BRITISH FARMER PROSPERS.

Highest Prices Are Obtained for Crops and for Cattle.

A despatch from London says: After many years of depression the British farmer is enjoying prosperity. Everything he raises is readily saleable at prices which are gradually climbing higher and higher. Wheat and oats, which are the staple crops of most English farmers, are fetching excellent prices, while the live stock which they fattened for the holiday market was taken at figures which have not been touched in many years.

WHALE STEALS HUGE BUOY

Perishes, However, Carrying Away 7,000-pound Load.

A despatch from St. John, N.B., says: Roaring Bull Buoy, which with its anchor weighs 5,000 pounds, was carried away by a whale, according to officers of the Canadian Government steamer Lansdowne, in port on Tuesday from a search for the missing guide to mariners. The Lansdowne found a dead whale 60 feet long entangled in the chain of the buoy, which had been dragged a long distance. The whale apparently died from exhaustion.

Daniloff, director of military operations; Gen. Ruzsky, commanding the northern armies, and Gen. Ivanoff commanding southern armies.

Inclined to be Stingy.

Phelim O'Rourke had been married only a week when he discovered that his wife was inclined to be stingy in regard to the larder. He had been working in his small garden one afternoon when Mollie came to the back door and called out in strident tones, "Phelim, come in to tay, toast, and foire eggs." Phelim dropped his spade in astonishment, and ran into the kitchen. "Sure, Mollie, ye're only tazing me!" he said. "Nay," replied his wife, "it's not ye; it's the neighbors I'm foolin'."

"Why did Ferdy drop out of business with his father?" "Well the old man said he could stand for college flags and posters, but he positively would not have any sofa pillows around the office."

DISEASE IS DUE TO BAD BLOOD

To Cure Common Ailments the Blood Must be Made Rich and Red.

Nearly all the diseases that afflict humanity are caused by bad blood—weak, watery blood—poisoned by impurities. Bad blood is the cause of headaches and backaches, lumbago and rheumatism; debility and indigestion, neuralgia and other nerve troubles, and disfiguring skin diseases like eczema and salt rheum show how impure the blood actually is. No use trying a different remedy for each disease, because they all spring from the one cause—bad blood. To cure any of these troubles you must get right down to the root of the trouble in the blood, and that is just what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do. They make new, rich blood and thus cure these diseases when common medicine fails. Mrs. John Jackson, Woodstock, Ont., suffered from both nervous troubles and a run-down condition and experienced a complete cure through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says: "I was a sufferer for a number of years from neuralgia, and a general debility of the nerves and system. I had tried several doctors and many medicines, but to no avail until I began Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. At the time I began the Pills I had grown so bad that I could hardly be on my feet, and was forced to wear elastic bandages, about the ankles. The pain I suffered at times from the neuralgia was terrible. I had almost given up hope when I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In the course of a few weeks I felt an improvement, and I gladly continued the use of the Pills until I was once more quite well and able to attend to all my household duties."

If you are ailing begin to cure yourself to-day with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE MACHINE GUN.

Description of the One Used By the French Army.

The machine gun, which pours forth a direct hail of small calibre bullets, is one of the deadliest weapons of modern warfare. From the clumsy Gatling gun has come the modern "automatic," mounted on a light tripod, and weighing less than forty pounds. All the armies use the guns, which, although they vary somewhat in type, are essentially alike in their mechanism and in their effectiveness. In the Benet-Mercie automatic machine gun of the French army, a metal feed strip or clip, that contains thirty ordinary army rifle cartridges is inserted in slot on the right side of the gun. As the trigger is pulled the bolt mechanism is released, and, guided by the main firing spring, pushes a cartridge into the rifle chamber. The instant the cartridge is in place the breech mechanism locks and the charge is exploded. On its way through the rifle barrel, a little of the gas from the exploded powder is diverted through a hole in the side of the barrel, and so acts on a piston as to force the bolt mechanism back and to compress the main spring. In returning, the bolt mechanism pulls the empty shell from the chamber and throws it out below, so that it does not interfere with the new cartridge that is now forced in from above. The mechanism is so perfect that the operation described takes place in a small fraction of a second, and the bullets issue from the mouth of this deadly weapon at the rate of seven hundred a minute.

