Presentation.

The following presentation and address was presented to Mrs. F. Gilray by her Sunday School class: Dear friend and teacher—We, the members of our Sunday school class, on this occasion all take the opportunity of expressing our appreciation of your services as teacher, and the deep interest you have taken in our Spiritual Welfare. Your example and teachings have always been such as to inspire us to higher and nobler ideals of life. You have never, at any time, hesitated to sacrifice your time or your pleasure in our behalf. As a slight token of our esteem, we ask you to accept this tea-pot and may it often remind you of the warm affection which you hold in our hearts. Wishing you a happy and prosperous year, 1916. Signed, Mrs. Gilray, although taken by surprise, responded in a few well-chosen words.

Presentation at Temple Hill.

On Tuesday evening, December 28th, upwards of two hundred friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. Robert Dunlop to bid them farewell before their departure to their new home in Meaford. After lunch, which was served at midnight, the following address was read by Miss A. Patton, the presentation being made by Messrs. J. Hodgkinson and O. To. To Mr. and Mrs. Dunlop and Miss Jean:—

Made the Judge Perspire. Sir John Charles Day, the English judge who earned the title of the 'hooligan's terror,' died at the age of eighty-two. In the nineteen years Sir John was a judge of the high court— from 1892 to 1901—he was noted for his gift of sly humor and for his drastic flogging sentences. In fourteen years he sentenced 137 criminals to 3,766 strokes of the cat. Once he said to a gang of Liverpool ruffians: 'I am not going to give you men long terms of imprisonment, but when you go in you get twenty lashes of the cat; when you have been in nine months you get twenty lashes of the cat; before you come out you get twenty lashes of the cat. And then you can show what you have got to your friends.' He was tier-haps the only English judge who ever did 'hard labor.' While on a visit to a prison he tried the treadmill, but when he asked to be set free the guard pretended not to hear his request. The judge was perspiring freely by the time he was permitted to abandon his experiment.

Spread of the English Language. The English language is the richest, most virile and most powerful of all the languages now to be found among men. The men who conceived and made good this nation were Englishmen, and of course they spoke the only language they knew anything about, the language of their ancestors, the English language. The great Dr. Dollinger said of this language that 'to it is assigned in the coming age the intellectual supremacy that in ancient times belonged to the Greeks and afterward to the Romans.' In 1700 English was the language of 9,000,000 people. Today it is the language of 175,000,000, and by the end of the century it will be the language of 800,000,000 people.—New York American.

Tactful. 'Miss De Vere' said the lady who was entertaining the popular actress, 'would you mind telling me what your real name is?' 'My real name? Oh, yes. It is Tubbs—Sylvia Tubbs. But I hope you will not introduce me to your guests by it.' 'Oh, no; you needn't be afraid. I'm just as much ashamed of it as you are.'—Chicago Record-Herald.

Pin Money. It was the bride's first request for money. 'I must have some pin money,' said she. 'Certainly,' said the bridegroom. 'Here's a quarter. That ought to buy five or six papers of pins.'—Washington Herald.

MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED

Wedding Rings—large assortment. J. H. STEPHENSON

REBUKE BY SARCAISM.

About the Pricest Place to Use It is in the Classroom. In a well known Boston school there was a boy conspicuously dull at his Latin. He was a straightforward fellow and a gentleman by birth and breeding, but he was a bungler at syntax. One morning he had tangled himself in a simple phrase. The teacher asked a question that should have cleared him: 'But the poor lad did not know the answer.' Then the teacher leaned back in his chair, rolled his gray eyes to the ceiling and said for all the class to hear, 'I have been told that it is a hard thing to stuff a wildcat with butter, particularly if you have to do it with a hot awl, but that is child's play compared with putting Latin in a boy like this.' Of course the laugh came, but as the boys laughed they despised the teacher. 'Sarcasm,' said Carlyle, 'is the language of the devil.' Be that as it may, it has turned many a schoolroom into a place of torment. A boy may be too dull to be in school, but while allowed to be there he can never be old enough to justify a knife thrust from one whose first duty is to help and cheer him.—Boston Herald.

OYSTERS AND DYSEPPTICS.

When the Bivalves May and When They Should Not Be Eaten. It is popularly supposed that the oyster digests itself in the human stomach owing to the great size of the liver, which is crushed to dust by the begins and is thought to digest the mollusk itself. As the oyster, moreover, contains some 10 per cent of extremely assimilable protein, together with phosphorized fats and glycogen, it has always been freely administered to convalescents, while dyspeptic individuals have never hesitated to eat it abundantly. Dr. Pron expressed the opinion that the oyster may be allowed, therefore, to those dyspeptics whose gastric functions are deficient in anorexia, gastrastony, ulcer and incipient cancer, and to convalescents from acute disease, as it is likely to improve the appetite and to excite the stomach to increased motor and chemical activity. But to the large number of dyspeptics whose stomachs are hypersensitive to the oyster as well as to other stimulating foods, in many of these dyspeptics the gastric secretion is already sufficient, and it is unnecessary and unwise to increase it.—New York Press.

Slow, but Not Sure. 'Your daughter is not engaged to young Johnson yet, then? I suppose it is a case of slow and sure?' 'Well, yes—he is slow, and she is not at all sure.'

HARKAWAY

(Special to The Standard.) Messrs. A. Rusk, Will Hawken, jr., R. Rae and Wm. Hawken sr., were in Owen Sound as witnesses on the Mitchell Bros. and Merrifield law-suit last week. A number from this vicinity attended the social evening at Mr. D. Patterson's, Blantyre last week, and report a good time. Quite a number in this locality are suffering from La-Grippe. With feelings of sadness we have to report that Death has again visited our neighborhood and carried away one of its youngest members, in the person of little Esther Myrtle, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Moore, after an illness of only a few days, aged eight months. The funeral service was held on Sunday, Rev. Mr. Stotobury officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Moore and family have the deepest sympathy of the community in their hour of bereavement. Friends from a distance, who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Firth, of Markdale, and Mr. T. Moore, of Durham.

BEAYERDALE

(Special to The Standard.) Monday's thaw has caught a severe cold. Messrs. Hugh and Sam Miller, and their sister, Miss Pearl, left here on Saturday last, to visit friends at Clarksburg and Redwing. Miss Norma Brett was the guest of Miss Ada Brady, Cherry Grove, a few days last week.
