The Standard had a friendly call from Mr. J. Pickett, of Weston, on Monday. Mr. Pickett runs a lumber camp at Congor and has in his employ two men. Daniel Wilson and Peter Holden, who cut six 12 foot logs from one hemlock tree in eight minutes; over a thousand feet board measure in the tree. Beat it if you can.

Mr. R. F. Knowlden, our main st. blacksmith, has installed an Oxy-Acetylene machine which is a marvel for welding metal, brass, steel or aluminum. The concentrated heat and oxygen together forced upon the fractured part melts it and causes the metal to run together like molten metal, thus becoming united as new.

Shelburne stone quarries, owned by Charles Hall, have been sold to a local syndicate composed of John Best, M. P., F. H. Silk and Wilfred Wilson. The stone is specially adapted for public buildings being superior to Indiana stone and can be procured three feet thick. It is proposed to form a strong company, cater to big contracts, have a spur connected with the C. P. R. and run the company on an extensive scale.

Inspector Cowley, on being questioned by the Public School Board of Toronto, backs up a statement made in the Free Press last week that no alien can be a public school teacher, and quoted the Public School Act, which provides that a teacher to obtain a certificate of qualification for teaching must, under section 89, be a British subject of good moral character. Then why should aliens be taken on as professors in our universities, where their duties are even more important to the state than that of public school teachers.

A man of wide experience in sheep raising has offered the following simple scheme to prevent loss through dogs chasing the flock. If a man has, say forty sheep, he should buy about two dozen bells, similar to a cow bell, but smaller, and tie these to the sheep. It is a peculiar thing that a dog will not bother a sheep if it has a bell on its neck, and this is the real solution of the problem. This man followed the above scheme and kept sheep a short distance from the city for twelve years and did not lose one. His neighbors would not follow the advice and three sheep were killed in one night on the next farm. The plan is worth a trial anyway.

Hearst In Old Home.

HON. W. H. HEARST.

Tara and Arran Townships Tender Reception to Distinguished "Old Boy."

Tara, Ont., Dec. 19.—Tara was in gala attire yesterday, the occasion being the public reception and banquet to the Hon. W. H. Hearst, Premier of Ontario, an old Arran Township and Tara boy.

At 2.30 a procession headed by the Tara band, took place from the home of the Premier's sister, and marched down Young street to Vandusen's Hall. The Premier, who was accompanied by Hon. J. B. Lucas, was attended by a guard of honor from the local militia. The hall was crowded to overflowing and the Premier was given a great ovation. An address of welcome was read, followed by an address from the honored guest, which at times, when touching on events of his boyhood days, clearly showed that he was affected.

A banquet was held in the evening in the Queen's Hotel, and was attended by about 150 guests. Prominent men were present including C. S. Cameron, M. P. P., Owen Sound; Col. Hugh Clark, M. P., Kincardine; Lieut.-Col. A. E. Belcher, Toronto; W. C. Chambers, M. P. P., Harriston; Dr. Jamieson, M. P. P., Durham; and others. H. A. Vandusen filled the position of toastmaster.

Lucas A Strength to Progress.

(Toronto Telegram.)

The association of Hon. J. B. Lucas with the Beck leadership of the Ontario Hydro Commission is a credit to Hon. W. H. Hearst.

The Ontario Government is followed by some local members who utilize local strength in their own constituencies to play into the hands of the electric ring and to cut the throats of the Hydro.

Hon. J. B. Lucas is an out-and-out Hydro man. Mr. Lucas has shown sympathy with Adam Beck. The presence of Mr. Lucas on the Ontario Hydro Commission is a strength to Adam Beck and a guarantee that Hon. W. H. Hearst is behind the Beck leadership with the support of the Ontario Government wherever the support is needed.

'Twas the night before Xmas, and all through the house,
Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse,
When the bells which John bought down at Ennis's store
Began jingling like Santa just outside our door,
For the old gent himself, Sir, had borrowed our team,
And was off like a shot over hill, dale and stream!

Letter From Corporal Cavanaugh.

Salisbury Plains, Nov. 30, 1914.

Editor Markdale Standard—

I am at last writing you which I should have done long ago. Have received quite a number of copies of your paper, and with the boys from Markdale read them with much interest and are thankful for same.

We had a splendid trip across the water, Don't think any of the boys were sick. Came off the Plymouth in good settled Sunday coming to Salisbury Plains we have had very trying weather, raining pretty much all the time, nevertheless not a bit down hearted over it tho often tramping in six inches of mud and water. All the (Highland) boys are supplied with the kilts and as that go to make up a Highland uniform. The paraphenalia appear almost endless in getting out for roll call in the morning when one has only five minutes to dress. In case where one over-sleeps, which have been well used and many the boys have on no end of the twice and a Christmas and New Year's for enough in view, to do your heart good to hear the hearty cheer that goes up when the bugle blows "No parade" day especially if it should be a rainy day and looking like a rainy day also the "Mail Call" brings voluminous cheer when there is a rush for the Orderly Corporal tent to see if there is a letter from home. It takes two men a day sorting out the mail. We are getting plenty of exercise. We get four hours' work each morning during which no talking can be spoken or a smoke indulged. This is discipline, and the boys at any rate, live up to it. Major Marshall, who took command and inspected the recruits after they had organized in Markdale, is here second in command. He is a splendid officer of the 18th. He has earned the nickname of the "Marching-major," from the fact that he takes a great interest in marching and every opportunity he gets he will march out about two miles and then give what he calls a "route as-you-please" race back to camp. All the eight companies are out walking which gets faster and faster until it develops into a running race. There must be no straggler to have the honour of coming first in. This is generally the finish of the week's work. We get Saturday afternoon for a half holiday.

When I got up to London for the first time and sent home I found that my only brother, who was in the Royal West Kent Regiment, British Regulars, had come home on leave at the same time as myself, so we had a family reunion.

The first bunch of Canadians that went up to the "Big Smoke" had the time of their lives. The English thought there was nothing too good for them and everyone wanted a keepsake or souvenir. Some of the boys came back without never a button on their coat.

Again thanking you for copies of the Standard etc., etc.,

I remain yours truly,
Corporal Cavanaugh, No. ...
