

children visited their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Irwin on the west coast line recently.

Miss Isla Ormsby, of Toronto, is home for her holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Fraser Reid and two little boys, George and Bobby, also Miss Esther Brett, who is working in their clothing shop, who is working in Mrs. T. Brett's on Friday and returning Monday and took Miss Norma Brett with them to spend a couple of weeks. Mr. Reid did not come to be round as he is skintight about one half of Mrs. Brett's kitchen in about a day.

Misses Martha and Ada Bradley are staying a few days at their sister's, Mrs. Hugh Johnson.

Miss Nell Johnston and her friend, Mrs. Robert Viech, of Clarkburg, visited at her brother's, Mr. Hugh Johnston, recently.

Mr. Alex Miller came home on Saturday after helping his uncle, Andrew Vincent, finish up his hay den at St. Vincent.

Miss Pearl Miller went to Owen Sound on Tuesday last, to undergo an operation for appendicitis. We hope for her speedy recovery.

We are glad to see Mrs. A. Ormsby able to be around again, after being laid up for a few days.

SCORE OF BANDS AT THE "BIG FAIR"
Innes, the Bandman, to Head Unusually Good Musical Program.

Innes, the Bandman, who will head the musical program this year at the Canadian National Exhibition, with his famous band of soloists, is an Englishman, a graduate of London Conservatory of music, and the Band of the Life Guards. Later he went to Paris, where he attracted the attention of the late Pat Gilmore, the greatest of American leaders. He accompanied Gilmore to America and has proved a worthy successor to the old master. Innes' band was acclaimed at the Panama Pacific Exposition. He it was who planned and carried to success the remarkable series of festivals which made the Alaska Yukon Exposition notable among all other exhibitions for its musical programs. Innes will give two free concerts daily, and in addition, there will be concerts by a score of other bands day and night.

CAN YOUR HENS FOR WINTER USE.

(Experimental Farm's Note.)
"Canned Chicken" may be made at home in your own kitchen out of the old hens that ought to be killed anyway.

The method of operation for what is known as "Straight Pack" by the trade is very simple and is given in detail as follows by Dr. Robt. Barnes Chief of Meat and Canned Foods Division Health of Animals Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Clean and cut up the chicken. Sort out the fleshy portions, such as legs, thighs, and breast.

Break off the protruding portions of bones in each piece.

Place in a bottle or other vessel containing warm water and gradually bring to the boil.

For pint jars boil 2 1/2 hours. For quart jars boil 3 1/2 hours.

For the balance of the chicken. Place in kettle and boil till the meat will strip free from the bones.

Strip off all meat and pack in jar. Pour thereon the balance of the liquid in the kettle that has not been used in the first jar.

If there is not enough liquid to fill the jar, add water. Place in boiler as above and boil as follows:

For pint jars 2 1/2 hours. For quart jars 3 1/2 hours.

If desired, the whole chicken may be prepared the same as the last part.

In all cases take care not to expose the jars to a sudden change of temperature. Also after the jars have cooled off, examine the tops to see that the covers are air-tight.

During the cooking of the product place the glass tops on the sealers, but do not fasten them. Any steam or gas which may be generated will escape. As soon, however, as the process is finished fasten the tops securely.

While describing the method of canning, something should be said about the poultry to be canned.

What is preferred are good, plump fowls with a fair proportion of chickens, the bones of the latter giving a firmer jelly and lessening the danger of a soupy or sultry product.

As a precaution against this condition, where the pack is tight, the relative may be, and often used.

So much has been said and written about the proper methods of starving, bleeding and plucking poultry for market that it is useless to go over them again. One can hardly emphasize the necessity of exactness in carrying out the accepted principles in connection with these points, which are just as applicable to poultry to be canned as they are to those intended for the market.

There is another point which is important, altogether possibly its carrying out may detract from the appearance and effect of the sale of an inexperienced buyer, namely, that all poultry intended for food, canned or otherwise, after being properly starved, bled and plucked, should be left undrawn and kept in a suitable temperature for a day or two in order that the chemical changes which follow the killing of the bird may have an opportunity to take place.

THOUSANDS OF MEN REQUIRED FOR HARVESTING IN WESTERN CANADA.

Thousands of men are required to help in the great work of harvesting the Western crop. Arrangements for transporting to the West this great army of workers have been completed by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Excursions from points in Ontario to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta will run, and special trains operated, making the trip in thirty-six hours, with out change or transfer.

Going trip West, $12.00 to Winnipeg. Returning trip East, $18.00 from Winnipeg.

Consult C.P.R. Agents regarding transportation west of Winnipeg. Going Dates:

August 21st and August 30th—All stations in Ontario, west of Smith's Falls, up to and including Toronto, on Lake Ontario Shore Line, and Havelock-Peterboro line, also from stations between Kingston and Renfrew Junction, inclusive, and from stations on Toronto-Sudbury direct line.

