THIN-BLOODED PEOPLE

Often Become Seriously Ill Before They Realize It.

Some people have a tendency to become thin-blooded just as others have an inherited tendency to rheumatism or nervous disorders. The condition in which the blood becomes so thin that the whole body suffers comes on so gradually that anyone with a natural disposition in that direction should watch the symptoms carefully. Bloodlessness can be corrected more easily in the earlier stages than later. It begins with a tired feeling that rest does not overcome; the complexion becomes pale, slight exertion produces breathlessness and headaches and backaches frequently follow. In the treatment of "troubles due to thin blood" no other medicine has had such a great success as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They go right to the root of the trouble, make rich, red blood, thus restoring the weakened system to health and strength. Mr. R. F. Ashford, Peterboro, Ont., says: "Four years ago, my condition became so serious that it seemed to me I possessed every pain and ache and every morbid feeling possible. For months I had been overworked, and bereavement added the last straw necessary to break down my constitution. I had a severe ever-present headache and pains in the back of the eyes, and at the same time I was seldom free from severe neuralgic pains. I was rarely hungry, and when I was it seemed to create a morbidity which made my other ill harder to bear. Of course I consulted a doctor, and he told me I had a rest and a change of air; just the thing I was unable to do in the circumstances to take. I had a particularly bad spell on the day my daughter returned from college, and she insisted that I should take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was decidedly skeptical, but she got some and to please her I took them. The result—After the first box I was compelled to admit that I really did feel better. After the second box I ungrudgingly admitted that they were doing me good, and after the sixth box I felt free from every ache and pain and in gratitude I began to praise the pills to others. I am feeling as fit as I did twenty years ago and owe it to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LACK OF FOOD IN BERLIN.

Hunger Is the Most Powerful of Germany's Enemies.

"Truth cannot be hidden any longer!" exclaims "Carl S." in a message to Stockholm from Berlin.

The poorer classes in the capital are actually reduced to starvation. For them neither butter nor lard can be got for love or money. Margarine to the extent of four ounces per person per week can be got only after hours of waiting in a queue. More often than not, even then, the needs of only a few can be satisfied.

"It is by no means an uncommon thing that in such cases the dissatisfied crowd breaks shop windows or pillages shops.

"Hunger," generally speaking, the most powerful of the enemies which Berlin and Germany have.

Bitter distress naturally creates unrest amongst the working classes; and uprisings and revolts in the poorer quarters of Berlin are almost daily happenings. There is money enough in Berlin, but little enough to buy with it.

"Milk is only allowed for the feeding of babies, and every infringement of this order is punished very severely. The quality of the war-bread is getting worse. Thousands of families have emigrated to neutral countries."

"During an attack the captain, being threatened by two Germans who were particularly determined, killed one of the men and the other he had disposed of the other. The latter, however, arose to attack him as he was a mortal blow from behind, when Artemis sprang at him, seized him by the throat and strangled him."

Attacked German.

Artemis fought all winter in the trying region of Vire, where his services as liaison and patrol dog proved very valuable. In the month of April he was promoted to Captain P., and the Penitentiary describes an episode in which Artemis saved his new master.

"During an attack the captain, being threatened by two Germans who were particularly determined, killed one of the men and the other he had disposed of the other. The latter, however, arose to attack him as he was a mortal blow from behind, when Artemis sprang at him, seized him by the throat and strangled him."
