting at a table, and she was looking at a letter. She saw that it was from her father, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived.

CHAPTER XLI.—(Continued.)

When Ida came to the office of the nurse, she found her sitting at a table, and she was looking at a letter. She saw that it was from her father, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived.

CHAPTER XLII.—(Continued.)

When Ida came to the office of the nurse, she found her sitting at a table, and she was looking at a letter. She saw that it was from her father, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived.

CHAPTER XLIII.—(Continued.)

When Ida came to the office of the nurse, she found her sitting at a table, and she was looking at a letter. She saw that it was from her father, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived.

CHAPTER XLIV.—(Continued.)

When Ida came to the office of the nurse, she found her sitting at a table, and she was looking at a letter. She saw that it was from her father, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived.

CHAPTER XLV.—(Continued.)

When Ida came to the office of the nurse, she found her sitting at a table, and she was looking at a letter. She saw that it was from her father, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived.

CHAPTER XLVI.—(Continued.)

When Ida came to the office of the nurse, she found her sitting at a table, and she was looking at a letter. She saw that it was from her father, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived.

CHAPTER XLVII.—(Continued.)

When Ida came to the office of the nurse, she found her sitting at a table, and she was looking at a letter. She saw that it was from her father, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived.

CHAPTER XLVIII.—(Continued.)

When Ida came to the office of the nurse, she found her sitting at a table, and she was looking at a letter. She saw that it was from her father, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived.

CHAPTER XLIX.—(Continued.)

When Ida came to the office of the nurse, she found her sitting at a table, and she was looking at a letter. She saw that it was from her father, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived.

CHAPTER L.—(Continued.)

When Ida came to the office of the nurse, she found her sitting at a table, and she was looking at a letter. She saw that it was from her father, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived. She had been deceived, and she felt that she had been deceived.

HOME

Selected Recipes.

Pancakes.—Delicious pancakes may be made by adding to any good prepared pancake flour one egg and a little milk. This enriches the batter and makes it more palatable.

A Variation in Scrambled Eggs.—Beat the eggs, season with salt and pepper, and add them to melted butter in a frying pan. When nearly scrambled, add bread cut into dice and browned.

Duck Stuffing (Peanut).—Three-quarters of a cup of shells, one-half of a cup of salt, one-half of a cup of onion juice, salt and Cayenne pepper. Mix the ingredients in the order given.

Ripe Cucumber Relish.—Twelve cucumbers, four large onions, four green peppers, two red peppers. Put through coarse knife of meat grinder. Add half cup salt, one cup sugar, one and one-half cups vinegar. Can hold this is delicious. Retains its crispness and is exceedingly pretty.

Outback Mush Apples.—Core the apples, leaving large cavities; pare and cook until soft in syrup made by boiling sugar and water together, allowing one cup of sugar to one and one-half cups water. Fill the cavities with sugar and oatmeal mush. The syrup should be saved and reused. Berries, sliced, bananas or sliced peaches are excellent when served with any breakfast cereal.

Chicken and Oyster Soup.—Cut fowl as for fricasseeing. Cover with water, and cook slowly, removing the scum as it rises. When the chicken is tender, take it up; strain and return the broth to the kettle. If there is not a quart of it, add boiling water. Add one quart of oysters with their juice, and the same amount of scalding milk. Season to taste with a little salt and pepper; also a little mace and nutmeg if liked. Thicken with one spoonful of flour and butter mixed together and rub before it is served. Stir one-half of a tea-cupful of hot cream into the soup. This makes three quarts of soup.

Batata Mulsy (stuffed potatoes).—Peel a dozen medium-sized potatoes, hollow them out, through a small hole with a sharp knife until the shell is about as thin as an orange peel, and fry them well with butter. Mince into very small pieces a sufficient quantity of lean tender mutton, add a proportionate quantity of pine seeds, season, the mixture with salt and pepper, and fry it thoroughly. Stuff the potatoes with the mutton meat and set them side by side, with the hole upward, in a saucepan. Put some tomatoes, a little butter and half a pint of so water in the pan, and boil the potatoes over a light fire, for about half an hour. The pine seeds can generally be procured at any grocery store. If they are unavailable, the meat may either be used alone, or in combination with some other ingredient.

Sauer Kraut and Cucumber Pickles.—Crut cabbage and using kraut cutter. For every gallon use a rounded tablespoon of salt and one-half teaspoon caraway seeds. Mix well. Wash medium size cucumbers. On the bottom of an earthenware jar put a few dill stems (seeds will do), and put in alternate layers of cucumbers sprinkled with salt, and the prepared cabbage. About three times the thickness of cabbage when pressed down with the palms of your hands as of cucumbers. Continue until jar is full, using cabbage as last layer. Cover with white cloth and a weight of water later as needed. When ready to use slice cucumbers lengthwise for the table and boil kraut as usual.

