This and That

(By The Janitor.)

Trouser cuff is under the ban, but there is nothing to prevent any man from rolling up his sleeves.

We heard one of Markdale's male hockey enthusiasts remark that Shelburne had a pretty good looking bunch of hockey players—meaning, of course, the girls' hockey team.

Standard advertising pays threefold: It pays the party who has something to sell; it pays the party who buys what he wants at the right price and it pays the printer's household expenses. Who wouldn't advertise?

The Shelburne Economist remarks that fresh air purchased with wood at five or six dollars a cord is a rather expensive luxury. If it were hot air, but there wouldn't be any kick coming when the thermometer registers 10 or 15 below.

The charge for hair cutting in Markdale is down to 25 cents, and now a lot of our old geezers are worrying because we haven't much hair left to cut, so that we could visit the barber several times during the year and thus make a big saving on the total bill.

Air pockets are quite common to the aviator, also to the woodpile. When in the latter they are useful for cats to make their escape from nasty dogs, and if properly proportioned by an expert wood handler, can be used to make a cord of wood look and measure like a cord and a half. And besides the janitor can handle a cord and a half of such as easy as an ordinary cord; also the ashes are lighter.

Weren't they mean? Those Shelburne girls came away up here and beat our little girls right on our own ice and with pa and ma looking on. But then didn't the Dufferinites get the same treatment in the first game at the hands of our girls. It may be that the girls are a little shy on letting the old folks see them get up too much steam, in case the same enthusiasm might be expected when fishes are to wash or other household duties are to be performed. Good night!

No Prov. Election in 1922

The Opinion of Hon. I. B. Lucas.

Discusses U. F. O. Prospects and Leaders—Hon. I. B. Lucas, in a recent speech, was

In my opinion the Drury Government is not going to be the country this year. The four year term will not run up until the summer of 1923. Premier Drury is on record as opposed to any Government bringing on a general election until the full expiration of the parliamentary term.

He went so far in his first session as to introduce a bill fixing a date for the general election, and making it impossible for the Government of the day to bring on an election at any other time, and only withdraw his bill when the constitutional objections were pointed out. He cannot now, purely political reasons advise the Lt.-Governor to fix an election date a full year in advance of the expiration of the regular parliamentary term, and retain even any semblance of sincerity or consistency.

I am not in politics, and I do not expect to be. I had 22 years of it. I still like the game, but I am afraid I must stick to law practice to make a living. However, I am still a pretty good old line Tory—wishing to do all I can in the ranks.

The U. F. O. Government cannot survive a general election in Ontario. The recent Dominion election shows it as a political organization, to be on the toboggan slide. I hope, as a business co-operative organization, interested in solving farmers' problems, it will grow in number and influence. But as a political organization it is the minority party in Ontario on Dominion issues, and the record of the Drury Government will make them still weaker on Ontario issues. The present Government while making pre-election promises of economy, has broken all speed limits in expenditures.

I ask my U. F. O. friends to ask themselves what specific promise of importance made by the U. F. O. Campaigners to the electors in the elections of 1919 have been fulfilled. Their pious platitudes, promises and professions are beautiful, but viewed in the light of actual performances, look rather cheap.

When I look over the two year record of the Drury Government I am almost persuaded to take another whirl in politics just for the fun of showing up the list of broken pledges and promises, but I must not talk any more along this line or I will be charged with making a political speech.

Premier Drury is himself a very interesting personality. He always makes a good impression on the platform. I should say he was the champion talker of platitudes in Ontario. His fluency and facility of speech are the very sources of his weakness. He can speak well upon subjects about which he has very hazy and inadequate knowledge or information. His fluency covers up his sophistry, but the weakness and greatest danger lies in the fact that his own arguments apparently convince himself. If I wanted someone to lead in an academic debate before a Church Society upon some abstract question, I could select Premier Drury. If I wanted someone to advise a Government or a business enterprise upon the proper course to take upon any of the difficult and complex problems that confront a Government—and Ontario has many of them—he is the last man in his Government I would look to for advice or direction. I would much prefer to see Manning Doherty. He does not talk so much, usually knows his subject, knows what he wants, and how to get it, and rumor says he does get it. I do not think Backus could have put his pulp deal over Manning Doherty as he did over Premier Drury and Mr. Bowman.

I would much prefer the advice of Colonel Carmichael upon any of these questions, to that of his leader. He is the man who defeated me in Centre Grey. I do not think he could do it again, but—well—perhaps—you never can tell—I may not be a good judge. He was, and is a farmer. He left the farm as an unknown man, went overseas, came back a Colonel, with a "D.S.O." two Military Crosses, and altogether a very distinguished war record. There must be something to a man who can do that. I personally take some consolation in the fact that I was defeated in Centre Grey by that kind of a man. The Colonel is not of the hazy variety, but he is the clear thinking, straight talking, hard headed Scotchman, and in my opinion, one of the most capable, and sanest men in the U.F.O. Government. That is what I have said before and what I think and what I am not afraid to say again about my political opponent in Centre Grey.

I have had sufficient experience in Governments, and with Governments to have some sympathy with them. I think, with very rare exceptions, the individuals in Governments are trying to do their best. I think there is a great deal too much and too harsh criticism of the motives of public men. The problems of Government are growing more difficult and complex year by year, and if these are to be dealt with in the best interest of all the people, we must have the best brains and the best hearts the country can produce in public and political life. It is not always necessary to attack the motives of public men in order to effectively criticize their political programs or administration of public affairs.

We live to-day in a favored land, opportunities as great and as big as ever came to any people in any age of the world's history are ours to-day. May we forget the small things, and the narrow things, and the mean things, and with fairness to political opponents, get into the higher realms of political discussion, and give the best that is in us to help solve the many real problems that confront us as a people. Let us in our public and political life prove ourselves as big as our opportunities.

New England W. I. Meets

The regular meeting of the New England Institute for the month of February was held at the home of Mrs. Ed. Wilcox on Thursday, February 16th.

The meeting was opened by the singing of the Ode and repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison. The minutes of last meeting were read and adopted and the Treasurer's Report showed a goodly sum of money on hand.

Cards of Thanks were read by the Secretary from Mrs. S. Breadner, Mr. H. Wiley and E. Thompson for candy, and from Mrs. Best and Miss Thompson for flowers and from Mrs.

Clark and Mrs. Abercrombie for hyacinth bulbs.

Mrs. S. Wiley read a splendid paper on "What are the best things in life?" First good health and second a Christian spirit. With these two anyone can accomplish anything they wish. It was decided to buy a coal oil stove for the church.

The meeting closed by the singing of The National Anthem.

Mrs. Wilcox then served a dainty lunch, after which a social half hour was spent in community singing.

The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. E. Boyle.

Canada Follows G. Britain

The London Grocers' Gazette for January 8th states that the consumption of tea in Great Britain and Ireland has increased 34% since 1913. They now use about nine pounds per head per annum in the United Kingdom and the increase in 1921 over the previous year amounted to 17 million pounds. This enormous consumption accounts for the great rise in the price of tea.

The consumption of tea in Canada only amounts to 4 1/2 pounds per head per annum, but it is increasing.
