SOUR, ACID STOMACHS, GASES OR INDIGESTION

"Pape's Diapepsin" neutralizes excess acid in stomach, relieving dyspepsia, heartburn and distress at once.

In five minutes all stomach distress, due to acidity, will go. No indigestion, heartburn, sourness or belching of gas or eructations of undigested food, no dizziness, bloating, coated tongue or headache.

Pape's Diapepsin is harmless to the stomach, tasteless, prevents fermentation in the stomach and is inexpensive. Put one of these large fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin in your store. You should sell lots of it because everybody gets indigestion, dyspepsia, sour stomach or gastritis sometimes, and besides it is such a certain relief.

THE LATE MRS. MERCER

On Thursday, November 6th, Mrs. Alex. Mercer passed away peacefully in gentle sleep at the home of her son, Mr. Thos. Mercer, East Line, Artemesia. If she had lived until the 11th of this present month she would have reached her 98th birthday. She belonged to a family of remarkable longevity, her father reaching 104 years, and an aunt living to see 112 years. Had the late Mrs. Mercer not met with the unfortunate accident which proved fatal for her she, no doubt, might have lived the round century. She was of Irish birth, her early home being in County Derry, North of Ireland. About a half century ago she emigrated to America taking up residence in Philadelphia, U.S.A., where later she was married to Alex. Mercer. They came to Canada and settled in Erin, Wellington County, Ont., from which place they came to Artemesia forty years ago and settled on the home stead now occupied by the son, Thos. Mercer. Mrs. Mercer was bereft of her husband, Alex. Mercer, twenty-five years ago, and since has lived on the homestead, first in a cottage erected for her, and later in the home of her son when advancing years made it necessary for her to have care and companionship. She was a remarkable woman, very alert, possessing a wonderful memory. She was strong in simple faith and ready for the call to that life that means release from the weaknesses of infirmities of age.

There were ten members in the late Mrs. Mercer's family, three of whom are deceased and seven still living. The deceased were, James, Mrs. W. J. Purvis, and Bella who died in girlhood. The surviving are, John, Alex. and Robert, of B. C., Hugh, of Markdale, Thomas on the homestead, Mrs. Brown, of Moosejaw, Sask. and Mrs. Wm. Wodner, of Winnipeg.

The funeral which was largely attended by friends and neighbors took place on Saturday afternoon, November 8th. Rev. A. P. Stanley conducted the services at the house and was assisted at the graveside by Rev. Mr. Richardson. The burial took place in Markdale cemetery. The pall bearers were, Mr. J. C. Mercer, Mr. H. H. Mercer, Dr. J. S. Shepherdson, Mr. Geo. Nodwell, Mr. Ed. Nodwell and Mr. Alex. Nodwell.

SIR WILLIAM HEARST.

(The Pioneer)

To few public men is it given the right to grow by genuine merit such a generous mead of public approval as to-day is the portion of Sir William Hearst. The veering whim of public opinion which has deprived him of a seat in the Ontario Legislature has not lessened the admiration of the people of Ontario for his fine qualities as a man or their approval of his statesmanship as Premier.

The Ontario Temperance Act stands to-day as a continual and continuing witness to the political courage which caused a man who had the power to do it—to write into law the principles for which he stood.

Before Sir William Hearst was Premier, or even a member of the Legislature, he was in the temperance fight in his own locality. When a private member of the Legislature, he stood for prohibition; as a member of the Government he adhered to his prohibition principles; as Premier, he used his powerful influence to secure the enactment of the Ontario Temperance Act.

No man in the history of the Province of Ontario has rendered more signal service to his province and country than did Sir William Hearst in his fidelity to principle and his true Canadian statesmanship.

FARMER SHOULD KEEP HIS NAME ON MAIL BOX.

The Government at Ottawa decided several years ago that the rural population of Canada was entitled to receive better mail service than they had been getting and, at great expense, inaugurated free delivery all through the settled portions of the Provinces. Boxes and ditbags were forwarded to all the people living on rural lines who desired them, at cost prices. The name of each patron was printed on the box and a set of his name enclosed with the furnishings so that as soon as the names showed signs of fading a little fresh paint could be applied and the name could always be read easily by any person driving on the public highway. That was the mail carrier's guide to make delivery. The people, or a great majority of them, have grown careless in the matter. They look for their mail to be delivered correctly and yet eight out of every ten boxes have not the sign of a name on them now. The mail carrier is neither steel nor cast-iron and is liable to all the diseases of the human race. Some day he will have to send a stranger over the route and the new man will find what he is up against when he gets to the box. No name; can't deliver. Gets to a cross-section of the line where several boxes are at the corner. This time he runs into greater difficulties; a whole group of boxes and not a name, and the owner of the boxes agreed with the Government that they would maintain and keep in order the line, shovel away the snow from around the boxes, and assist in keeping the road open in winter. They are a favored people, mail delivered three hundred and thirteen days in the year, right to the gate, free. The mail carrier goes every day; no holidays, not even Christmas or New Years Day. As the Frenchman says: "Every day, every day, every day, every day." Are you trying to make the delivery of mail matter as perfect as possible? We hear a lot about the Government breaking faith with the farmer; has the farmer done what he agreed to with the Government? Ask the mail carrier; or, better still, look at your mail box and see how a new man could deliver your mail correctly. This is a matter that concerns the farmer even more than it does the mail carrier, so straighten up your posts and get your name repainted on your mail boxes so that a man—any man—who drives the road may see where you live and do business.—St Marys Journal.

REID - PLOURD

A quiet marriage was performed by Rev. W. A. Robins at the Presbyterian Manse, Walters Falls, on Wednesday evening, November 5th, at 7 o'clock, when Alice Plourd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Speck, of Walters Falls, was united in marriage to Wm. Reid, son of Mrs. Wm. Reid, of the Blind Line.

The charming bride looked extremeley well in nigger brown silk, with large velvet hat to match. She also wore a handsome fur coat, the gift of the groom.

Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple drove to their home "Springbank Farm," half a mile north of Walters Falls.
