

Every Man For Himself

By HOPKINS MOORHOUSE

(Copyright by Mussen Company)

CHAPTER XIII.

Phil Kendrick sipped his drink with what he flattered himself was a fine show of unconcern. He even smacked his lips and complimented Mr. Lawson on the tang of that phosphate mixture he had concocted for it was, in fact, quite a delightful beverage.

"I've mentioned last night that Miss Lawson had gone in for some kind of newspaper work—was on the staff of the Recorder, if I remember rightly," said Phil with an air of one who makes conversation for the sake of politeness. "I know that she had been in the office of the Recorder, but I don't know whether she had been in the office of the Recorder or not."

"I don't know," said Phil with an air of one who makes conversation for the sake of politeness. "I know that she had been in the office of the Recorder, but I don't know whether she had been in the office of the Recorder or not."

"I don't know," said Phil with an air of one who makes conversation for the sake of politeness. "I know that she had been in the office of the Recorder, but I don't know whether she had been in the office of the Recorder or not."

"I don't know," said Phil with an air of one who makes conversation for the sake of politeness. "I know that she had been in the office of the Recorder, but I don't know whether she had been in the office of the Recorder or not."

"I don't know," said Phil with an air of one who makes conversation for the sake of politeness. "I know that she had been in the office of the Recorder, but I don't know whether she had been in the office of the Recorder or not."

"I don't know," said Phil with an air of one who makes conversation for the sake of politeness. "I know that she had been in the office of the Recorder, but I don't know whether she had been in the office of the Recorder or not."

"I don't know," said Phil with an air of one who makes conversation for the sake of politeness. "I know that she had been in the office of the Recorder, but I don't know whether she had been in the office of the Recorder or not."

NURSES

The Toronto Hospital (Incorporated) offers a three year course of training to young women having the required education, and desiring to become nurses. This hospital has adopted the light-hour system. The pupils receive uniforms and traveling expenses to and from New York. For further information apply to the Superintendent.

"I've been watching that ever since," Stiles stopped abruptly in some confusion. "Ever since the theft of the safe containing fifty thousand dollars, prompted Kendrick. 'I know all about that. It's right. Go on.' But for a moment Stiles was struck dumb by this speech. 'Why did you say that?' he asked. 'I don't know,' said Stiles. 'I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean.'"

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

About the House

On Judging Values.
Have you visited your school lately? If you haven't, better make the effort this coming week; you'll certainly be repaid if only in the likely pleasure of the children take in their work. Undoubtedly, there'll be more than that to make you think the time well spent.

"The whole trouble is," your boy hasn't yet learned how to pick out essentials," said the teacher. "He takes his seat with the laudable idea of studying and getting a good mark. But all of a sudden he happens to the back of something he wants to say to the class, his mind is diverted from his work, there is a break, and a new start, all of which has consumed a portion of the study period. When he hears that he can only do one thing at a time, and comes to the conclusion that the essential thing is to study in the study period and to talk at recess time his marks will go up. So far he hasn't learned how to judge values."

"Why didn't you say in the first place you were Mr. Wade's private secretary?" he asked. "I know where I'm at—'if it's true,' he added suspiciously, suddenly sitting erect again. 'Miss Lawson said she heard you were in the office of the Recorder, but I don't know whether she had been in the office of the Recorder or not.'"

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

and do not let them in until bedtime. Make them sit down shoes every minute they are in the house. This is not conducive to happy byood, or restful if only in the likely pleasure of the children take in their work. Undoubtedly, there'll be more than that to make you think the time well spent.

"The whole trouble is," your boy hasn't yet learned how to pick out essentials," said the teacher. "He takes his seat with the laudable idea of studying and getting a good mark. But all of a sudden he happens to the back of something he wants to say to the class, his mind is diverted from his work, there is a break, and a new start, all of which has consumed a portion of the study period. When he hears that he can only do one thing at a time, and comes to the conclusion that the essential thing is to study in the study period and to talk at recess time his marks will go up. So far he hasn't learned how to judge values."

"Why didn't you say in the first place you were Mr. Wade's private secretary?" he asked. "I know where I'm at—'if it's true,' he added suspiciously, suddenly sitting erect again. 'Miss Lawson said she heard you were in the office of the Recorder, but I don't know whether she had been in the office of the Recorder or not.'"

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

CORNS

Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little 'Freezone' on an aching corn. Instantly the corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly! You'll find 'Freezone' a tiny bottle of 'Freezone' for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

At least once a week with the vacuum cleaner, or even with a broom. Experienced housekeepers are frequently distressed by the amount of dust and loose wool which sweeps off new rugs, especially Axminster. This need not cause alarm, however, as it is only the loose lint which remains when the rug is 'sheared' when they are finished.

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

"PARENTS' BOOK" IS A HANDY GUIDE

WHEN YOUR CHILD ASKS PUZZLING QUESTIONS

Useful Bits of Information About the Natural and Artificial Wonders of the World

Only the most perfect world could hope to raise questions which children ask. When a boy asks, 'Why do birds fly?' or 'Why do fish swim?' or 'Why do stars shine?' the reason is that he has heard it explained, and he is in all the best of the world.

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

"I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean." "I don't know," said Stiles. "I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean. I don't know what you mean."

ANSWER THIS PUZZLE AND WIN $1000

WHO ARE THEY?

- WAR IS NO SLOGAN
- BAD MAN OR MEN
- LUCY FAK RAT
- MIGHTY HANSOME
- SALA CHERRY
- IDLE BAY CAR
- PURE RICE LAKE
- DRY HOGS HOT
- PARCK MY FORD
- TRAPCH ALL CHIN

The Big Prize List!
$2,200.00 in all!

1st Prize "Special"	$1,112.00
Overland Auto
2nd Prize	$500.00
3rd Prize	$250.00
4th	100.00
5th	60.00
6th	35.00
7th	25.00
8th	20.00
9th	20.00
10th	20.00
11th	15.00
12th	15.00
13th	15.00
14th	15.00
15th	15.00
16th	15.00
17th	10.00
18th	10.00
19th	10.00
20th	10.00
21st	10.00
22nd	10.00
23rd	10.00
24th	10.00
25th	10.00

All Ties Receive Duplicate Prizes

R. W. HAMILTON, Movie Editor, CANADIAN FARMER
Cor: Richmond & Sheppard Sts. Toronto, Canada

The RITZ-CARLTON

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J.

THE NEWEST HOTEL
AT THE WORLD'S MOST FAMOUS RESORT

European plan. Novel Ritz innovation; unique color scheme throughout; Restaurant overlooking Beach and Ocean. Dancing in Trelis Room and Ritz Grill. Single Rooms $5.00 up. Double Rooms $8.00 up.

All rooms with Private Bath and Full Ocean View

ALBERT KELLER
Managing Director

GUSTAVE TOTT
Resident Manager