

RAILROADS SOLD FOR WAR USE

TO TRANSPORT ARMIES AND MATERIAL TO THE FRONT.

About 1,000 Miles of Canadian and American Railways Have Been Laid Down in France.

The long and hungry arm of war has reached out into Canada and the United States in search of surplus and unused railroads and the plan has been hatched of the two countries have been ransacked of the materials required in France.

The tremendous demand for steel rails and rolling stock for the allied armies in France caught the steel trade unprepared, and rather than build new plants for the rail and equipment factories to catch up with the search of old railroads which could be dismantled and transplanted in France.

Hundreds of miles of railroad have disappeared completely from the face of the North American continent, only to appear a few months later in eastern France. Engines, cars, rails, bridges, ties—everything that is available in the way of railroad property has been running the submarine blockade for months, and the end is not in sight.

Good Prices for "Junk." Junk dealers have been scampers about the country buying up all the discarded railroads they could get their hands on. And as "junk" the road properties have been sold at prices of 200 and 400 per cent above the market of four years ago.

Within recent months approximately 1,000 miles of Canadian and American railroads, including stock, work, and salvaging, have been snapped up and prepared for shipment abroad. Even hungry junk dealers from Japan have appeared in the market.

Canadian railroads sacrificed many rolling stock for the mother country. Side and switch tracks at small stations were shortened or eliminated, in some cases portions of double track equipment being taken up in order that the English armies might not suffer from lack of shells and food. Wherever economy in use of roadbed could be brought about, track was sacrificed. In a number of cities where street railway and interurban lines were being retained with heavier steel the old rails passed into the hands of agents who had been collecting such property for sale to foreign buyers.

Few Narrow Gauge Lines. The transportation problem back of the allied armies has become one of the most important issues of the war. The maintenance of the English and French armies has required the use of thousands of miles of railroad lines and huge quantities of rolling stock and other equipment. Need for this equipment became more and more imperative each time the allied armies defeated the German line.

Despite the popular impression, narrow gauge lines are not the rail at the front. To be truthful, there are the excursions for the huge guns and the tremendous quantities of supplies which must be moved over these lines demand the heaviest of equipment. Miles and miles of standard railroad track run right up to the big guns which are belching death into the German ranks.

Shell holes must be filled up, the wreckage of German narrow gauge lines moved to one side, bridges installed and equipment brought up, sometimes under fire so galling that the work is even more dangerous than trench fighting.

NATURE'S TREASURE BOX.

Fairy Geode in Brazil is Lined With Richly Colored Amethyst.

One of the most curious things in nature is a "geode." It is a ready-made treasure casket. The beginning of a geode is a cavity in rock. Water percolating into it deposits silica in crystalline form. Ages later, perhaps, the rock is broken open and out falls the geode—a nodule of chalcedony lined with beautiful crystals.

Sometimes the silica that forms the geode is stained with oxide of manganese, and in such cases the geode is lined with amethyst. Occasionally a geode holds a gill or two of water to be seen through in the translucent "coat" of the nodule—which has been shut up in the little box for millions of years, maybe.

The biggest and most wonderful geode ever discovered was found not very long ago near the German settlement of Santa Cruz, in Brazil. It was thirty-three feet long, sixteen feet wide and ten feet high. Embedded in rock, the upper part of it was nearly as one piece with the rock, but a crack through in some accidental way and a palm tree was growing out of it.

The whole inside of this fairy geode to-for it deserved no less picturesque name—was lined with richly colored crystals of amethyst, many of them as big as a man's fist, and with brilliant lustrous facets, as if polished by lapidary.

To remove this gigantic geode was impossible, but it was broken up into pieces without blasting.