SIR HAMAR GREENWOOD.

New Canadian Baronet Has Had Remarkable Career in England.

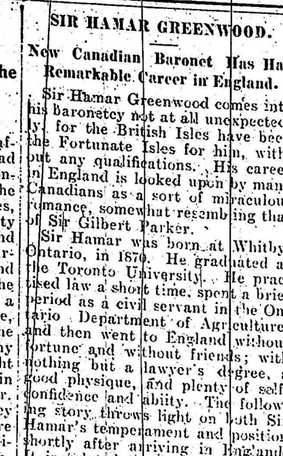
Sir Hamar Greenwood comes into his baronetcy not at all unexpectedly, for the British Isles have been the Fortunate Isles for him, without any qualifications. His career in England is looked upon by many Canadians as a sort of miraculous romance, somewhat resembling that of Sir Gilbert Parker.

Sir Hamar was born at Whitby, Ontario, in 1870. He graduated at the Toronto University. He practised law a short time, spent a brief period as a civil servant in the Ontario Department of Agriculture, and then went to England without fortune and without friends; with nothing but a lawyer's degree, a good physique, and plenty of self-confidence and ability. The following story throws light on both Sir Hamar's temperament and position shortly after arriving in England. It is related that on one occasion when he was lecturing on temperance (his first occupation in the Old Country) he was a guest at a magnificent country house in an English village in which he was to speak. In the morning a valet entered the guest chamber and proceeded to arrange the guest's apparel. Out of a trouser's pocket dropped a two-and-sixpence, which was at the moment the entire liquid capital of the coming statesman. After a time the guest opened his eyes. The valet, who no doubt had his own impressions about the meagre contents of the guest's pockets, remarked: "The two-and-sixpence which fell out of your pocket I have laid on the table, sir." Greenwood quickly replied: "Oh, that is for you, my man. I left it in that pocket for you in case I did not wake up."

Following his temperance work Mr. Greenwood made himself known as a stump speaker.

Political Career.

The first success of the aggressive young Canadian was to run for the British Parliament as a Liberal in



Lt.-Col. Sir Hamar Greenwood.

York, a stronghold of Conservatism, and win a seat. Once in the limelight, he stayed there. He won powerful friends, notably Right Hon. Winston Churchill, now First Lord of the Admiralty, for whom he was for some time Parliamentary Private Secretary.

Mr. Greenwood made powerful connections in the law as well as in politics, and now has a large and lucrative practice in London. In 1911 he married Miss Margery Spencer, of Townhope Court, Herefordshire, England, whom he met at Kingston, Jamaica, at a lunch during which the first shock of the great earthquake was felt. His wife is the daughter of a wealthy landowner.

Sir Hamar is a strong Home Ruler, and on one of his more or less recent visits to Toronto he told the Canadian Club that the Dominion ought to do her full share towards the defence of the Empire. He is at present member of Parliament for Sunderland, Eng., having been elected for that constituency in 1910. He has made himself prominent in the same way that Theodore Roosevelt, Sam Hughes, and many others have carved riches for themselves. This is not to say that he is vain or that he talks too much—but simply that he is best described as "a force."

The Scene Was Funny.

Paddy has a great power of enjoyment after all. One day as he was walking he saw a bull attack a man, and he had to hold his sides with both hands; the scene was so funny. After a time the animal turned his attention to him, and poor Pat, after exploring the upper regions, came down with a bump on the other side of the fence. He rubbed his wounds as he said to himself—"Faith, I'm glad I had my laugh when I did or I wouldn't have had it at all."

