We, your many friends and well wishers, have gathered here this evening to present to you our heartiest congratulations and best wishes for a long and happy wedded life. It has been our privilege to enjoy and prize your acquaintance for the past year and we are unanimously delighted that our relations will not be severed by separation since you have taken unto yourself a life partner from our midst and become one of us. We have always found you a trustworthy friend, willing to turn your hand to anything that you realized would lighten another's burden. As for your cheery nature and love of wholesome sport,—we all have our special memories of your splendid comradeship. And we can assure you it only makes us wish there were more people in this world with the magnetic personality you possess. As a teacher, the children loved you and are loath to part with you—who were never too busy to brighten many a weary hour with your hearty co-operation with them in school and play ground. We are certain they are pleased that you are not going so far away, but they can see you often. As a friend, we find you one of the best, and we are certain that as a wife and mistress of a home you will shine in your true sphere, for, as we are all aware, that is woman's greatest privilege to make a home a veritable heaven on earth and to minister to the needs of those in that home. Therefore, to put our good wishes in materialistic form, we ask you to accept these various gifts as a small token of the high esteem in which you are held. Our earnest desire is that you bring that shower of blessing may attend every endeavor yours and illuminate every solemn pilgrimage. Signed in behalf of your many friends at Riverdale: Mr. and Mrs. Marion Small and Mr. and Mrs. Dunn Lee. Mr. Bowen, in behalf of his partner in life responded briefly expressing his sincere appreciation of the kindness of their friends and neighbors. Mr. Bowen and his charming and accomplished bride, formerly the popular school teacher in Riverdale, began a wedded life under the most auspicious circumstances and have the suppliant wish of the "citizen" of Riverdale for a supremely happy wedded life.—May their years be full of sunny days, and their eyes skies be blue, and the future ever see, their wishes all come true.
