Changes in Business.

After respectfully conducting his livery business here for some time, Mr. Alex. Wilson, sold to Mr. H. Bowler last week. Alex. has been well thought of, and will be much missed. He purposes leaving for the West shortly.

We understand that Mr. Marshall Beard has taken over the feed barn business at the Markdale House, which has so long been conducted by Mr. Jim Summers.

House of Refuge.

The County Council committee re House of Refuge, Messrs. D. MacTavish, Chairman, Warden Goodfellow and Reeve Carson, of Sullivan, convened last week for quarterly audit and general business and found this institution in its usual good condition. Contracts for supplies for 1917 were let as follows: For bread, Pinder & England; for meat, Haslam & Johnston; for groceries, J. & W. Boyd, and for coal, Jeffrey Artley.

McFadden-Love.

A quiet wedding was solemnized this Wednesday afternoon when Mr. J. J. McFadden, second son of Mr. Hamilton McFadden, claimed as his bride, Miss Edith Love, youngest daughter of Mr. Andrew Love, Toronto street, Markdale. Rev. W. W. Wallace, B.D., performed the ceremony. After the wedding dinner the young people left for Toronto and eastern points. After the honeymoon the young couple will reside in Markdale suburbs. General good wishes are extended to the popular young couple.

"Red Cross Horse"

Editor of the Standard: Dear Sir,— May I thank the member of the committee for the statement in last week's issue that all monies collected for the said horse will be handed over to the Red Cross, less legitimate expenses. I think it would be wise for the committee to publish a complete statement of monies received from the drawing, the expenses incurred, together with the sum handed over to the Red Cross. My intentions are purely honorable in this matter, and I am considering the Committee's interest when I ask for this statement. There are others interested in this matter as well as the "horse" who asked the question in the issue two weeks ago. With the uncalculated insinuations of the other two letters, we have nothing to do. "Horse."

Boiling Down Reports

The Standard is pleased at all times to publish a report of gatherings of neighbors on the occasion of the removal of an individual or family, but these commendable functions have multiplied at such a rate as to render it impossible to publish all that comes, so in order to "boil down" these so as to handle them, we some time ago announced that a charge of one-half cent a word would be made, with a minimum of fifty cents for the "address" part of the report. This arrangement has been working satisfactorily, but some appear not to have noticed the new regulation, and continue sending the "address" without saying anything about the necessary tax.

Battalion Notes.

Corporal A. H. Noble, of this Depot, has been promoted to the rank of Sergeant.

Eighty men have been signed at this depot since the new year. We still want more men to fill our quota. Come along, boys, we have a place reserved for you. We need you badly.

Pte. H. Wall spoke at the box social in the Township Hall, Glenelg, last evening. He succeeded in securing another map for the 248th "Greys".

The following recruits were received at the local depot during the past week: Hazard—William Albert, Priceville, Ontario, age 19, farmer, single; next of kin, Mrs. (Jarvis) Hazard, same address. P. B. Beckerly, Harold, R.R. 2, Priceville, Ont., age 21, farmer, single; next of kin, Alma Beckerly, mother, Ashton, Cornwall, Eng. Welsh—Andrew Harold Greer, Markdale, Ont., age 19, machinist, single, next of kin, mother, same address.

EUGENIA

Owing to Rev. Madden, jr., taking a relapse, his father supplied the pulpit last Sunday.

Miss Almie McGee's many friends are sorry to hear she is confined to her bed with inflammatory rheumatism.

Wilfred McMaster has returned to the city.

Our town has opened spring with a new barber shop and auto livery.—L. Duckett, proprietor.

George Latimer is visiting with friends in Toronto.

Don't forget prayer meeting on Wednesday evening in the Presbyterian church.

We see Mr. Wes Latimer and Wilfred McGee are sporting a new driving horse each.

WODEHOUSE

(Last week's items.) During the past couple of weeks some changes have taken place in this neighborhood as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Bradley and family have moved to Mrs. Wiley's farm near Harkaway, and Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Lawson and family have moved from the farm they purchased from Mr. Bridge a few years ago, to his old home here, which has been occupied the past few years by Mr. Bradley. Mr. and Mrs. Bradley have been most obliging neighbors and we are sorry to lose them from this vicinity. Mr. and Mrs. Lawson are well known here, and will be welcomed back again.

A feeling of sadness passed over this section when the news spread around that Mr. J. J. Cook had passed away as it was believed that he had recovered from the attack of pneumonia. Mr. Cook was well known, and highly respected here, and the sympathy of the people goes out to Mrs. Cook and family in their hour of bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wiley, jr., have gone to the West, and we wish them unbounded success. Mrs. Wiley will be missed in New England church, where she was an organizer.