Willis—We thought our bank cashier was a good business man because he was always talking about making the funds go as far as possible. Gillis—Did he do it? Willis—Yes; the last trace the detectives got of him he was in South America.

Magical Effect on Neuralgia Throbbing Pain Goes Quickly

A YEAR'S SUFFERER CURED BY "NERVILINE."

No person reading this need ever again suffer long from Neuralgia. Nerviline will quickly cure the worst Neuralgia, and Mrs. G. Evans, in her strong letter written from Russell post office, says:—"One long year, the longest of my life, was almost entirely given up to treating dreadful attacks of Neuralgia. The agony I experienced during some of the bad attacks was simply unmentionable. To use remedies by the score without permanent relief was mighty discouraging. At last I put my faith in Nerviline. I read of the wonderful painsubduing power it possessed and made up my mind to prove it valuable or useless. Nerviline at once eased the pain and cured the headache. Continuous treatment with this magic-working remedy cured me entirely and I have ever since stayed well."

Mrs. Evan's case is but one of hundreds that might be quoted. Nerviline is a specific for all nerve, muscular or joint pain. It quickly cures neuralgia, sciatica, lumbago, lame back, neuritis and rheumatism. Forty years in use, and to-day the most widely used liniment in the Dominion. Don't take anything but "Nerviline," which any dealer anywhere can supply in large 50c. family size bottles, or in a small 25c. trial size.

TWO MARVELLOUS BOYS.

Young Hindoos Solve Complex Problems Instantly.

There is at the present time studying at Cambridge one of the most wonderful methematicians the world has seen—a young Hindoo, Mr. S. Ramanujan by name—whose work, although he is only twenty-six years of age, says London Tit-Bits, has excited the admiration of all mathematical experts. Perhaps the most extraordinary thing about Ramanujan is that as a mathematician he is quite untaught.

Until a year ago he was a clerk in the employment of the Port Trust, of Madras.

But in spite of this, he has, to quote Mr. Hardy, Fellow of Trinity, who has taken a great interest in Ramanujan, "discovered for himself a great number of things which the leading mathematicians of the last hundred years had added to the knowledge of school men, although he was quite ignorant of their work and accomplishments. Indeed, his mathematical education is rather a mystery, and the first I knew of him was about fifteen months ago when he wrote to me explaining who he was, and sent a large number of remarkable methematical theorems, which he had proved."

This is the second mathematical genius produced by India in the last three years. At the end of 1912 the members of the Royal Asiatic Society held a specially convened meeting at Colombo, when they were astounded by the arithmetical powers of a Tamil boy, Arumogan. A complicated series of sums had been prepared to test the boy's powers, each of which he answered within a few seconds. One sum was:—"A chetty gave as a treat to 173 persons a bushel of rice each. Each bushel contained 3,531,272 grains, and the chetty stipulated that seventeen per cent should be given to the temple. How many grains did the temple get?" Within three seconds came the answer (which had to be translated), 10,913,709, with fifty-two as the fraction over.

SOUND SLEEP

After Change to Postum.

"I have been a coffee drinker, more or less, ever since I can remember, until a few months ago I became more and more nervous and irritable, and finally I could not sleep at night for I was horribly disturbed by dreams of all sorts and a species of distressing nightmare." (The effects on the system of tea and coffee drinking are very similar, because they each contain the drug, caffeine.)

"Finally, after hearing the experience of numbers of friends who had quit coffee and were drinking Postum, and learning of the great benefits they had derived, I concluded coffee must be the cause of my trouble, so I got some Postum and had it made strictly according to directions.

"I was astonished at the flavour and taste. It entirely took the place of coffee, and to my very great satisfaction, I began to sleep peacefully and sweetly. My nerves improved, and I wish I could wean every man, woman and child from the unwholesome drug-drink—coffee.

