Presentation and Address

On Friday evening, November 10, the Sligo and New England people met together at the Sligo school to meet their former teacher, Miss D. Ritchie, now Mrs. E. Craven. The following address was read: Dear Mrs. Craven— We, your friends of Sligo and New England, have gathered this evening to offer you our heart-felt congratulations on your recent marriage, and to wish you and Mr. Craven much joy and happiness through the journey of life before you. We feel that we cannot let this opportunity pass without in some way expressing our feelings toward you. During the year you were among us, as teacher, a strong bond of friendship was formed between us, which will not soon be broken. You lived among us as one in whom we could place implicit confidence for the training of our children to become efficient citizens, which after all is the chief aim in education, and when the daily routine of school duties was over, we found you ever ready to offer a helping hand in the social life of the community. We were sorry to learn that you were to depart from our midst, but stronger ties of love than ours have drawn you from us. Yet we are glad that the distance to your new home is not so great but we can mingle from time to time. As a small remembrance we ask you to accept these silver knives and forks and with them go the good wishes of your friends here. The pupils of Sligo School then read an address expressing their good wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Craven, at the close of which they presented their former teacher with a silver pie knife.

Post Office Department Does Big Business

Canada's Postal Service—Handles Over Half Billion Letters and Post Cards Annually. More than 500,000,000 letters and post cards, and some 350,000,000 newspapers are carried through the Canadian mails in the course of a year's business, according to figures prepared by the post office department. In addition, 50,000,000 parcels and 250,000,000 circulars, etc., are handled. The statement giving approximate figures for the year's business showed that in the course of 12 months some ten million money orders and six million postal notes are issued. There are 12,200 post offices operated and 12,400 mail routes. The summary of the year's business as indicative of the place of the post office in the business life of the Dominion. Translated into dollars, the mail service expenditure for a year was stated to be $15,000,000, and the annual cost of rural mail delivery service was $2,750,000. Postage stamp sales in the course of a year, it was pointed out, reach the enormous total of $28,350,000, while money order transactions entailed the changing of hands of $270,000,000. Postal note transactions totalled $25,000,000, and there was a deposit in post office savings banks approximately $25,000,000.

Grading of Hogs

Starting on Monday, of last week, all hogs purchased for shipment will be subject to grading, as provided by a new enactment by the Dominion Government. The idea is to encourage the production of a choice bacon type instead of the short, thick lard type hogs that are now being brought to market. Canadian bacon is not in great favor in the British market, having to take sixth place in quality. The new regulations will do much to encourage the production of what is known as Wiltshire Bacon, so popular on the European markets. In reporting the trade at Toronto Stock Yards the Telegram says: "The new system of hog grading started Monday, and this will necessitate a complete revision of prices. On the old basis of trading, prices were quoted unchanged. Commission men thought it would be some time before the new process would be in good working order."