We are sorry to report the continued illness of Mrs. Gordon Wiley, and hope for her speedy recovery to good health.

Some improvement has been noticed in the past few days in the health of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Birch's infant son, which we hope will be permanent.

Several residents of this burg have had a tussle with lagrippe during the past few weeks.

We are pleased to report Mrs. James Wiley, jr., able to be around again.

The services in New England church were withdrawn on Sunday last owing to the impassable condition of the roads.

AUCTION SALE

A comfortable seven-room house lots 76, 7, Block H, Islay Street, Markdale, Mrs. Fowell's house, will be sold by public auction on the 28th April, at 3 p.m., at the premises. For particulars apply to B. H. Walden, Auctioneer, who will show interested parties through.

Announcements of Births, Marriages, Deaths—twenty-five cents. BORN BURNSIDE—In Markdale, on Saturday, April 7, 1917, to Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Burnside, a son.

The Late Inspector Campbell.

(Durham Chronicle.) We never knew what a day may bring forth. Never was this truth more fully exemplified than in the death of Mr. N. W. Campbell last Sunday morning.

The night previous we spent an hour and a half in his company, and left him about ten o'clock in good health.

On Friday he had been attending his inspectorial duties and was feeling well, but slightly fatigued. On Sunday morning he made the remark that he didn't have a pain anywhere, and felt in perfect health.

A few minutes later he was seized with a severe pain in the chest, but recovered shortly and partook of his breakfast with the family. After family worship, he went up stairs to prepare for church, but fell as he entered the bedroom, and in five minutes the spirit had taken its everlasting flight.

For a few months past Mr. Campbell had been feeling unwell at times, and a few weeks ago he consulted a couple of Toronto specialists, who advised him to be careful, as his heart was affected, and there were indications of a hardening of the arteries. From the diagnosis of these physicians and the advice given, he knew that the end was likely to come suddenly.

His family and friends were aware of the condition, and the awful sudden ending of a bright life was not wholly unexpected, but few thought the end would come so soon.

The deceased gentleman was born in the township of Benlueck, at Aberdeen, in July, 1856, and was therefore in sixty-first year. In early life he worked on the farm, like most country boys of his early days. He was a brilliant youth, and his ambitions led him to secure an education, and he took a teacher's certificate and he began life on his own account as a teacher in Hamplon and Aberdeen schools in the adjacent townships.

In connection with his duties, he worked hard, and advanced himself educationally and secured a higher grade of certificate. He attended High School at Collingwood, and subsequently took his first-class Grade A certificate. He taught for a time at Alliston, and later had a position on the staff of the High School in Whitby.

This brings us up to the end of 1886, when the inspectorship of South Grey became vacant by the resignation of the late Mr. Ferguson. Mr. Campbell was one of a number of applicants at the December session of the council, when he was successful in getting the appointment, which he has filled continuously ever since, with much credit to himself and a benefit to the inspectorate.

The following June, 1887, he married Miss McDonald from near Alliston, and to them were born four children, three of whom survive: Islay and Ian, at home, and William A., who was on the ocean for overseas service at the time of his father's death. He leaves also to mourn his death one brother, Barrister A. G. Campbell, of Toronto, and one sister, Mrs. John Henderson, of Port Elgin.

The deceased was a good Christian character, and a devoted member of the Presbyterian church. He was charitable towards all religious denominations, and if at all convenient he could always be depended upon to fill a pulpit vacancy in his own or any of the sister churches. He was a good logical speaker, deliberate in his utterances, and clear and convincing in his arguments. Along educational lines, he had risen to the first rank, not only in his own Inspectorate, but at the Ontario Educational Association, where his opinion was highly appreciated by the teachers and his fellow-inspectors. He also did service on the Provincial Board of Examiners, in which he rendered good and valuable assistance.

He was not a man to seek public positions, though regarded on several occasions one of the eligibles for some of the choice openings of honor and emolument. His greatest aim seemed to be to do his duty, and to do it well.

Mr. Campbell was a self-made man, and the position to which he rose in the educational ranks was the result of his untiring perseverance and his personal energy. He had educational ambitions to the last, and few men reaching the age of fifty years would think of settling down to hard study and spend his energies, and the midnight oil to obtain through his own persistent efforts a university degree. It was only some six or seven years ago that Mr. Campbell completed his course in Arts, taking his B.A. outside the university. We mention this as a high tribute to his ability, and a task that few advanced in years would think of undertaking.

In social circles the deceased was a useful man. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity, under whose auspices the funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon. He was also a member of the Chosen Friends, the Independent Order of Foresters and the Ancient Order of United Workmen.

The funeral obsequies were conducted at the home on Tuesday afternoon by his pastor, Rev. Mr. Whaley, assisted by the local clergy.
