WORLD-WIDE PROHIBITION

It is not saying too much when we say that the liquor interests have received due warning that in the interest of humanity they must turn their attention to other channels...

Evidence of this rising tide in the United States bids fair to become the strong and successful impulse to other republics and empires of the world.

Our statesmen, both provincial and federal, are quite assured, we believe, that the electorate will endorse not only provincial but Dominion prohibition.

The prohibitionists are in operation in Great Britain, in France, and indeed in every country in the world to bring before the peoples of all the countries the enormous advantages to be derived from the abolition of the strong drink.
