

FRESH FRIGHTFULNESS EXPECTED FROM BERLIN

Elevation of Hindenburg Stroke of Kaiser to Revive Spirits of People, Who Are Becoming Skeptical.

A despatch from London says: Well-informed opinion here is that the true measure of the effect which Roumania's entry into the war has had upon the German higher Councils is given by the removal of Gen. Von Falkenhayn and the appointment of von Hindenburg. The supersession of von Moltke after the battle of the Marne was purely military in its bearings, while the appointment of Hindenburg because of the failure of German diplomacy to keep Roumania out of the war is regarded as an "excited effort to satisfy public opinion" in Germany.

A despatch from The Hague says the change in the General Staff has caused a sensation in Germany, where the censorship so far does not allow the publication of newspaper comment. In the same despatch it is suggested that the plans of Hindenburg and Falkenhayn clashed because the latter did not wish to send troops to the eastern front, holding that the decision in the war would come only in the west, and that "Roumania's

ROUMANIA SHARES FOE TROOPS HAVE ALLIES' RESOURCES A NEW DRILL

Men Money and Munitions to be Handed Over Freely for the War.

A despatch from London says: Roumania already is being taken into the heart of the Entente alliance and is beginning to experience the great benefits of having an open account with such powers as France, Great Britain and Russia. She is sharing in the funds and general resources of the allies.

A consignment of French 75-millimetre guns and munitions for the Roumanians has been shipped from Russia into Roumania. Other French war material, consigned eventually to Roumania, has been lying at the port of Vladivostok, and has now been ordered immediately "routed" to Roumania.

France's chief contribution to Roumania is thus in the form of war material. Roumanian artillery is at present equipped in great part with Krupp guns, many of which were received during the last six months in payment for the 1,681 cars of grain and fresh meat sent from Roumania to Germany.

Russia's contribution will be in the form of troops. Besides undertaking to guarantee Roumanian security on the side of the Eastern Carpathians and apart from the prospective operations of Russian forces through Roumania against Bulgaria, Russia is to provide 200,000 men to co-operate with the Roumanians in Transylvania.

ERASE KAISER'S NAME FROM ROMAN PALACE

A despatch from Rome says: Workmen on Tuesday chipped off the marble memorial names of Emperor William and the German Crown Prince Frederick William, which had been placed in the Schutzen Palace on the ancient Capitol hill during a visit of the German Emperor to Rome twenty years ago. The names were ordered removed by the city Government.

OLD AGE PENSIONERS TO GET AN INCREASE

A despatch from London says: In response to prolonged agitation regarding the hardships suffered by Government old age pensioners by reason of the increase in the price of necessities, the Government has decided in special cases to make an additional allowance not exceeding half a crown per week.

FRENCH RECOGNITION OF HER NEW ALLIES

A despatch from Paris says: For the first time since Italy entered the war the French Government on Wednesday ordered that flags be raised on all official buildings in recognition of the declaration of war by Italy against Germany and by Roumania against Austria-Hungary.

BULGARIA IS DISTRUSTED BY THE GERMAN NEWSPAPERS

Betrays Eagerness to Allow Her No Time to Reflect or Attempt Secret Negotiations.

A despatch from Milan says: The sources leaves little doubt that the political situation in Bulgaria has been profoundly affected by Romania's intervention. Persons in touch with diplomatic conditions declare that events may be following in rapid evolution in Sofia.

King Ferdinand's journey to Vienna to join the High Council of War on the new and grave situation created by the Balkans is natural, but his traveling incognito is mysterious.

TWELVE-STORY FARMS.

Rocky Island of Greece Supports 25,000 People.

"It is easier to build a house than to build a farm in Andros," declared Prof. J. Irving Manatt recently, and since he describes a "twelve-story farm," but no house of more than three stories, it is easy to believe that he is right.

Andros, one of the famous "isles of Greece" of Byron and Homer, is a mountain island twenty-one miles by eight, which supports twenty-five thousand people, to whom both wealth and poverty are unknown. Every foot of land must be made to produce to the uttermost where farms are half quarried, half built on a rocky mountain-side. So, in a lesser degree, are the farmhouses, the Bulgarians, according to Andros despatch, have suffered greatly.

The Athens despatch says: The Bulgarians, in close formation, are estimated to be 15,000, it is said, in bad condition, though they are compelled to call for reinforcements from Kastoria and Vlachernai.

The Bulgarian regiments attacked the Serbians in close formation. The Germans, near Berovitz, suffered severely. They were compelled to ask reinforcements from Valbenkani and Kastoria.

The Serbians appear to be in the situation at Komicevo, where the Athens correspondent and Bulgarian officers of Roumanian origin who deserted said the Bulgarians intended to capture another Verdun."

PHENOMENAL RISE IN CUSTOMS RECEIPTS

Receipts for the Month of August Show Increase of $3,600,000.

A despatch from Ottawa says: Further phenomenal rise in customs indicating the main points of his year's remarkable trade increase shown in the monthly statement by Hon. J. D. Eaton, Minister of Customs. The August revenue customs reached a total of $11,400,000, as compared with $8,800,000, an increase of $3,600,000. For the five months of the fiscal year, the increases in customs revenue has been $21,723,000, the revenue having risen from $36,731,000 in 1915, to $44,000 during the present year.

FOOD PROSPECT GOOD GERMANS ALL WELL

A despatch from Berlin says: The outlook for the food supply and general economic situation in Germany are highly satisfactory at present, and there are no indications that these considerations will affect at any time an aspect which will influence the military and operations of the Empire.

Heffelrich, Secretary of the International Association, on Wednesday, said: "The food situation is excellent, and the food supplies are abundant and well distributed throughout the country." He added: "The food situation is excellent, and the food supplies are abundant and well distributed throughout the country."

Then the two men went in to ordering breakfast, said the waiter and remarked: "Good morning, sir." The waiter and the other said: "Good morning, sir."

Sir Harry Johnston Wants Peace, but Failed to Secure It.

The despatch says: "The population of the African territories, though with her friends, yet failing to succeed in her efforts, has been profoundly affected by the intervention of the British. The only result is that the British have just as much to be militarily as any other nation, but not necessarily because they are beaten by the British, but because they are beaten by the British."

No man has ever been more respected than Sir Harry Johnston, and therefore he is now considered to be a self-made man, who has made himself a competitor at first with the German and American joint stock companies.

Especially if he has been in several times bankrupt, and that he has made black sheep for life, and that he is now a man who makes money, he should be entitled to be a member of the Russian nobility.

An Englishman, Sir Harry Johnston, has been convicted of treason, and he is now serving a long prison sentence.

Historically according to him, it consisted of an alliance between the Teuton and the Gothic, and the Teuton must get his blood, he was not to be beaten by the Prussians, and that he is self-sacrifice, we say, to dominate Europe, and that he is the only one who can do it.