From stations on Sault Ste. Marie branch. From stations on main line, Beauport to Franck, inclusive. From stations, Bethany Junction to Port McNicoll and Burketon-Bohacaygeon.

KEEP THE POTATOES GREEN AND GROWING.

(Experimental Farm's Note.)
Many are growing potatoes in Canada this year, for the first time and, as a result of the greatly increased number of growers the crop will probably be greatly increased. But to insure a good crop there must be an abundance of moisture in the soil and the tops must be protected from insects and disease.

Cultivation.—The soil should be kept cultivated with the cultivator or hoe until the tops meet sufficiently to shade the ground. As most of the tubers develop in the three or four inches of soil nearest the surface, and as the tubers will not develop well in dry soil, quite shallow cultivation is desirable at this season of the year.

In the soil which is dry there may be good development of tops but there will be few tubers. The roots in such cases have gone down deep in the soil to obtain moisture but the tubers bearing stems, which are quite different from the root system, do not develop well.

Where the soil is loose, sandy loam, hilling is not necessary and may be injurious, as the soil dries out more than if left on the level. In heavy soils it is desirable to hill potatoes as it will loosen the soil and the tubers will be shapelier than when the ground is left level.

When there is sufficient rainfall and the soil hilling is likely to give best results in all kinds of soil as the soil will be looser and the tubers can push through it readily.

As a great development of tubers usually moisture during the cooler and usually moister weather of the latter part of summer, it is very important to keep the plants growing well until then.

In one experiment it was shown that during the month of September there was an increase of 110 bushels of potatoes per acre.

THE WESTERN FAIR.

The management of the Western Fair, London, Ontario, have this year added $200.00 in cash to what was already a very liberal Prize List in the Poultry Department. This is the fifth year for this Popular Exhibition and the Board are making every effort to eclipse all previous Exhibitions, good as they have been. In order to do this, one of the first things decided was to add $200.00 to the Live Stock Prize List. The Poultry Committee were able to secure $200.00 of this amount to their department, and have placed it all on the list without adding anything to the entry fee. This will make a very attractive list in fact one of the very best. Prize Lists, entry forms and all information may be obtained from the Secretary A. M. Hunt, London, Ont.

Aeroplane Special Delivery.

I do not think the aeroplane will supplant the steamship and railroad for a mail carrier because it will be too expensive. It would take a very large number of flying machines, perhaps a hundred, to carry as much mail as we now get into a mail car.

You can easily figure how this would increase the expense. It will have the same advantage in carrying mails as in carrying passengers, and that is speed. This statement also needs some qualification, for when it comes to quick communication the aeroplane can never supplant the telegraph and the telephone.

But we shall probably have a special rapid mail service by aeroplane, for which we shall pay a higher price, and buy a special stamp. The flying machine will give a ten hour service between New York and Chicago and a two day service from the Atlantic to the Pacific—Orville Wright in Harper's Magazine.

London Through the Ages.
The occupation of the site of London dates back much further than most readers are aware. The city that Julius Caesar found occupied a site which had been inhabited for unnumbered thousands of years.

It is known that during prehistoric and neolithic times the two great divisions of the stone age—man dwell on the site of London, but it first became the settlement of a community at the opening of the historic age, when it was a stronghold of the Celts.

The remains of its Roman period are the finest of the kind in Great Britain. The Anglo-Saxon and Danish periods are finely represented, and even later periods, such as the Tudor, furnish relics that have been buried by the strange process of superincumbent growth which makes the soil under a great city resemble the fossiliferous strata of geology.

Alaska's "Pupmobile."
The "pupmobile" is a passenger train drawn over a regular railroad track by dog power. It carries passengers from Nome, Alaska, across the level land near that town into the mountains.

The track is a narrow gauge railroad built in 1900. A high tax was placed on railroads in Alaska soon after that, and as there was not enough traffic over the road to justify the expense of operating locomotives, the regular train service was discontinued. The "pupmobile" was instituted. The accommodation for passengers consists of a platform on which are two seats. To this from seven to fifteen dogs are harnessed, and the rate at which they travel compares favorably with much of our "rapid transit."

At the Equator in Africa.
There are only two seasons—the wet and the dry—at the equator in Africa. The former is the summer season and lasts eight months. The thermometer averages from 110 to 125 degrees Fahrenheit. The other four months are the cold or dry season, and the thermometer rarely goes below 70 degrees Fahrenheit.

During the rains the natives live in houses made principally of bamboo and roofed with leaves, but as soon as the rains stop, which is some time around June 1, they desert their towns and set out for the forests and jungles. The few household furnishings are transported on the heads of the women and children.

