BRITISH GAIN MORE GROUND

Allies Demand Adequate Reparation, Adequate Security.

A despatch from London says: "This is no time for faltering counsel or wavering purposes," said Premier Asquith in addressing the House of Commons on Wednesday. "This war cannot be allowed to end in some patched-up, precarious and dishonest compromise masquerading under the name of peace."

"No one desires to prolong for a single moment longer than is necessary the tragic spectacle of bloodshed and destruction, but we owe it to those who have given their lives that their supreme sacrifices shall not have been unavailing."

"The ends of the allies are well known. They are not frequently stated. They are not selfish, they are not vindictive, but they require adequate reparation for the past and adequate security for the future."

The House cheered the Premier loudly as he made these remarks, in concluding his address. After moving a vote of credit for £300,000,000. This brings up the total for the current financial year to £1,350,000,000. The House agreed to vote the credit asked for by Premier Asquith, virtually no criticism being offered to the Premier's statement.

A despatch from Rome says: The resumption of Austro-German submarine attacks is causing grave concern in Italy, where the prices of wheat, lumber, scrap iron and other imports have trebled within a year, owing to the prohibitive freight rates. Coal now costs $50 a ton. The railroads have a stock of 200,000 tons, however, and are not likely to be interrupted during the winter.

Lloyd George Repeats That Great Britain Will Tolerate No Outside Interference.

A despatch from London says: In the House of Commons on Wednesday night Lloyd George, Minister of War, replied to criticisms of utterances to the effect that the European war had to be a fight to a finish, and that Great Britain would tolerate no outside interference in the direction of peace. Charles F. Trevelyan complained that the Government had ignored the important speech by President Wilson on international mediation. Mr. Lloyd George, replying, declared that the answer to all this was a military, rather than a diplomatic, affair. As a matter of fact, Viscount

The Government has for some time had under consideration the establishment in Canada of an aviation school with a view to the development of what has become so important a branch of warfare on both land and sea. FORCE GERMANS FROM SOISSON

A despatch from London says: With the heights overlooking Bapaume firmly in their grip, the British are making a direct push for the town. The low ridge which blocked the way to the Bapaume approaches has been surmounted at several points, and although severe fighting will come before the town is won, many obstacles have been cleared. Advancing north-west of Guedeucourt and between Guedeucourt and Le Transloy, the British are now ready to begin the attack on Le Transloy. This village is very heavily fortified, but the possession of the low heights to the west lightens the task considerably.

NO CONVICTED MURDERER AT PRESENT IN CANADA.

A despatch from Ottawa says: A single convicted murderer in Canada. For the first time in years the Minister of Justice has no capital case before him waiting his recommendation and the final arbitration of the Cabinet Council as to whether the death sentence should be carried out or not. The dearth of murder cases during the past few months may very properly be regarded as another evidence of the effect of closed bars in diminishing crime.

ATTACKS REPULSED BY RUSSIANS IN THE LEMBERG REGION

Thinning Out of Forces to Bulwark Roumanian Lines Has Crippled Czar's Armies. The thinning out of the Russian forces in Galicia and Volhynia to bulwark the Roumanian lines in Transylvania and the allied lines in Macedonia does not appear to have crippled the Czar's armies. At every point on the front where operations are being conducted the Russians are showing the same stubborn resistance under a hostile attack and the same power in their own drives.

Lord Robert declared that this form of warfare on merchant vessels violated international law, as it was recognized by Great Britain and the United States in the days before the war, and was still objectionable to Great Britain, but no more so than when it is done on this side of the water.
