Hydro for Markdale.

Article No. 6.—Power Consumption and Rates.

While it is quite apparent that

LIGHT is the chief benefit to be derived from Hydro Electric development in so far as Markdale is concerned, yet even in the smallest villages there is some demand for a certain amount of power for other purposes. We have no industries in the town which could, or would, use a large block of power to drive electric motors, but the use of electric energy for small power and heating services would be appreciated by a considerable number of the people. There is one feature of Hydro that we have not drawn attention to in any of the earlier articles. To put it tersely the municipality under Hydro is able to sell far more power than it buys. To accomplish such a result the municipality does not steal the power. It takes advantage of the fact that while its power is bought on the basis of the monthly peak load, the service is continuous twenty-four hours in the day service. Under Hydro regulations it makes the power available to consumers for power purposes when the load is under peak, which of course is during the hours of day light. Under the regulations for power users special rates are granted for power used only in the hours of daylight. These rates apply to the use of power as power to run motors under a consumers power contract. The use of 1 Horsepower or less may be included in the ordi-

Re-Classification.

For two weeks Miss Spere-man, the official cataloguer, has been superintending the work of re-classification of Markdale Public Library, while Miss Mann, the efficient librarian, together with from two to six capable assistants has done diligent service. Miss Spere-man is a most capable official and congenial person, and she complimented Markdale very highly on their excellent library and efficient librarian, and dropped the confidential remark that she had met no better in the province. The work will occupy fully another week, and we hope in the next issue of The Standard to state the date of re-opening.

The System of Classification is that of the Dewey Decimal. This system has been adopted and approved by the Department of Classification and is being installed in nearly all the libraries in the Province of Ontario.