"People do not really appreciate or realize what a powerful drug it is and what terrible effect it has on the human system. If they did, hardly a pound of coffee would be sold. I would never think of going back to coffee again. I would almost as soon think of putting my hand in a fire after I had once been burned. Yours for health."

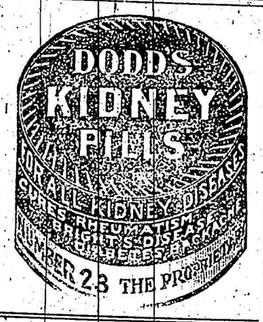
Postum comes in two forms:

Regular Postum — must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

"There's a Reason" for Postum —sold by Grocers.



MY FIRST KISS.

From a Gallant London Scottish Soldier.

My first kiss! Alas, it was given me but a few weeks ago, and already it seems an age. It happened thus:—I was down in London visiting some relatives. There I met a nice young fellow who was serving in the ranks of the gallant London Scottish. We met frequently, and he showed me most of the London sights. Our friendship ripened quickly.

Then like a thunderbolt came the order for the regiment to go, no one knew whither. All at once the war became a personal affair to myself. As a favor I was permitted to see the troops training. A few minutes were given to the men to take farewell of their friends. We seized the precious moments. In a semi-private corner of the station we said good-bye. Not much was said, for we understood the feelings of each other too well for that. There in that little Paradise, and in the gathering gloom I got my first kiss, and a minute or two later I was waving my farewell to him in the departing train.

The next few weeks were spent in anxiously scanning the papers. Then came word that my friend had been killed in the gallant and ever memorable charge on the trenches of the enemy. I was left alone, with the memory of a kiss.

A good story is going the rounds with reference to the habit of undue familiarity. One of these ill-mannered people called at the British War Office the other day, and in the course of an interview with the War Minister inquired, "What do you think, Kitchener?" Lord Kitchener assumed a sardonic smile and blandly remarked: "Don't be so beatly formal. Call me Herbert."

Camels Like Tobacco.

The camel, which is taking a part in the campaign against Turkey, is not, according to most travellers, a very companionable beast, but he has at least one human weakness—a love of tobacco. One of the methods used by Arabs in taming wild camels is to fix a kind of cigar holder in the animal's mouth and insert a hugely-rolled cigar. As soon as the camel starts to draw, it becomes remarkably docile, and quickly learns to inhale in the smoke and exhale through the nostrils. The one drawback or the system is that the animal and refuses to budge without his cigar.

Will Quickly Cure Any Sour Stomach

Relieves Fullness After Meals

"When I was working around the farm last winter, I had an attack of inflammation," writes Mr. F. P. Dawkins of Port Richmond. "I was weak for a long time, but well enough to work until spring. But something went wrong with my bowels for I had to use salts or physic all the time. My stomach kept sour, and always after eating there was pain and fulness and all the symptoms of intestinal indigestion. Nothing helped me until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Instead of hurting, like other pills, they acted very mildly, and seemed to heal the bowels. I did not require large doses to get results with Dr. Hamilton's Pills and feel so glad that I have found a mild yet certain remedy. To-day I am well—no pain, no sour stomach, a good appetite, able to digest anything. This is a whole lot of good for one medicine to do, and I can say Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the best pills and my letter, I am sure proves it."

Any man can make a fool of himself, but why try to improve on nature?

Minard's Liniment Cures Distemper.

"I'm going over to comfort Mrs. Brown," said Mrs. Jackson to her daughter Mary. "Mr. Brown hanged himself in their attic last night."

"Oh, mother, don't go; you know you always say the wrong thing."

"Yes, I'm going, Mary. I'll just talk about the weather; that's a safe enough subject." Mrs. Jackson went on her visit of condolence. "We've had rainy weather lately, haven't we, Mrs. Brown?" "Yes, replied the widow. "I haven't been able to get my week's washing dried." "Oh," said Mrs. Jackson, "I shouldn't think you'd have any trouble. You have such a nice attic for hanging things in."