Bread.—One large cup mashed potato, two tablespoons lard, one-half cup sugar. Beat all in a mash. Add potato while hot. Add three cups lukewarm water and strain through medium fine strainer. Add to above mixture one pint flour, warmed, and beat till well mixed. Some brands of flour will require more than the pint to be added. Add one-half cup warm water. Set together for several minutes, and then thoroughly mixed. Set in a place to rise and stir at intervals. It makes a lighter sponge. Bake in a tin or early next morning. Bake for two and one-half hours (if properly) add one tablespoon of salt. Mix the sponge into this flour until medium stiff dough is formed. Knead and pound well and set away to rise. When light mix into loaves. Knead each loaf well for better bread. Warming the flour is part of the secret of his bread's excellence.

Household Hints.—By dipping a broom in boiling suds once a week it can be preserved for longer use. Linen stored in a closet, warm and poorly ventilated, will soon become yellow and crack. One yard of sheeting will make a pair of pillow cases, and will cost much less than pillow buying. If a few drops of paraffin are applied to a cut, it will give instant relief and also assist it to heal. Boiled chestnuts served in lettuce leaves, with French dressing, make a delicious and seasonable salad. A piece bag made of muslin netting enables one by a look to and the particular roll of goods desired. Spirits of turpentine will remove most spots from silk, but care must be taken to be sure that the dye is fast. Washed paper on walls should be cleaned with a flannel dipped in weak tea and polished with a dry cloth. To sharpen a knife, fold a piece of emery paper in the centre and draw the knife rapidly back and forth several times. A small piece of glass placed over the cookery book when lying open on the table keeps it open and enables the cook to read the recipe without handling the book with sticky fingers. When a kettle is "furled" inside all it with water, add a good-sized lump of borax, and let it boil well, then pour away the borax and water, and rinse thoroughly with clear cold water. Sweet spirits of niter will remove black spots from wood. Rub the spots with the niter; when the wood turns white, wipe it off with a soft spongy rag. It may be necessary to make a second application. When you have finished with the kitchen for cooking purposes, take some fine coal dust, put it in a strong brown paper bag, damp it, and put it on the top of the fire. The latter will burn slowly for hours. Chinese gloss starch is made of two tablespoons raw starch and one tablespoon borax dissolved in water. The water from the vegetables, lightly are dipped in this, rolled neatly and left a few hours in a dry cloth before ironing. Soups should be made from the liquor of every vegetable cooked, with a little milk or butter added. The water from the vegetables, the mineral salts or the vital element of the vegetable, and should never be wasted. People who suffer much from indigestion will do well to try going without bread and especially without any starchy thing with an acid, at the same time trying to find out how much fat can be tolerated, butter, cream, or the fat of bacon, and so forth. Fats do not stimulate the gastric juices.

KEEN-EYED K. OF K.

Interesting Anecdotes of the Great Soldier.

Anecdotes of Lord Kitchener of Khartoum—K. of K., as he is popularly called by the English—has been going the rounds of the foreign and the American newspapers since the outbreak of the war in Europe. Some are new, and more are old, some credible, and more incredible. One of the most popular is that of the hairpins of which there are almost as many versions as there are pins in a lady's hair. The original version, however, seems to be that brought from South Africa at the time of the Boer War by a lively young French journalist, Mons. Jean Camere of the Paris Matin. According to him, a dandy British officer, with an unfortunately effeminate taste in rifles, one day came to Lord Kitchener bringing a fine hair pin. The Chief upon which, in compliance with a fashionable fancy of the moment, he desired to obtain the general's autograph. K. of K. took the handkerchief, carefully inspected its quality, and inquired: "This is doubtless your sister's handkerchief?" "No," replied the officer. "It is mine." "Ah," echoed Kitchener. "It is yours?" And he handed it back, without writing upon it, inquiring as he did so: "And what kind of hairpins do you wear?" "If the story is not true, it is at least invented in harmony with the known characteristics of K. of K., who despises frigidities and affectations. Mrs. Erskine, wife of one of his former officers, tells how, at a young lieutenant sporting a monocle, "Does your eyesight require you to wear that?" he inquired. "It does," replied the young man, hastily. "Then report to-morrow morning to the line of communications," ordered Lord Kitchener, crisply. "Do not require mine with poor eyesight at headquarters." K. of K. despises self-advertising, and has never escaped popularizing the applause and approval of the public, except so far as it helps him to carry on his work. But his abhorrent eye-discriminations as kindly as in other things between the real and the artificial in popular renown. Mrs. Erskine describes how, after an elaborate function in his honor, in which a pompous master of ceremonies had delivered a very base eulogy before a distinguished company (boring him most frightfully), she and her husband returned home on horseback in his company. On the way they passed a shabby liverman cart, the sides of which were decorated with cheap lithographs of Queen Victoria, the Prince of Wales, and Kitchener. K. of K. suddenly turned forward, hissing, "Picked his own dusty whip, and declared: "That, and that only is fame."