One of the least known cities of China is Urga where sand, squalor and holy men are the predominating features. Urga lies at the edge of a desert in north China, and its people are most un-Chinese in appearance. It is said that every third man met there is a lama. The chief lama in Urga is as great a personage in the north as the Dalai lama half a continent away. Thousands upon thousands of lesser lamas adore him and tens of thousands of the populace in their turn adore the lesser lamas. There is also a college for the study of religion in Urga, so that men in all stages of holiness are present in great numbers. There are frequent festivals.

She had a voice like a siren, and when she sang "Mid play surs, sand palaces, the beam a roame, be it verse of hum bulb, there was now play sty comb," and so on to the conclusion,

Know Your Business.

In the American Magazine James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation, says:

"Any one wishing to acquire comprehensive knowledge of his business or of any specific subject must not try to store his mind with endless details about other things. For example, I have tried to learn all I could about the steel business in its mining, manufacture, selling and transportation branches, but to enable me to carry business information in my head, I have not attempted to retain in my mind minute detailed data about politics or baseball.

"Absorb what to you is essential—that is, everything pertaining to your field of endeavor. Abolish from your mind nonessential, extraneous subjects. No human brain has cells enough to store up all the facts about all subjects under the sun. Don't clog your brain cells with impedimenta. Feed them only with vital material, with things that will enhance your usefulness in your sphere of activity, with things that will increase your stock of useful information."

Pattern Coins.
Pattern coins and trial pieces are now guarded with the greatest care by the mint authorities, and the government does not permit them to be owned by private persons—that is, those patterns made since the year 1857. Before that time the government sanctioned the sale of certain specimens, but when it was discovered how many of all the different varieties were in the possession of coin collectors an attempt was made to confiscate them wherever found, but this resulted in failure.

A twenty dollar brass trial piece struck from dies of a twenty dollar gold piece at Denver mint was the first coin of any denomination to be made there. It was presented to the State Historical Society of Colorado and at once took its place among the many rare trial pieces and pattern coins which are nowadays highly prized by coin collectors.—Magazine of American History.

Growth of the English Language.
A study of the relative growth of the leading languages in the last hundred years shows that English has risen from fifth to first place. In 1900 it was spoken by about one-eighth of the inhabitants of the civilized world; today it is the language of about one-third.

Besides this, English has taken the place that French occupied much less than 100 years ago as the international language. Its speech is ever becoming wider, for the inhabitants of all India are finding it necessary; it is now a required study in the high schools of Japan, and those of China are teaching it to millions of students.

Would it be too rash to predict that by the year 2000 English will be the language of all the world and other tongues will have become merely local in their use?

"Magic" Cloths.
Many housewives gladly pay 25 cents for so-called "magic" cloths, as they are very useful for silver and other metals. Being dry, they do not soil the hands or clothing and do their work until the cloth itself wears out. To make such a cloth take one quart of gasoline, one-half pound of whiting and one-eighth ounce of oleic acid, mix all together and shaking well, soak the pieces of woven cloth in the mixture and hang them in the open air in a shady place to dry. When the cloths are dry the "magic" qualities have been given to them, and these they will never lose. The material must be wool.

The Way to Bake Beans.
To make baked beans soak one and one-half pints of small white beans overnight in soft water. In the morning drain and parboil, but not enough to crush the beans. Place in the bottom of a bean pot several slices of bacon (salt or fresh pork), then put in about half the beans, over which sprinkle salt, a heaping spoonful of brown sugar or New Orleans molasses, then more slices of the bacon. Over this place the rest of the beans, with the salt, sugar, molasses and bacon on top. Cover with soft water and bake at least eight hours, though they are better if baked all day. Add soft water as needed.

Agriculture in Japan.
According to the latest investigations made by the department of agriculture and commerce, the number of families in Japan engaged in agriculture is 5,448,292, of which 1,725,692 families cultivate their own land, 1,507,250 families are tenant farmers, and 2,202,089 families are working partly on their own land and partly as tenant farmers. The land owned by farmers are 32 per cent of the total. The percentage is small as compared with 62 in England, 63 in the Netherlands and 65 in the United States, but is large as compared with 33 per cent in England.

Japanese Dinners.

In the matter of eating it is agreed that the Japanese cuisine is not of the attractive quantity. It is not acceptable; Japanese dinners are elaborate in preparation, artistic in presentation, but for satisfying the inner man far inferior to European or even Chinese cooking. The chief characteristic of a purely Japanese dinner is to please the eye, not the palate or stomach. It is a national joke that one must eat a meal before going to or after returning from a Japanese dinner.

Oh, how much labor and expense are lavished on a gochiso (entertainment) to make it nice to look at! This is all sheer waste and luxury and is to be condemned. Providence has kindly put in the most economical manner, so the Japanese dinner is a blasphemous abuse of providential beneficence. It is an analytical relic of feudalism, reminiscent of the morbid tastes of the luxurious overlords! A monstrous fact is that these customs are not going out of fashion.—Sato Masu in Japan and of St. Thomas. Commemorative coins recently acquired by the United States Mint are the finest that have been struck in the United States since the year 1857.