Hears Little.

"Jones believes about all he hears." "Credulous, is he?" "Not particularly; he's as deaf as a post."

Deserve the Punishment.

Mrs. Scrapp Statistics show that married men live longer than single men. "Scrapp! Yes, it serves them right."

THE BRAVE GUARDS

GOOD LUCK TO THE GUARDS

GERMAN ALRY CHANGE

Enthusiastic

These same troops who have retired from the front, and before the British came down the lines, and with their assistance to the German army, were now being sent to the front. They were now being sent to the front. They were now being sent to the front.

BOYS' HEADS

SIGHT FROM ELIZ

In Blisters. Ticked, and Bally. Had to Put Child's Hands, Cuticura and Cuticura Ointment.

Boys' heads are often the cause of much trouble. They are often the cause of much trouble. They are often the cause of much trouble.

WHY DO YOU

Do you say that?

A 5 lb. Package of Red Seal

—get a definite quantity of well-known quality—clean and unadorned—in the Original Package.

Or do you say that?

A quarter's worth of Red Seal

—an unknown quantity of unknown quality—scraped out of an empty tin—into a paper bag?

Red Seal

Extra Granulated Sugar

CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO., LTD.

WHY DO YOU

Do you say that?

A 5 lb. Package of Red Seal

—get a definite quantity of well-known quality—clean and unadorned—in the Original Package.

Or do you say that?

A quarter's worth of Red Seal

—an unknown quantity of unknown quality—scraped out of an empty tin—into a paper bag?

Red Seal

Extra Granulated Sugar

CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO., LTD.

GILLETTE'S LYE

The Standard Lye of Canada. Has many imitations but no equal.

CLEANS AND DISINFECTS

100% PURE

THE BRAVE GUARDS

GOOD LUCK TO THE GUARDS

GERMAN ALRY CHANGE

Enthusiastic

These same troops who have retired from the front, and before the British came down the lines, and with their assistance to the German army, were now being sent to the front. They were now being sent to the front. They were now being sent to the front.

WHY DO YOU

Do you say that?

A 5 lb. Package of Red Seal

—get a definite quantity of well-known quality—clean and unadorned—in the Original Package.

Or do you say that?

A quarter's worth of Red Seal

—an unknown quantity of unknown quality—scraped out of an empty tin—into a paper bag?

Red Seal

Extra Granulated Sugar

CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO., LTD.

WHY DO YOU

Do you say that?

A 5 lb. Package of Red Seal

—get a definite quantity of well-known quality—clean and unadorned—in the Original Package.

Or do you say that?

A quarter's worth of Red Seal

—an unknown quantity of unknown quality—scraped out of an empty tin—into a paper bag?

Red Seal

Extra Granulated Sugar

CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO., LTD.

WHY DO YOU

Do you say that?

A 5 lb. Package of Red Seal

—get a definite quantity of well-known quality—clean and unadorned—in the Original Package.

Or do you say that?

A quarter's worth of Red Seal

—an unknown quantity of unknown quality—scraped out of an empty tin—into a paper bag?

Red Seal

Extra Granulated Sugar

CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO., LTD.

WHY DO YOU

Do you say that?

A 5 lb. Package of Red Seal

—get a definite quantity of well-known quality—clean and unadorned—in the Original Package.

Or do you say that?

A quarter's worth of Red Seal

—an unknown quantity of unknown quality—scraped out of an empty tin—into a paper bag?

Red Seal

Extra Granulated Sugar

CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO., LTD.

WHY DO YOU

Do you say that?

A 5 lb. Package of Red Seal

—get a definite quantity of well-known quality—clean and unadorned—in the Original Package.

Or do you say that?

A quarter's worth of Red Seal

—an unknown quantity of unknown quality—scraped out of an empty tin—into a paper bag?

Red Seal

Extra Granulated Sugar

CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO., LTD.

WHY DO YOU

Do you say that?

A 5 lb. Package of Red Seal

—get a definite quantity of well-known quality—clean and unadorned—in the Original Package.

Or do you say that?

A quarter's worth of Red Seal

—an unknown quantity of unknown quality—scraped out of an empty tin—into a paper bag?

Red Seal

Extra Granulated Sugar

CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO., LTD.

WHY DO YOU

Do you say that?

A 5 lb. Package of Red Seal

—get a definite quantity of well-known quality—clean and unadorned—in the Original Package.

Or do you say that?

A quarter's worth of Red Seal

—an unknown quantity of unknown quality—scraped out of an empty tin—into a paper bag?

Red Seal

Extra Granulated Sugar

CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO., LTD.